SETTLE DOWN TO WORK

It was expected that the first session would be merely formal, but MacDonald and Premier Herriot showed that they intended to get down to work and very little time was lost in preliminaries. I learn that the Premiers are anxious to get the conference over in two or three days, and if it is then found that the discussion may drag on, M. Herriot, who is expected to remain only a short time, will propose an ad- journment for a week or two while experts are at work and con- ference in Paris or elsewhere for the final decisions.

Because of the opening session, optimism combined with Mr. Mac- Donald's enthusiasm and Dele- gate Herriot's wide knowledge of the way to find means of agreement, there is a great deal of confidence, he is told, that the greatest success in the history of the Dawes plan is now within their reach to obtain this. The two statesmen and fiscal experts, and the second, a majority for the Investors will be invited to subscribe to the $200,000,000 loan to Germany.

DAVIS HIT BY WHEELER

Montanan Flops to La Follette

Radical Senator Says He is Unable to Support His Party's Nominee

Declares He Will Not Run for Vice-Presidency on Independent Ticket

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, will not support John W. Davis, the Democratic Presidential nominee.

Announcing this decision today Mr. Wheeler, who directed the Senate inquiry into former Atty.-Gen. Daugherty's administration, said he intended, however, to support the Democratic State ticket in Montana and work for the re-election of Senator Walsh.

As for his own vote, Senator Wheeler said it "likely" will be cast for Senator La Follette. He declared, however, that he would not accept indorsement as a Vice-Presidential candidate on the La Follette ticket if it were offered him.

In a brief statement outlining his intentions, Mr. Wheeler said that when the Democratic nominee for President "is the attorney for the principal interests of Wall street I cannot and will not support him."

Coincident with the Montana Senator's announcement Parley Parker Christensen, Presidential nominee of the Farmer-Labor party in 1920, called on Senator La Follette to give personal assurance of his support.

Mr. Christensen is in Washington to attend the meeting Friday and Saturday of the national conference for Progressive Political Action, which indorsed Senator La Follette's candidacy. The chief problem confronting the committee is the selection of a running-mate for the Wisconsin Senator.

A dozen or more men, including Senator Wheeler, have been considered, but no decision has been reached. Mr. Wheeler's announcement was accepted by La Follette supporters as definitely eliminating him from the field.

A Little Lesson in Politics

PHOENIX TO HONOR RAIL EXECUTIVES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, July 16.—Tomorrow in Phoenix is to be Main Line Day, celebrating the proposed diversion of the Southern Pacific system through this city. President William Sproule and other officials of the Southern Pacific system this evening are the guests of the citizens of Tucson at a banquet, following several days of explanation and argument at El Paso. Tomorrow, possibly with President Walter Douglas of the Phelps-Dodge Corporation, owner of the El Paso and Southwestern Railway, they will be guests at a luncheon given by several of the commercial organizations of Phoenix and will have conferences with interested officials and groups. In the evening, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be a great illuminated street parade. Friday is to be devoted mainly to sessions in the chamber of the House of Representatives at the capitol, called by the State Corporation Commission at the request of the Governor, at which the representatives of the two railways will be quizzed on the subject of the merger and at which it is expected that assurances will be given of early construction through Phoenix and of operation of the new line on main-line standards.

FORM CLUB IN SUPPORT OF SAMPLE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL CENTRO, July 16.—Launching of the Congressional campaign of Senator Ed P. Sample of San Diego was announced in Imperial county by the organization here of a "Sample for Congress Club."

At a meeting attended by many leading valley citizens, the San Diego legislator was enthusiastically indorsed for the post in Washington from the Eleventh District. Plans were being laid today for a meeting here soon, with a banquet and rally for Senator Sample, who will be asked to outline his campaign platform.

The "Sample for Congress Club" is receiving many volunteer members from all parts of Imperial Valley who are avowedly anxious to aid in electing to Congress a strong representative who is in sympathy with the Washington administration. The recent indorsement of the San Diego Senator by Gov. Richardson has had a good effect in indicating to valley residents the esteem in which he is held as a legislator by the State administration.

DOUGLAS BROTHERS SPLIT ON SOUTHWESTERN DEAL

Sons of Late Phelps-Dodge Head Disagree on Merger of Road With Southern Pacific

The projected merger of the Southern Pacific and the El Paso and Southwestern railways, an Espee coup to keep the Rock Island from tidewater at Los Angeles, has stirred up wide differences of opinion throughout the Southwest.

The most interesting of these differences is between Walter Douglas and James S. Douglas, Arizona's famous brothers and sons of Dr. James Douglas, founder of the Copper Queen Consolidated and, until his death, head of the great Phelps-Dodge Corporation.

Walter Douglas, his father's successor as president of the Phelps-Dodge Corporation, vice-president of the El Paso and Southwestern and one of the prime movers in the merger of that road with the Southern Pacific, is one of the strongest proponents of the consolidation.

James S. Douglas, "Rawhide Jimmy," capitalist, extensive mine owner, railroad builder and organizer of the Tucson, Phoenix and Tidewater, whose realty and rights of way were taken over by the El Paso and Southwestern for the use of the Rock Island syndicate, is just as strong against the Southern Pacific's deal as his brother is for it.

Here is what each says about the project:

JAMES S. DOUGLAS

Now that the thing's over with, I can tell what I had in my mind when I organized the Tucson, Phoenix and Tidewater Railroad Company. It was my own plan. I thought I would put through a line to give the Southwestern connection with the Santa Fe at Phoenix and thus assure competition, at least, toward the coast, undoubtedly with the running through Phoenix of main-line trains. Then the Southwestern would have been in good trading position, "sitting pretty," able to throw its coast traffic to either the Southern Pacific or Santa Fe. The people of Phoenix and this valley would have been benefited enormously, possibly not so much in the way of tariffs, for those are fixed, but in the way of service, for this city would have had true main-line position. I never 'promised anything more than could have been fulfilled. I kept my faith with the people of Phoenix. Now I fear that you are going to be boobs enough to accept what has been put upon you. I'll tell you,

WALTER DOUGLAS

We have not sold out to the Southern Pacific and this idea should be dismissed by all who hold it. We have been in negotiation with that company for months past and finally have reached an agreement under which, if approval is received from the Interstate Commerce Commission, the roads will become associated through exchange of securities, the Southern Pacific to be the operating corporation and the Southwestern to have proportionate representation on the Southern Pacific board of directors.

The transaction has not been a forced one, on either side. It is a very logical one, in accordance with nationally-made plans, cutting down costs of operation and giving a double-track system through Southern Arizona and New Mexico. Especially we have specified that Phoenix be given all main-line advantages, this the more readily agreed to on the the showing that the conjoined Southwestern and Phoenix routings are better than the Southern Pacific grades west

CHAMBER TO TALK MERGER

Conference Called to Get Views on Proposed Combine of Espee and El Paso and Southwestern

A conference designed to determine the sentiment in the Southwest regarding the merger of the El Paso and Southwestern Railroad with the Southern Pacific was called yesterday by Frank Wiggins, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, upon authorization of the board of directors. The meeting will be held next Monday in the lecture-room of the Chamber at 12:30 p.m.

Invitations to attend the conference are being sent to secretaries of the chambers of commerce and other business organizations in Southern California and Arizona, to officials of the railroads entering this city and to Los Angeles city officials, in all about fifty organizations. The application for the railroad merger is now before

COOLIDGE TO FIGHT BACK

Drive Ordered on La Follette

Campaign Will be Carried Into Northwest for Rural Ballots

Advisers Tell President He is Much Stronger in Farm Districts

BY DONALD EWING
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 16.—President Coolidge has ordered his campaign directors to take up the challenge of Sentor La Follette, Republican, Wisconsin, and sail into the independent candidate's own Northwest for an extensive fight for the rural vote. Wisconsin itself, La Follette's home State, will be the center of a particularly vigorous Coolidge attack.

The President today received half a dozen political advisers from various parts of the country and to a man they told him that he was growing stronger and stronger in the agrarian sections and that in some of them he could beat La Follette to a frazzle.

And they found the President not only willing, but eager, for such a battle. Missouri, California, Ohio and even Bryan's own Nebraska, will be Republican strongholds when the votes are counted, the President was told, while some of the more optimistic advisers said he had a fair chance in Wisconsin and approved his plan for a battle there.

MAY FILE NEW TICKETS

In connection with the Coolidge Northwest plans, the President expects to file independent electors in Wisconsin and North and South Dakota, where the regular Republican machinery is controlled by La Follette. In Wisconsin all that is necessary is for his party to have polled 10,000 votes in the last primary election or to file a petition with 1000 signatures asking that his name be on the ballot. In North Dakota only 300 signers are needed and but 200 in South Dakota.

Among the first of the President's callers today was Raymond Benjamin, former Republican State chairman of California and regional director of several Pacific Coast States in the Harding campaign. Benjamin told the President he would carry California by 400,000 and that all of the Johnson votes would go to him.

Reports that Coolidge would win in Nebraska, where Charles Bryan, the Democratic second-place nominee, is Governor, were brought by Representative McLaughlin, Republican, Nebraska. He reported that there was much dissatisfaction there because of Bryan's failure to keep campaign pledges to the farmers and that a trend to Coolidge was noticeable. Even Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, would not be able to swing the tide away from Coolidge, he said.

SPLIT IN MISSOURI

Arnold Hellmich of St. Louis reported that the Democratic ticket was split in Missouri, that La Follette had made no impression and that the State consequently would go to Coolidge. Carmi Thompson of Ohio brought word that La Follette would poll a big vote, but that it would come largely from the Democratic labor element. Ohio was safe for the Republicans, he figured.

These reports gave the President great encouragement over the rural vote prospects and he was further pleased when Senator Brandegee, Republican, Connecticut brought him information that he would have no difficulty in the New England States.

During the day Chairman Butler of the Republican National Committee telephoned from New York and during a lengthy conversation said there was nothing to cause worry as to how business interests would vote. He figured that big business would swing unanimously to Coolidge as the only sure way of avoiding throwing the election into the House. Coolidge, early in the field, with a well-organized machine would get preference over Davis, despite the latter's Wall-street connections, he said.

Butler is expected to come here during the week for several conferences with the President.

BAY CITY NEWSPAPER ADDS TO DIRECTORATE

ESTIMATES OF TREASURY SURPLUS FOR 1925 GROW

New Cuts in Government Expenses Ordered by Coolidge Expected to Leave Large Balance

BY ARTHUR W. CRAWFORD
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Acting Secretary of the Treasury Garrard Winston, in addressing the first meeting of the Board of Tax Appeals today, announced that a revised estimate shows a surplus of $50,000,000 in prospect at the end of the fiscal year 1925. This is double the estimated surplus given by President Coolidge in his address at the semiannual budget meeting on June 30 and indicates that all likelihood of a deficit has vanished, notwithstanding the soldiers' bonus burden and the substantial tax reductions.

Mr. Winston warned that the new Board of Tax Appeals must expedite its cases as much as possible so as not to slow up receipts from the collection of back taxes which were amounting to from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 per month up to the time of the passage of the revenue law when a slump took place on account of the change in system of handling disputed cases.

The latest estimate of $50,000,000 as the 1925 fiscal year surplus does not take account of the further saving of $83,000,000 which President Coolidge has asked departments to make below amounts appropriated for their expenditures during the year. Adding these two sums together a surplus of $133,000,000 is a possibility. Adding this amount to $482,000,000 which, it is estimated, will be otherwise available for debt retirement, the total reduction in the public debt during the year may amount to $615,000,000 or well up toward the $700,000,000 annual average necessary if the $21,250,000,000 debt is to be retired in thirty years.

CO-OPERATION ASKED

The meeting of the Board of Tax Appeals, which was created under the new revenue law and which is an agency entirely separate from the Treasury, was called to order by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Winston, who said that while the Board was an independent body it was desirable that it should work in close co-operation with the Internal Revenue Bureau. At Mr. Winston's suggestion, Charles D. Hamel, who has served as chairman of the committee on appeals and review of the Internal Revenue Bureau, was chosen as chairman. Robert C. Tracy, executive attorney of the office of solicitor of the Internal Revenue Bureau, was appointed secretary of the board.

The twelve members thus far named by President Coolidge are, besides Mr. Hamel: J. C. Horner, B. H. Littleton, J. P. Smith and C. M. Trammell, all of whom have been connected with the Internal Revenue Bureau; A. E. James and J. S. Y. Ivins of New York City, John Sternhagen of Chicago, A. E. Graupner of San Francisco, S. L. Trussell of Minneapolis, W. C. Lansdon of Salina, Kan., and John J. Marquette of Washington, D. C. Sixteen additional members will be appointed by the President later on.

NINE GROUPS PLANNED

Some weeks will be required before the board is ready to begin hearings of appeals from decisions of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, these hearings being public according to a requirement of the new law. Regulations are to be prepared at once to govern procedure. The plan is to divide the board of twenty-eight into nine groups of three each with the chairman in general charge of all. The nine groups will sit at nine different points. The eight probable points besides Washington are Chicago, St. Paul, Atlanta, Kansas City, Dallas, Salt Lake City and San Francisco.

Changes in procedure in the Internal Revenue Bureau which are made necessary by the creation of

Birdmen to Rest in Britain Week After Rousing Welcome

Work of Putting New Motors in Huge Planes Will be Begun Today

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LONDON, July 16.—Six bronzed American birdmen, 244 flying hours out of Seattle and with two-thirds of the world's circumference behind them, glided into the Croydon Airdrome just outside of London this afternoon ready for their first real rest on the 'round-the-globe flight and for a week of preparation for their final dash across the Atlantic via Iceland and Greenland.

They left the Le Bourget Airdrome, outside Paris, at 11:05 o'clock this morning, fought headwinds all the way across the English Channel, but jumped from the continent in otherwise perfect flying condition and landed at the British airdrome just three hours and four minutes later to be greeted by a crowd of enthusiasts who nearly mobbed them as they climbed stiffly from their cockpits.

They tried futilely to get a good stretch before they assumed company manners to face the shower of greetings from the British and American welcomers.

NEW ENGINES

Tomorrow the planes will go to Brough for the installation of new engines and for a general tightening up process before they hop off some time next week for Kirkwall in the Orkneys, the last European stop.

The aviators' arrival was most casual, their only escort being a British passenger plane and several French military planes.

The greeting of the Americans, however, was not at all usual and the bobbies had a hard time protecting the planes and flyers from button, souvenir and autograph hunters, and wild-eyed, well-wishers who showered the six Americans with congratulations.

As the planes approached Mrs. Stuart MacLaren, wife of the British 'round-the-world flyer, excited as a schoolgirl, watched the ma-

GRAIN PRICES SET RECORD

Crop Failure Reports from Canada Cause Cereals to Soar on Chicago Exchange

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, July 16.—It was a red-letter day for high prices today in every grain pit on the exchange. Influenced chiefly by crop failure reports from Canada, wheat, corn and oats all soared above top record quotations this year. Even hog values at the stockyards felt the effect, and smashed the season top record.

Although official figures on the volume of trading were unavailable tonight, opinions from brokers were that the aggregate of wheat transactions today in Chicago equalled or perhaps exceeded yesterday's total, which was computed at 69,138,000 bushels, the largest amount on record in more than a year. Cor nbusiness done here today was also of mammoth proportions.

REACH CLIMAX

The climax in the wheat pit today was reached just before the market closed and was largely due to Winnipeg dispatches received by one of the principal grain firms here declaring that the crop damage situation in Canada was such as to warrant predicting $1.50 as the probable price goal of wheat.

One of the most significant developments in the wheat situation was the announcement that demand for newly harvested wheat in the United States had become so active that half the receipts at Minneapolis were from as far away as Oklahoma.

It was added that most of the new wheat arriving in Minneapolis was going direct to mills. In this connection, the fact was pointed out that wheat prices at Kansas City practically duplicated the action of the market in Chicago and jumped 5 cents a bushel.

COTTON JUMPS

NEW YORK, July 16.—Alarmed over increasing reports of damage in the Southwest from heat and drought, cotton traders started a buying movement today which whirled prices fully $4.50 a bale over the previous night's close. At its high point of 25.95, October was just $11 a bale over the low level of two weeks ago, partly owing to the arrival here today of 1500 bales from Bremen, to apply on delivery. The July contract did not respond fully to the strength of the new-crop positions. The market closed a little down from the top, but still 35 to 74 points net higher.

BREAK IN FIGHT ON RAIL MERGER

El Paso Chamber Refuses to Give Stand on Plan

Citizens' Body Wishes to Open Battle Immediately

Representatives Will Attend Los Angeles Meeting

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL PASO (Tex.) July 16.—Directors of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce and members of the city merger fact-finding committee came to an open break at a meeting held here tonight when the city committee decided to fight the proposed merger of the Southern Pacific and the El Paso and Southwestern and the chamber directors refused to make known their stand on the matter. The city committee wishes to begin their fight at once and has determined to take immediate action.

Even though the Chamber of Commerce refused to take a definite stand, the directors of the organization agreed to co-operate with the city committee and send representatives to Los Angeles to attend a meeting to be held there Monday of chambers of commerce of affected southwestern territory.

Citizens asked to attend a mass meeting Friday night and express their opinion so that the delegations from here may have a full knowledge of the wishes of the citizenry.

ADOPT REPORT

The meeting tonight did not arrive at a unanimous opinion, the subsequent debate finally resolving itself into whether or not a fight should be waged and, if so, if it should be started at this time.

Chamber directors asked that the city committee go on record as against the merger, but delay any statement as to its attitude on the merger. This was not acceded to when by almost unanimous vote the committee adopted the report of a subcommittee calling for active and immediate opposition.

The report as presented set forth these general contentions:

(1.) It has not been shown that any good will result from the merger.

(2.) It has been shown that positive evil will result.

(3.) The merger can be delayed and prevented.

Chamber directors discussed the report but took no action to approve it.

President A. H. Warren voiced the chamber's sentiment when he said:

"We have instructed our delegates to the Monday meeting in Los Angeles to say that we are opposed to the merger. We did not instruct them to say that the chamber is going to fight the merger. We haven't made any decision as to that yet. Upon the return of that delegation we will decide what our action is going to be."

SEEK COMMON FRONT

Last night's meeting opened with many expressions of the desire to arrive at a unanimous opinion to present a common front.

"We are not here to meet in opposition to each other," said Mayor Dudley, "but with the distinct understanding that we are to work in harmony for the good of El Paso. That is the intention of every man in this room. A free and fair discussion never hurts any one and we have met to see how far we can agree and to see what we can do."

"We are looking for the same thing," agreed Mr. Warren, "the best good of the community, and it is a mistake to think or to say that El Paso is going to be seriously hurt in any eventuality."

TELLS OF DEVICE TO BAN "LISTENING IN"

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND, JR. CLAIMS ISOLATION OF RADIO SENDER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 16.—A device to eliminate "listening in" or interference in radio transmission was described today by John Hays Hammond, Jr., who returned yesterday from Italy, where he had spent two months in radio work.

Complete isolation of sender and receiver is afforded by a method of sending out rays which have curves and dents in them, similar to the rise and fall of the pulse on a nurse's chart, according to Mr. Hammond. Only the receiver familiar with the wave type can read the messages.

The new method of transmission will also make it possible to flash complete pages of print across the Atlantic Ocean by radio, Mr. Hammond predicts.

The inventor expects to conduct experiments at the Vatican observatory in connection with radio reception for astronomical observations.

"In a private audience with the Pope," Mr. Hammond said, "I was interested to learn of his enthusiasm over radio matters, and he discussed with me the application of my work to the needs of his observatories."

DRY PARTY OFFICES TO BE IN HARRISBURG

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

HARRISBURG (Pa.) July 16.—National headquarters of the Prohibition party will be transferred immediately from Washington, D. C., to Harrisburg, Dr. B. E. P. In a statement announcing the change, Dr. Prugh took exception to what he termed the "superfluous references" in the press to a "third party," declaring the Prohibition party "has the only rightful claim to that name."

GEN. McRAE WILL GET PHILIPPINES COMMAND

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BROTHERS SPLIT ON MERGER

frankly, I don't like it. Whatever language you put it in the Southwestern has sold out to the Southern Pacific, while the Southern Pacific has agreed to build a sidetrack around by Phoenix.

I give you my word that when I sold there was no prospect known to me that anything else was going to happen than what I have described to you. But the Southern Pacific managers are wise and quick under the hat. They saw what might occur, and, by the expenditure of millions, by paying a whale of a price for the Southwestern, they are on the way to full control of all Southern Arizona transportation. The result probably will be worth the cost. But I have been opposed to the scheme since I first heard of it. Let me tell you, too, that any man who says I made any money out of my deal is a liar. I only got my money back with 6 per cent interest, and I've had some of it out for ten years.

of El Paso by fully 1 per cent. I need not enlarge upon the enormous value and importance of all this to the Salt River and Casa Grande-Florence valley,s opening a new era of business development and expansion to both.

We are Arizona people, in our mines and railroads, and we are sincerely desirous of conserving every Arizona interest. The merger would not have been considered if this new line had not been accepted. We know the main line has not come in just the manner that had been expected, but I am sure that the new plan is even better than anything that had been in contemplation before.

Naturally it has been a great disappointment to my brother, who honestly and sincerely had been working along other lines and who had hoped to see his plans carry through as he had laid them. This has been my only regret and it is my hope that he will view the project some day in its true light.

DEMOCRATIC CHIEFS NOT YET PICKED

Davis Fails to Decide on National Committee Head or Campaign Manager

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 16.—John W. Davis, Democratic Presidential nominee, spent several busy hours with political advisers today, but when he left for his home in Locust Valley, Long Island, late in the afternoon, it was said that he had reached no decision as to his choice for campaign manager or national committee chairman.

George T. White of Ohio, former National Chairman, was with the nominee today at the home of Frank Polk, Mr. Davis's New York headquarters here. Following his morning visit with Mr. Davis, Mr. White told the correspondents that the selections for the two important posts would be made before the day was over. However, when he had finished an afternoon conference with the nominee, Mr. White asserted that no choice had been made.

It was learned that Mr. Davis is consulting with his running-mate, Gov. Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, with regard to the appointments and that consultations which are being conducted by telegraph have not yet been concluded.

The Democratic standard-bearer also conferred with Clem Shaver of West Virginia; Gov. Silzer of New Jersey; David Houston and others. He announced that he was severing all legal and business connections.

Rich Publisher Is Charged With Kidnap Attempt

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, July 16.—Cortlandt H. Young, wealthy publisher of Young's Magazine and other periodicals, was arrested in his wife's West Ninety-fourth street apartment today, charged with attempting to kidnap their 3-year-old daughter, Rosabelle.

According to Mrs. Young, the publisher broke into the apartment, snatched the child from its bed and when the mother resisted, seized her by the throat. They were struggling when a policeman appeared.

The couple were separated in May, 1923, Mrs. Young charging her husband with cruelty. Before her marriage, Mrs. Young was Dorothy Campbell, a vaudeville dancer and Follies girl.

Saskatchewan Cities Wet; But Result Doubtful

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

REGINA (Sask.) July 16.—The outcome of today's plebiscite in the Province of Saskatchewan on the proposition of remaining bone dry or permitting sale of liquor for beverage purposes under system of government control, was uncertain at 6 o'clock tonight. Cities, apparently, were giving a considerable majority against prohibition, but the country districts were running fairly even.

ELECTION PETITION IS FILED BY GOV. HUNT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, July 16.—Gov. Hunt today filed with the Secretary of State the first gubernatorial petition under State laws. It contained 1512 names, more than enough, but will be raised to the maximum permitted, according to Private Secretary McCloskey. Circulation of petitions seeking to place Robert M. La Follette on the ballot as an independent candidate for the Presidency is expected. Only 750 signatures will be necessary.

NIGHT MAIL PLANES TO HAVE NEW FLARES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OMAHA (Neb.) July 16.—Night air mail planes are to be equipped with parachute flares, perfected by engineers of the service here for use when fliers have to make emergency landings. The new flares, which are to take the place of those used on the wings of the planes, are ignited by friction when they leave the ships, and cast a brilliant light over the ground for a mile as they slowly descend.

FORMER HUSBAND OF MME. CAILLAUX KILLED

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, July 16.—Leo Claretie, French journalist and former husband of Mme. Caillaux, was killed by a train today near Rennes. The cause of the accident is a mystery. His body was found mutilated by a track walker. Various articles of clothing were found several miles from the scene.

CHAMBER TO TALK MERGER

the Interstate Commerce Commission, but no date has yet been set for the hearing.

ATTITUDE UNDECIDED

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has not yet determined its attitude in the matter, but thinks it important to seek to determine the consensus in this and other Southwestern communities, says the letter of invitation which reads, in part, as follows:

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has received many inquiries from all over the Southwest as to its position concerning the merger between the Southern Pacific and El Paso and Southwestern interests, application for which is now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Up to the present time the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has taken no stand on this matter, and we are not in position at present to say whether or not we will enter appearance at this hearing or if we should, what our position would be. We do believe, however, that it is highly desirable that the sentiment of the entire Southwest should be known on this matter.

OBJECT OF CONFERENCE

It should de distinctly understood that such a conference is not called with the idea of formulating any policy, individually or collectively, in the matter, but only to give a vehicle for expressions of opinion of the different communities and interests concerning it, and to get out if possible at one meeting the sentiment of all of these communities and interests.

This action on the part of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is prompted by its great interest in the development of the Southwest territory and naturally any major moves in connection with transportation in this area are of great importance to all of us.

We are not sure, of course, that the sentiment of your community is definitely settled on this matter. If it is and if the sentiment of the Southwest as a whole is of sufficient importance to you that you would like to ascertain it, then we would request that you delegate a representative to appear in behalf of your community and authoritatively express your views at this time.

Plan of Loeb and Leopold to Kidnap Their Fathers Revealed to Officials

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, July 16. — Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, whose trial for the kidnaping and murder of young Robert Franks will open in a few weeks, planned to abduct their fathers for ransom, according to information brought to the State's Attorney's office today. They had planned also to make Thomas Loeb, 10-year-old brother of Richard, their victim.

Both plans, however, were rejected when flaws appeared, the informant stated. Loeb's father was ill and could not have been kidnaped without serious danger of detection, while in the case of Mr. Leopold, the youths believed that the fact that Mrs. Leopold was dead would make it more difficult for them to exact ransom from other members of the family.

Woman in Trek With Nomads in Forbidden Land

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, July 16.—Meridian Cooper, an American traveler and lecturer, and Ernest Schoedeack, a photographer, returned to Paris today after a three-months' trip across the Bakhtiari Mountains in Southern Persia. Nomad tribes were on their seasonal migration. Marguerite Hassison accompanied them on the arduous trip and now is sick in Constantinople. The three Americans are the first white people to cross Zassar Ku Pass in the forbidden country of the Bakhtiari. The migration included 100,000 animals and 5000 nomads, which went through passes 12,000 feet high.

NEW CATTLE DISEASE CASES IN TUOLUMNE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, July 16.—Another outbreak of the foot-and-mouth disease in Tuolumne county was reported today to the State Department of Agriculture. One herd of 782 cattle is involved in the infection. A similar outbreak among a smaller number of cattle was reported yesterday. In some of the infected areas no new cases of the disease have been reported for several weeks and officials of the Department of Agriculture are confident that the situation in Tuolumne county will be cleared up soon as a result of the vigorous control measures that are being enforced.

WHEELER FLOPS TO LA FOLLETTE

bor party and the Nonpartisan League, both committed to the doctrine preached by Senator La Follette, captured the machinery of the Democratic party in Montana and alienated from it the conservative Democrats. Senator Wheeler was one of the leaders who brought about this capture and he was rewarded for his services by being elected to the Senate in 1923, nominally as a Democrat, but in reality a representative of La Follettesism.

The seizure of the Democratic party by these non-Democratic forces was denounced in a public statement in September, 1920, by Senator Henry L. Myers, Democrat, of that State. In the course of his statement, Senator Myers said:

LAW DENOUNCED

"I had intended to offer my services to the Democratic State Central Committee and stump Montana for the Democratic party this fall, as usual, but upon my recent return from Europe I am amazed to learn that the Nonpartisan Leaguers, aided by a lot of Socialists and some Bolshevists, had entered the Democratic primary, captured the party in Montana and nominated its entire State and Congressional ticket, with the apparent object of putting in effect in Montana the orgy of State socialism, extravagance and high taxation which prevails in North Dakota, if not worse. . . . This is the result of the rotten primary law of Montana, which permits people who are not Democrats to vote in a Democratic primary and people who are not Republicans to vote in the Republican primary. . . . There is no reason why the Democratic party of Montana should be swallowed by the hybrid combination of radicals bent on ruination, and there is no reason why a Democrat should swallow their nondescript ticket. I refuse to do so. . . . There is no Democratic party now in Montana and Democrats should vote for the best interests of their State and country and for the best and most capable candidates, regardless of politics."

Senator Myers and his considerable following worked and voted for the Reublican candidate for Governor, former Senator Joseph M. Dixon, and contrived his election, Dixon's opponent on the so-called Democratic ticket being the present Senator Wheeler.

Nevertheless the Nonpartisan League and Farmer-Labor combination solidified its hold on the Democratic party organization, with which, by the way, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, who is up for re-election this year, has made his peace. The result was a so-called Democratic victory in the election of 1922, but it is significant that the total vote cast that year in the State was 20,260 less than the vote in 1920. In the Presidential election of 1920 Montana cast 179,006 votes, whereas in the election of 1922 it cast only 158,737.

After the Democratic National Convention at New York, an expert political observer reported fram Helena, the Montana State capital, as follows:

"The nomination of John W. Davis of West Virginia by the Democrats will throw Montana in the La Follette column, as things satnd today, unless conservatives of both the old parties unite on Davis or President Coolidge. W. G. McAdoo, owing to his strength with the railway unions, would have had a fifty-fifty chance to carry the State. The mass of the Democratic voters probably will regard Davis as reactionary and enough of them will flock to La Follette to make his election, in a three-cornered race, more than probable, unless the two old parties get together."

London Convention Hears Press Must be Free to Do Work of World

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, July 16.—Edward A. Filene of Boston, speaking today on "Advertising and World Peace" at the international advertising convention now in session here, said:

There is no factor in the existing background of world politics more essential than a public opinion thoroughly informed and well trained in the problems of democracy. And democracy is fundamentally government by public opinion. The greatest single instrument for promoting international understanding is the modern press.

If the masses of the people are to handle national and international questions intelligently they must have facts honestly presented to them. News is what makes opinion. If the newspapers are to present facts clearly and honestly they must be financially independent. Otherwise they will become dependent on income furnished by special interests with disastrous effects.

In practically all countries income from circulation is inadequate to meet publishing expenses. Newspapers, if they are not to be controlled by special interests, are therefore dependent upon their advertising revenue. It is advertising alone that makes a free press possible. And it is on a free press that we depend for intelligent and far-sighted public opinion.

International peace can be promoted in many ways and the method of such promotion through the press is only one such way, but it is nevertheless one of the most important ones. It is advertising, therefore, which enables the press to retain its independence, to seek facts and not humor prejudice, to promote the cause of international understanding through spreading the truth. That is the service of advertising to world peace.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

TOKIO, July 17.—The Norwegian freighter Halgrim, 6630 tons, was sunk at the entrance to Kobe Harbor after colliding with the O. K. S. Havre Maru, 5821 tons. The latter was damaged seriously. There were no casualties.

The Havre Maru had just completed loading at Kobe for San Francisco, while the Halgrim was arriving at Kobe from Aberdeen to which port she went from San Francisco.

Japanese Navy Hunts in Vain for Trace of Missing British Flyer

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

TOKIO, July 17.—Japanese destroyers have not yet found any trace of A. Stuart MacLaren, the British aviator, and his companions who left Yetorofu Island early yesterday morning for Paramashiru Island, Kuriles, a flight of 450 miles.

British officials, however, do not believe the aviators are in any danger. It is thought possible that they may have landed at Broughton Bay, Shimushiru Island, one of the smaller of the Kurile group, about half-way between Yetorofu and Paramashiru. Lieut.-Col. L. G. Broome, who blazed the trail for MacLaren, and who accompanies him on his present flight, laid a supply base at Broughton Bay in case of necessity.

The Japanese destroyer Isokaze has searched as far north as Shimushiru without finding any trace of the aviators. The destroyer Hamakaze, which was awaiting MacLaren at Paramashiru, is making a search of the Kuriles from the north.

The officers of the destroyers report that the weather is cloudy, but there is no wind.

Government's Counsel in Oil Scandal Litigation to Ask Early Hearing Here

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The government's special oil counsel, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, announced today they soon would ask the Federal Court in Los Angeles to expedite the hearing in the government's proceedings against the Pan-American Petroleum Company, involving cancellation of the lease held by that corporation to the Elk Hills naval oil reserve in California.

The members of counsel presented an informal report today to President Coolidge and announced that former Senator Pomerene would leave immediately for Los Angeles to ask for hearing on the Elk Hills case early in September.

The Teapot Dome lease cancellation hearings have been set for October and the attorneys said they desired to conclude these civil cases before taking up criminal proceedings involved in the recent indictment of E. L. Doheny, Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair and E. L. Doheny, Jr.

Flemish Fete Is Conducted to Aid Settlement

The Flemish kermess given for the benefit of the Los Angeles Music School Settlement at the Casa de Marguerita, 701 South New Hampshire street, last night presented a colorful spectacle of brilliantly costumed men and women.

Young girls in richly-hued Spanish shawls vended flowers, sweets, punch, coffee and quaint favors. Girls in the uniform of the gendarmes of Paris put guests under arrest and haled them before the judge, Guy F. Bush, where they were heavily fined, and Mirza Ahmad Schrab, Persian poet and author, who occupied a tent just outside the patio and told fortunes, were some of the features.

The patio was decorated with the silk flags of many nations, oriental rugs and Mexican serapes. It was here that the numbers on the program were given, opening with Manuel K. Ojeda's Mexican orchestra, followed by a quartet of Dutch girls, who sang compositions of Ella W. Duffield to her accompaniment. A legerdemain performance was given by Dr. L. M. Slocum, a pioneer showman in California, who has made his home in Los Angeles for fifty-two years. Varied entertainment features offered by many artists from many lands followed.

American Press Dispatches End by Brazil Order

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

BUENOS AIRES, July 16.—Authoritative advices received here today from Rio de Janiero state that the Brazilian government yesterday stopped the American press associations from sending or receiving news dispatches in Brazil.

Both the Associated Press and the United Press serve newspapers in Brazil and apparently the censorship has been so extended as to prevent the sending or receiving of messages considered unfavorable to the government's interests.

"It's wonderful, but I wish it were my husband coming home."

DYING FOR SMOKE

"I'm just dying for a smoke," said Lieut. Leslie P. Arnold, Smith's mechanic, when, with his companions, he turned for a hasty glimpse of a sheaf of letters handed to him by Maj. Howard C. Davidson, assistant military attache, representing the American Embassy.

The aviators, tanned by the sun, looked to be the better off for their 18,000-mile flight.

"It's an experience I wouldn't take a million for, but I wouldn't start over again for a million," Lieut. Arnold said.

There was an informal reception when the aviators landed. Frederick A. Sterling, counselor of the American Embassy, and Maj. Davidson represented the Embassy, Mr. Sterling presenting a letter from Ambassador Kellogg, who could not be present because of the opening of the reparations conference.

necessity of the delegates approaching the problems in a business-like way, which was the animating the Dawes commission work. He pointed out that the Dawes report was not in itself a final solution of the reparations problem or the reconstruction of Europe, but would clear the way and enable them to tackle all problems.

Mr. MacDonald attended a welcome to the Americans, and that while they were not delegates with full powers, their presence might be taken as an of co-operation with and toward the European governments.

M. Herriot, who followed proposed Mr. MacDonald for chairman of the conference, praised his speech, and Ambassador Frank B. Kellogg, speaking for America, said Americans were not present in the same capacity and with the same powers as the other delegates because the United States was not a party of the Versailles Treaty. had come, however, in the spirit of helpfulness.

COMMITTEES AT WORK

The conference then got down to business and after appointing three committees adjourned until tomorrow. The committees are to work at once, sitting this afternoon and tonight and it is hoped that they will be able to present at least a preliminary report tomorrow.

Sir Maurice Hankey of the British Cabinet was elected secretary of the conference. The British dominions were not represented at the conference and no delegates have yet been reached about the method of their representation. J. H. Thomas, the Colonial Secretary, was in waiting to assist MacDonald if needed, but was not officially representing the dominions.

The only cloud in sight is a possible disagreement over the question of French security. The British are insistent that the French shall abandon the policy of isolated action in case of German default. The French are declared to cling to this right unless they receive in exchange for it very definite guarantees of security from Great Britain.

WINNER WARNS OF MARKET

Farmer-Operator Who Took $1,500,000 by Corner in Corn Advises Others to Stay Away

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 16.—Valhalla of the Bulls and Bears gave up a niche to a strangely modest and retiring valiant who stepped into it with this advice: "Yes, I have taken my bit out of the market. Oh, quite a bit—but I would advise other men to stay away from it. If I had a son—which I haven't—I would keep him far away. I wouldn't let him touch it with a 10-foot pole."

Strange talk coming from Arthur W. Cutten, farmer and free lance Board of Trade operator, who cornered the corn market in the face of a declining price only to be vindicated by a killing of $1,500,000, more or less. But he said it in all earnestness.

"SORRY WRECKS"

"Why do you who have been at it a lifetime and made a fortune out of it say that about the market?" Mr. Cutten was asked.

He looked sad, sort of shook his head in a dejected way.

"Because there are so many sorry wrecks down there in the pits," he said. "People call them brokers. They are only part of that—the broke part of it.

"Not more than 10 per cent of the men who go into grain ever remain. They—the other 90 per cent—just dwindle away, pass out; Lord knows what becomes of them. And the 10 per cent who remain they are mostly the broke brokers—they know the game in and out. They can trade for other people, but they can't trade for themselves.

Mr. Cutten is even more than modest and retiring. He is virtually shy. It was only after a quarter of an hour of urging and steady verbal prodding that he would consent to talk of himself at all.

BOYISH, BACKWARD

The new corn king is a man of medium height. He is slender and has a well-tanned, leathery sort of countenance. His eyes are keen and gray. He has a small, close-cropped gray mustache. He was born in 1870, but he has something boyish about him, and is backward almost to the point of bashfulness.

And yet he must have great faith and vast courage, say those who know—did have them, they say. Faith to buy and keep on buying corn by the hundreds of thousands of bushels when all who ought to know thought it was folly; courage to buy and keep on buying when it dropped four and five points at a time.

TALKS OF FARM

He was asked more about those broke brokers he had mentioned. What was their failing? Why could they trade for others, when they could not trade for themselves?

"Their failing? Well, I don't know," he said. "There's simply something wrong—something missing. Perhaps it's their nerve. They lose their nerve when they're handling their money. So they have to trade for others on a salary; that's as far as they ever get and they haven't got a dollar."

Mr. Cutten would rather talk about his farm and his horses, stock hogs and tractors than about himself and the market.

He was born in Guelph, Ont.

ish concession. The police also struck in the French concession, but later returned to work, assisted by Indian guards. Additional precautions were taken by the city police in the placing of thirty-six armed police and squad detectives at gates and important places to prevent disturbances.

Today the strike had extended to shopkeepers' and rikisha runners, who also were refusing to serve foreigners.

The American gunboat Sacramento, the British gunboat Cicala, an Italian ship and others, are reported on the way here for protection of foreigners.

FIREBUG SUSPECTED OF BURNING CHURCH

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OAKLAND, July 16.—Fire, said to be of incendiary origin, last night destroyed St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church, for years a landmark of Oakland. There were three attempts to burn the church last Monday, according to firemen. After the third attempt had been frustrated, oil-soaked rags were found in the structure, they said. The building had not been used as a house of worship for some time and all furnishings had been removed. Firemen said there had been nine other incendiary fires in Oakland in the last two weeks.

Medical Board Cites Angelenos in Diploma Quiz

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SACRAMENTO, July 16.—Dr. Charles B. Pinkham of San Francisco, secretary and executive officer of the State Board of Medical Examiners, announced here today that Frank P. Young, former president of the Pacific Medical College, and one of the alleged asserted principals of the "diploma mill" ring, again has been cited by the board with the object of securing his appearance before the October meeting. The meeting will be held in this city.

Dr. Pinkham said that Young had been cited the first time several weeks ago but could not be located to be served with the order. Young is one of the nineteen persons named in indictments returned recently by the San Francisco grand jury on charges of conspiracy in connection with the "diploma mill" investigation.

SUITS OF ENGLISH FLANNEL IN SILVER GRAY
AS THERE HAS BEEN SUCH AN UNPRECEDENTED DEMAND THIS SUMMER FOR FLANNEL SUITS, ESPECIALLY OF SILVER GRAY, WE FEEL THAT WE ARE FORTUNATE IN BEING ABLE TO OFFER THESE HANDSOME MODELS OF IMPORTED ENGLISH FLANNEL AT A TIME WHEN IT IS SO DIFFICULT TO SECURE THEM.
THE PATTERNS ARE NEAT SINGLE AND DOUBLE STRIPES ON THE SILVER GRAY BACKGROUND. THE TWO-BUTTON COATS, BLUNT VESTS AND WIDE TROUSERS MARK THEM AS OF STRICTLY ENGLISH CUT.
WE'RE SINCERELY ENTHUSED ABOUT THESE SUITS, BECAUSE THEY ARE NOT ONLY GOOD-LOOKING, BUT EXCEEDINGLY FINE VALUES AS WELL. WE'RE PRETTY SURE YOU'LL LIKE THEM, TOO.

Memorandum Sent to Hoover by Shipping Board

Dropping Off of Elks at Boston Causes Complaint

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Charges that hostile foreign shipping interests, under the guise of opposition to flag discrimination, are "moving to attack and ultimately destroy the coastwise laws of the United States" are made in a memorandum addressed to Secretary Hoover and made public today by the Shipping Board.

The memorandum, prepared by Vice-Chairman Plummer, was forwarded by the board in connection with the sailing over a week ago of the Lamport & Holt steamer Voltaire from Philadelphia, to Halifax, N. S., and St. John's, N. F., with 550 Pennsylvania members of the order of Elks. Instead of proceeding direct to its destination, the Voltaire, it is asserted, dropped its passengers, who were delegates to the Elks' convention in Boston, for five days in that city, and then proceeded on its trip to Halifax and St. John's.

LINE IS FINED

Customs authorities at Boston since have fined the Lamport Holt Line $110,000, or $200 a passenger, for asserted violation of American shipping laws, excluding foreign flag vessels, from coastwise trade. The Department of Commerce, which had received protests from American shipping companies against the Voltaire's voyage, is understood to consider the case closed unless the British line appeals the decision of the Boston authorities.

The board's memorandum, written before the Voltaire sailed, declared the board had been informed that she was preparing to take aboard at Philadelphia a large party of Elks "to land them in Boston."

At the conclusion of the convention there, the memorandum said, she was to proceed to Halifax and St. John's and en route on her return, land the party of Elks again at Philadelphia, the pretense being that this is really a trip from Philadelphia to Halifax and St. John's with no real landing of passengers in Boston."

ASSERTED SUBTERFUGE

"Of course," the memorandum added, "the subterfuge of touching at the British ports of Halifax and St. John's makes this none the less a violation of the coastwise laws of the United States, which the Department of Commerce is charged to enforce."

"Under the guise of opposition to flag discrimination," the memorandum continued, "there is abundant evidence that hostile foreign interests are moving to attack and ultimately destroy the coastwise laws of the United States. That the present British and continental movement against flag discrimination includes a systematic effort to force the repeal and abandonment of the coastwise policy of this nation, was openly proclaimed by the president of the Liverpool Shipowners' Association in his formal address at the recent annual meeting of the association."

The Lamport & Holt liner Voltaire is owned by one of the member companies of the Liverpool Steamship Owners' Association.

"MA" STREETER WILL FIGHT

Organizes Billion-Dollar Corporation for Battle to Obtain 200 Acres in Chicago

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, July 16.—"Ma" Streeter, battling widow of Capt. George Washington Streeter, once famous insurrecto of Chicago's Gold Coast, today began a new engagement with her ancient enemies with the filing of incorporation papers of a billion-dollar concern which she hopes will provide the wherewithal for victory in her fight to control some 200 acres of Chicago's water front.

She plans, as told in her articles of incorporation, to sell immediately $100,000 worth of stock and with the money thereby obtained, to return to Chicago at once, and forcibly if necessary, to oust the present tenants of the disputed property—an estate now valued at $350,000,000.

TELLS HER STORY

"Ma," under her proper name of Elma Lockwood Streeter, heads the list of incorporators. And typically enough, she gives in the articles of incorporation what she terms "a complete history of the Streeter fight for justice."

She tells of how she and her husband, in decades gone by, stranded on a sand bar on Chicago's waterfront and there remained; of how the bar on which they "squatted" grew larger and larger and finally became a part of the mainland; of how, when the value of the land was established, she and her husband fought to maintain what they claimed as their right and title through their settling of the land involved.

She tells of a "notorious gang" which sought to dispossess them at the instigation of capitalists; of how she and her husband had been haled into court on charges which she avers were framed.

SAYS MURDER FRAMED

She relates the preferring of charges of murder against her husband, and charges that financial gangsters even murdered one of their own number that the crime might be laid to him.

She charges that this same element rammed and wrecked her steam yacht; that they sought at all times to intimidate her into leaving the property; that poison was placed on the boat as well as a still and moonshine whisky; that on one occasion the dead body of a baby was dropped into a funnel of the boat, later to float through a porthole and of how the baby was found later to have been "soaked in poison."

"Every manner of treachery was perpetrated" upon her which was "with the concept of black-hearted wretches who have not the courage nor the brains to earn such valuable property by honest means," the articles declare.

DEFENDED PROPERTY

Claimants to the property involved were granted possession through court injunction restraining interference on the part of the Streeters many years ago. When they sought to take possession they were faced with shotguns, rifles, and on one occasion machine guns behind earthwork fortifications.

"Capt. Streeter and his army" became a by-word in Chicago small talk.

They were finally dispossessed only on the appearance of superior forces armed and ready for battle. But from that moment on, numerous attempts at repossession were made by the redoubtable captain.

He was still battling in the courts for his "rights" when death claimed him several years ago. His widow announced at his funeral that she would continue the fight. The filing of incorporation papers is her first move.

CLEVELAND VACCINATES THOUSANDS

Three Streets Roped Off While Doctors Work to Prevent Epidemic

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CLEVELAND, July 16.—After 10,000 persons had been vaccinated as a precaution against smallpox a quarantine covering a district of three streets in Woodland and Central avenue was raised tonight by Health Commissioner Harry L. Rockwood.

A small army of physicians and nurses engaged in the work.

The quarantine began before daylight today with the roping off of all traffic and a police guard of seventy-five men remained in charge.

The wholesale vaccination was performed because of the discovery of two "walking cases" of smallpox in the territory Tuesday.

In one apartment alone 600 received treatment, and 800 pupils in a high school bared their arms to the needle.

Dr. Rockwood issued a public statement declaring that there is "no epidemic of smallpox in Cleveland, nor any great danger of one, but there is an epidemic of vaccination to prevent an epidemic of smallpox."

Killing of Army Man Confessed; Body Is Hunted

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ASHEVILLE (N. C.) July 16.—Maj. Samuel H. McLeary, missing army officer, was killed by Mortimer H. King, living near Canton, and a companion whose identity still is unrevealed by authorities, on the afternoon of the 2nd inst., says a sworn confession made at Canton late today by King. A search is being conducted for the body of the major, which is said to be hidden in the brush about ten miles from Cheraw, S. C.

The motive for the killing, according to King's confession, was robbery. After the major had taken King and his companion into his car and offered to give them a lift up the road, they compelled him to stop at the point of a pistol, forced him to get out of the car, shot him to death, and carried his body into the brush at the roadside, King declared.

GRIFFITH TO JOIN LASKY FILM FIRM

Independent Producer to be Associated With Famous Players

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 16.—David Wark Griffith, motion-picture producer, will become associated with the Famous Players-Lasky organization on the completion of his latest picture. The announcement was made today by Adolph Zukor.

Griffith has been an independent and individual producer for feature films for many years. His pictures "Way Down East," "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance" and "Orphans of the Storm" marked him as one of the leading screen artists of the country.

The new arrangement will afford the director an opportunity to concentrate on his super pictures and free him from the business side of the productions. The Lasky studios and organization have been placed at Griffith's disposal.

Both Griffith and Zukor have been associated more or less for some time and the announcement did not come as a surprise.

At present Griffith is in Berlin on business. A statement issued by the directors of D. W. Griffith, Inc., said the new arrangement met with their unanimous approval.

Among other work which Griffith is engaged in at present is the writing of a book on motion-pictures, in collaboration with Harriette Underhill, film editor of the New York Herald-Tribune.

DUNLAP HAS HATRED FOR WIFE HERE

Breaks Silence to Speak Ill of Mate; Officers to Start Back Tomorrow

Picturing himself as a henpecked husband, who had to wash the dishes and do the housework, Harry J. Dunlap, held in Detroit on a Los Angeles indictment charging murder and other crimes, yesterday broke his silence with a bitter tirade against his wife. He blames her for his present predicament.

Continuing in this mood, Dunlap declared his wife "wouldn't even take our little son to Sunday-school, so I had to take him myself."

While Dunlap thus was unburdening himself regarding his wife, Sheriff Traeger was obtaining an extradition warrant from the Governor of Michigan in Lansing, by which Dunlap's return to Los Angeles will be expedited. Sheriff Traeger and Deputy Dewar, who accompanied him to return the prisoner, expect to start back with Dunlap tomorrow, according to word received at the Sheriff's office here. The warrant on which the papers were obtained specifically charges the murder of Ray Durk and the assault of Hattie Zelmar near Los Angeles on July 15, 1923.

Dunlap emphatically denied he had killed anybody either in California or elsewhere. His talk was intermingled with expressions of contempt for the police. He admitted he was a thief, but insisted he knew nothing concerning the Jacobson-Zellner case.

"They haven't got much on me as it is," said the prisoner. "They call me the 'foothill bandit,' but I don't know why."

When asked to pose for a picture he refused, after pointing disdainfully to the red sweater that he has worn since his arrest.

BRAZIL REVOLT LIES IN COFFEE

Sao Paulo Growers Oppose Valorization Scheme

Agricultural State Leads in Political Affairs

Observers See More Unrest Than Capital Admits

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, July 16.—It is the belief of men familiar with South American affairs that the revolt of the people of the Brazilian State of Sao Paulo against the Federal government of Brazil is more serious than the official and unofficial reports have indicated. The rebels, operating behind the mountain barrier that closes them in from the sea, and surrounded on the land side by States that are loyal to the Federal authority, have been unable to communicate with the outside world. The central government at Rio de Janeiro has established a censorship so strict that no information has been permitted to pass it concerning the reason for the revolution.

Because of this, no one in authority here will venture an opinion for publication as to the cause of the formidable civil war that appears to be in progress. However, officials of this government who recently have been in Brazil and in Sao Paula report privately that an outbreak of this kind has been brewing for more than two years.

RICHEST STATE

The State of Sao Paulo, although containing only about 1,200,000 of the 30,000,000 population in Brazil, is the richest of the republic's twenty States. Within Sao Paulo is produced 60 per cent of the world's coffee supply. Less numerous than the population of some other Brazilian States, the people of Sao Paulo are essentially producers and traders and hence taxpayers. Sao Paulo and her neighboring State of Minas Geraes furnish more than 50 per cent of the Federal government's revenues.

These two States, or rather the politicians resident within them, dominate Federal politics. The Presidency of the republic passes back and forth between them. At present it is held by a citizen of Minas Geraes, but with the full consent and approbation of the politicians of Sao Paulo.

The anomalous situation is thus presented of the people of a State which is the most powerful in Federal affairs revolting against the authority of the Federal government. The explanation, however, is simple. Voting is confined to relatively few citizens. The revolt primarily is that of the nonpolitical, agricultural, industrial and business elements against the political element, and particularly against what is asserted to be too much interference by the Federal authorities in the business affairs of the people of the State.

SALE CONTROLLED

At the bottom of the revolution is believed to lie resentment against the national government's scheme for the valorization of coffee. This plan was inaugurated in Brazil in 1906 to maintain the price of coffee.

In its essence it is a scheme to curtail production. The present Federal government enlarged the scheme by putting into the 1924 budget provision for establishing a national "Institute of Permanent Defense for Coffee." This institute controls the sale of Brazilian coffee, first by restriction of the number of ports for coffee exporation, and second by the imposition of a tax of about 10 cents gold on each sack of coffee sold. This is a transportation tax, collectable by the railroads when the coffee is shipped, the proceeds of which go nominally to defray the expense of the Institute.

The chief burden of this tax falls upon the people of Sao Paulo. On top of it, the Institute has decreed that Sao Paulo may produce and market only 36,000 sacks of coffee this year.

Another Russian Cathedral Will Close Its Doors

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

LENINGRAD, July 16.—Although the soviet government allows the population full religious liberty, recent dissensions within the Russian Orthodox Church and Communist antireligious propaganda have forced additional churches in Russia to suspend services.

The famous cathedral of Kazan probably will soon celebrate mass for the last time and become an art museum. Congregations have been so small and the receipts so meager that the cathedral managers have found it impossible to meet expenses.

FIANCEE SHOOTS SICK MAN AT HIS REQUEST

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, July 16.—Slowly dying from an incurable malady, J. Zoznowski, well-known Polish writer, repeatedly begged friends and attendants at the sanitarium at Ville Juif to put an end to his sufferings. Today his fiancee, Mlle. Stanislawa Unicuska, visited him and was so overcome at the sight of his agony, she could not resist his pitiable pleadings. She shot him in the head and he is not expected to recover. Following the shooting, Mlle. Unicuska collapsed and officers sent to arrest her, left her in care of the sanitarium.

SEE SAVING IN GRAIN MERGER

Backers of New Enterprise Tell of Its Aims

Co-operative Laws Assure Producers Control

Firms Taken Over Provide Initial Capital

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, July 16.—The exact method by which American farmers eventually are expected to gain control of the $26,000,000 stock of the Grain Marketing Company, a merger of five of the country's largest grain-marketing concerns formed with a view to giving the producers ownership and control of selling and distribution "cannot be stated at this time," Millard R. Myers, representing several Illinois co-operatives, said tonight in commenting on the project.

"It is enough," he said, "to know that the property is to be taken over on a square-deal basis, and that the stock offered to the public shall be worth the money at which it is proposed to be sold."

The Illinois co-operative law under whose provisions the company was organized restricts issuance of common stock to individuals or associations engaged in producing the commodity to be handled. Another provision, however, permits the issuance of preferred stock which is not so restricted, "with or without the right to vote."

The articles of incorporation provide for $35,000,000 of preferred stock and $1,000,000 of common stock.

Financial men involved in the deal maintain that a saving of $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 annually is possible by uniting the grain concerns.

INSURE GROWER CONTROL

According to H. S. Ballard, counsel for the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, who has been acting as counsel for the grain-merger committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which has indorsed the plan with reservations, the co-operative laws contain strict clauses to insure producer-control of the corporation.

Grain producers say that the laws will probably be construed liberally during the period of transition.

According to Mr. Ballard, the provisions of the National Capper-Volstead Act that each member shall have but one vote regardless of the amount of stock he owns must govern the new corporation because it will engage in interstate commerce.

In explaining plans for the transition period, Mr. Myers said the initial working capital must come from the five grain companies whose properties are to be merged. These companies hold preferred stock.

FARMERS IN MAJORITY

"A certain type of preferred stock can be exchanged for property," Mr. Myers said, "and producers will be given time to absorb it. This will give the five companies control until producers have bought half the stock. There is a trusteeship of seventy-five to 100 farmers, and the farmers will have a two-thirds majority on the board of directors.

"We at the producers' end probably will take two months to make our appraisal of the properties. We will make no immediate effort to induce farmers to buy stock. This is not a stock-selling or promotion proposition, but the bringing together of grain marketing agencies which have abundance of capital and facilities for handling all the grain that is offered, and for working with the farmers elevators and other grain marketing agencies in solving the problem of orderly marketing.

"In this way they can bring to every grower the world's best market price for his grain."

The corporation contemplated under the act which the new concern takes advantage of," Mr. Ballard said, "does not control prices but effects savings for the producer."

Gray Silver, legislative representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation and an incorporator, amplified this statement by declaring "it is an instrumentality for distribution rather than a business corporation in the ordinary sense."

CONTROL GUARDED

Control of the company by a small group will be doubly guarded, Mr. Ballard said, not only by the one vote per member of the Capper-Volstead law, but by the Illinois Co-operative Marketing Act. This act under which the company operates requires that no stockholder own more than one-twentieth of the stock.

"No association," Mr. Ballard said, "under the act can handle for non-members products the value of which exceeds that of its members.

"The act limits dividends on stock to 8 per cent per annum and provides that all net earnings of the association, after deduction of a reserve fund not to exceed 2 per cent, shall be distributed back to the members, not upon the basis of stock ownership, but upon the basis of the business which has been transacted with that individual member by the company."

Three Hold-ups by Auto Bandits and Negro Thugs

Automobile bandits perpetrated two hold-ups and negro strong-arm men a third early yesterday, according to police reports. C. E. MacLeod of 1241 West Forty-second street, in an automobile with Miss E. Cameron at Twenty-fifth street and Second avenue, was held up by two armed men in a car who took $60 in cash and jewelry from him and then jerked loose his ignition wires so he could not follow.

Miss Edna Gaines of 961½ South Normandie avenue was walking at Twelfth street and Normandie avenue when two men approached with a car. One got out, threatened her with a pistol and took her purse containing $5.30. He looked at her rings but did not take them.

G. D. Cope of 529 East Fifth street was assaulted by two negroes at Fourth street and Central avenue. They knocked him down and took $40 from his pockets.

WAIFS FOUND IN COAL BIN

Search for Father of Boy and Girl Fails; Mystery Man, Withholding Names, Inquires

Juvenile officials were confronted with a mystery yesterday in the cases of Marian Elizabeth Coyle, 10 years of age, and her brother Thomas, 7, who were found in a coal bin in the Union Pacific freight yards on East First street.

The children were brought to the attention of the authorities with the filing of petitions by Frances Shambaugh of the Travelers' Aid Society, asking that the pair be provided for by the county until their parents or guardians could be found. The petitions were filed with Miss Cora D. Minear, calendar clerk of Judge Archbald's Juvenile Court.

NO AID FROM PHOENIX

According to Miss Minear, the children gave their father's name as Francis Coyle and said their grandparents lived at 344 North Seventh avenue, Phoenix, Ariz. A telegram dispatched to the latter address brought a reply giving only the purported address in this city of the children's father. Investigation revealed there was no such address as that given in the telegram, Miss Minear said.

One of the unusual features of the case, which the authorities are investigating, is that an unidentified man called yesterday at Juvenile Hall, where the two are being held, and inquired about them. On being questioned, the man declined to reveal his identity and was refused admission to the hall.

TOTS GIVE NO CLEW

The children could not explain how they came to be left in the coal bin, where they were discovered early in the week by a special officer of the Union Pacific Railroad.

Officials working on the case expressed the theory yesterday that the children might have been kidnaped and abandoned in the freight yards. An extensive search was being conducted to locate the father of the children and the mystery man who inquired about them.

LAWYER HAS BAD LUCK AS OWN CLIENT

Wife Wins Alimony Even if Mate Does Cause Her Woe as Witness

Mrs. Beatrice MacDonald, who is seeking a divorce from her lawyer-husband, Frank A. MacDonald, labored under a heavy handicap at her hearing for temporary alimony yesterday in Judge Guerin's department of Superior Court, but she won her point.

Mrs. MacDonald's trouble came from the fact that her husband acted as his own attorney. She was placed on the witness stand and her husband began to interrogate her.

"Mrs. MacDonald," the husband questioned, "how many suits of silk underwear have you?"

"Three, Mr. MacDonald," was the prompt response.

"Where are all the others?" the husband flashed back.

Mrs. MacDonald flushed, stuttered and turned appealing eyes to the court. Judge Guerin thereupon interrupted with the statement that it was an established fact that silk underwear has a tendency to wear out rather rapidly and the attorney abandoned this line of questioning to begin questioning in regard to the number of shoes his wife possessed.

In this manner the attorney ran through his wife's entire wardrobe to the obvious satisfaction of the women spectators in the courtroom and to his wife's indignant objections. Then he took the stand in his own defense and declared he was just about penniless. Judge Guerin, however, instructed him to pay his wife $185 a month alimony.

In her suit for divorce she charged that her husband beat and kicked her and that he forced her to sign over to him half of the community property after he had placed it in her name. Mr. MacDonald retaliated by filing a separate suit for divorce in which he named Lieut. Lannon of the battleship Tennessee as co-respondent.

Dorris to Hear Trial Date Set in Court Today

Charles W. Dorris, who was indicted for murder on two counts by the county grand jury last Tuesday, will make his first appearance in Superior Court this morning. He will be arraigned before Superior Judge Crail, who will set the date for his trial.

Dorris is charged with killing his wife, Mrs. Theresa Dorris, and Henry Dietrick Meyer, wealthy Pasadena business man, during a quarrel in Dorris's Long Beach apartment on June 30, last. Dorris was arrested by Long Beach officers and later released on $50,000 bail. The bond was canceled a few days after his arrest and he was lodged in the County Jail.

WIFE FAILS TO APPEAR; MATE GIVEN DECREE

HER COMPLAINT CHARGED THREE SUCCEEDED TO HIS AFFECTIONS

Although Mrs. Bessie Barker charged she had three successors in the affections of Thomas J. Barker, she failed to appear yesterday in Judge Fleming's court and a divorce was awarded Barker on his cross-complaint charging desertion.

In her complaint Mrs. Barker declared her husband told her he loved another and she could get out. She got out and the "other" moved in, it was charged. But she interested Barker only two and a half months, Mrs. Barker charged, and then he made way for another. According to Mrs. Barker, at the end of eight more months, a third other was installed in the Barker domicile, and still was there at the time the complaint was filed.

Barker denied all this and said his wife left for no reason at all.

McCOMAS RITES TODAY

Former Comedian in Films Was Native of Los Angeles

Funeral services for Ralph C. McComas, 35 years of age, former motion-picture comedian and for the last three years head of the Western Distributors, a film accessory house, will be conducted at 10 a.m. today from the Robinson-Adair mortuary. Burial will be in the Hollywood Cemetery.

Mr. McComas died Sunday at San Luis Obispo. He was born in Los Angeles and spent virtually his entire lifetime here. He had appeared in many motion-picture comedies with many of the best-known men and women funsters of the screen. Mr. McComas was a Mason and a member of the Shrine. He leaves a widow, residing at the family home at 1620 Lucille avenue.

THEORY OF SUICIDE IS ACCEPTED

La Habra's believed murder mystery, which centered around the finding of the body of Mrs. Mary Lawrence with the top of her head shattered by a shotgun charge Tuesday afternoon, simmered down to what officials say is a case of suicide yesterday.

The body of Mrs. Lawrence was found on the kitchen floor in her home. A shotgun with a discharged shell in each barrel was near the body. On the kitchen table a note had been left. "I did it. I had to do it. I felt so bad," the note stated. Her husband was working in a neighboring field at the time.

Deputy Sheriffs Stensland and Weir exploded the murder theory. Their findings indicated that the fatal shot had ranged upward, the weapon being fired with the butt resting upon the floor. Powder burns were found within the wound. Specimens of Mrs. Lawrence's handwriting were compared with the handwriting of the farewell note. They were written by the same hand.

Despondency over her separation from her children was given as the cause for Mrs. Lawrence's suicide.

Petition Filed for Vote Upon Power Scheme

As the first step toward submitting a proposed $16,000,000 power bond issue to the electorate at the State primary on August 26, the Citizens' Power Bond Committee yesterday filed with City Clerk Dominguez an initiative petition carrying 89,000 signatures. The number required was 21,000.

Proceeds from the proposed bond issue, plus surplus earnings of the Power Bureau for the next three years, will be applied, if the issue is authorized, to extensions of the municipal electrical distributing system. The amount of the issue is the sum fixed by the State Railroad Commission—$5,000,000 less than the sum asked by the Power Bureau at the special election last May.

TRIAL OF MOTORIST IN FATALITY IS BEGUN

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGED TO DRIVER IN DEATH OF WORKMAN

The trial of Franklin Taylor Adkins, whose automobile struck a workman on Long Beach Boulevard recently and threw him against another workman with such force that the second was killed, was opened yesterday in Judge Burke's department of Superior Court. Adkins is charged with manslaughter.

The car driven by Adkins, according to evidence adduced by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Howell Richardson, struck a tar bucket in the road. The machine swerved toward a group of workmen employed in rebuilding the road at this point. It struck one of the men, throwing him against another, Panteleon Acosta. The latter was knocked to the pavement with such force his skull was fractured.

WIFE WANTS AUTO BACK, NOT HUBBY

Woman Reports to Police That Broker Disappeared Taking Fine Car

"I'm glad my husband is gone, but I want my car back." Mrs. Winifred Hayes, wife of Baron Hayes, Los Angeles broker, yesterday expressed in this way the blank left in her life by the departure of her husband.

Mrs. Hayes reported to the police yesterday day her husband has disappeared and also a fine automobile. She said she left the car in front of her house and when she came back, it was gone. Another car, which her husband used, was in its place, she said. Mr. Hayes has a key to the large car, she declared.

The broker and his wife separated last Friday after a little more than five months of married life, according to Mrs. Hayes.

Yesterday, when interviewed at her home, 684 Westmorland avenue, the wife characterized her married life as one full of disillusion. Her husband lost $20,000 in his brokerage business during the few months he operated here, she said. Mrs. Hayes declared she had helped him frequently from her private fortune, which is reported to be more than $200,000.

Hayes's career as a broker has brought him before the State Corporation Commission and decision is now pending whether his license should be revoked. He is also being sued by Joseph Leopold, former Chicago grain merchant, whose arrest he caused early in June on a charge of disturbing the peace. Hayes accused Leopold of trying to force his attentions on Mrs. Hayes.

"That affair was such a mistake," Mrs. Mayes said yesterday. "My husband shouldn't have had Mr. Leopold arrested. It just brought unpleasant publicity to me."

At least one complaint has also been made against Hayes to the State Labor Bureau. It was declared yesterday by officials there. They said a former employee of the broker charges failure to pay salary. The board has addressed a letter to Hayes, it was said.

Mrs. Hayes plans to ask for a divorce at an early date, on the grounds of incompatibility, she declared yesterday.

She is the former wife of Colburn Little of Kensington, Eng.

Settlement Is Made in Divorce Suit of Dentist

A settlement was arranged in court yesterday in the divorce suit of Mrs. Helene Sparrevohn against Dr. Holger Sparrevohn, a dentist, before Dr. Sparrevohn's cross-complaint was reached, and Judge Gregory reserved decision, though intimating he would grant Mrs. Sparrevohn a decree. The settlement, it was said, will lead to a dismissal of the dentist's suit against Alfred Durand for $100,000 for asserted alienation of Mrs. Sparrevohn's affections.

The case began Tuesday when the court listened to what happened in the Sparrevohn kitchen when, it was asserted, a still blew up.

The agreed settlement gives Mrs. Sparrevohn the home and furniture in the Wilshire district and the custody of the younger child. Dr. Sparrevohn keeps his office equipment, gets the custody of the older child and pays no alimony.

Dr. Sparrevohn named Durand in his cross-complaint. At the settlement Judge Gregory said no evidence whatever had been offered supporting the dentist's charges.

ARCHBALD TO ADDRESS JUVENILE CONFERENCE

INVITATION IS ACCEPTED TO NATIONAL CONVENTION AT SALT LAKE

Harry R. Archbald, judge of the Juvenile Department of Superior Court, yesterday accepted an invitation to address the National Conference of Juvenile Agencies, which will convene its twenty-first session at Salt Lake City August 16. Judge Archbald will speak on "The Youth of Today, From the Judicial Standpoint." This is said to be the first occasion within several years that a Los Angeles county jurist has been honored with an invitation to address the conference.

The conference will devote its attention principally to the four subjects of education, mentality, health and recreation. Representatives of juvenile agencies throughout the nation are expected to attend the convention, which will be adjourned August 21. Sessions of the American Prison Congress will be conducted in connection with the conference.

The invitation to Judge Archbald to address the convention was tendered by Hobart H. Todd of Industry, N. Y., secretary-treasurer of the organization. Judge Archbald said yesterday he planned to leave for Salt Lake City about August 14.

Recovers Health By Use Of Karnak

A. W. TAYLOR

Prominent Oklahoma City Business Man Who Tells of Remarkable Experience With Celebrated New Medicine

That the sensational new medicine Karnak has relieved him of twenty years of suffering and restored his health after all other means had failed is the astonishing statement of Mr. A. W. Taylor, well-known business man residing at 816 East Tenth Street, Oklahoma City.

"I think it is my duty to let the public know what Karnak has done for me," said Mr. Taylor in making public his experience. "For twenty years before I got this remarkable medicine I had not seen a well day and I frequently had to leave my business and go home to bed. Nothing I ate seemed to digest properly, I was continually bothered with terrific headaches, sluggish liver and constipation, and severe pains extending from my right side to my back kept me in constant torment. I had about made up my mind to undergo an operation to see if it would help me, but a friend got me started to taking Karnak and I would not take anything on earth for what the medicine has done for me. My digestion is splendid, the other troubles are also gone, and I feel better than I have in years and years. I consider Karnak worth its weight in gold."

Mr. Taylor's statement is typical of hundreds of others being made about the famous new medicine.

Karnak is sold by all Owl and Sun Drug Stores.—[Advertisement.

WOOD PLEDGES LEGISLATIVE AID

Philippines Chief Gives His Annual Message

Promises to Co-operate on Constructive Laws

Would Modify Leasing of Public Domains

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

MANILA, July 16.—Gov.-Gen. Wood, in his message to the Philippine Legislature, which convened today, assured that body of the full co-operation of the executive branch of the government in the enactment of constructive legislation looking toward the upbuilding of the Philippines' economic independence by encouraging business and the development of the islands' vast natural resources, and by increasing revenues.

The message recommends such modification of the laws governing the leasing of the public domain as will encourage the cultivation of rubber and other products to which the islands are adapted, and declares:

"A most creditable progress and a marked advance in political development have been made, but very little has been done to encourage economic development. Yet, upon this and the further progress of education in the government's activities, political development very largely depends."

The Governor-General says that the public health has been good, the death rate having been the lowest on record.

The message did not refer to any political issues. It is believed that no important legislation will be enacted for several weeks as the legislative leaders are in the United States with the Philippine independence mission at present.

HUNT SAYS ANGELENOS HAVE NERVE

Arizona's Governor Riled by Colorado River Water Plan of Southland

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, July 16.—"What do I think about?" I think they have their nerve," was the response of Gov. Hunt when advised of plans under which other cities of Southern California might join with Los Angeles in obtaining water from the Colorado River.

"They only want to take the whole river," he exclaimed, "but we are not going to give them anything of the sort—not if we can help it."

"You know," the Governor continued, "while on my northern trip I heard of a party of Los Angeles people who went down into the Grand Canyon. What do you think they did? They pasted on the rocks a lot of stickers that proclaimed that the canyon was 'a suburb of Los Angeles.' That seems to be the Los Angeles attitude. Can you beat it?"

At no point in the brief interview did the Governor indicate that the flow and power of the Colorado should be considered in other light than as the property of the State of Arizona.

Leading questions concerning the Democratic nomination for the Presidency failed to obtain definite response, though there was intimation that thought had been devoted to the subject. The Governor and his supporters were strong for McAdoo and appear to be taking a few days to consider the subject. One of the delegates, C. W. Hinchcliffe of Tucson, a McAdoo and Hunt partisan, is back from New York, with nothing to say concerning the nominee.

PLAN NEW AIR MAIL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. LOUIS, July 16.—A plan for one-day mail service between St. Louis and New York by airplane and train has been submitted to the St. Louis Clearinghouse by the Robertson Aircraft Corporation. The service would be by air to Pittsburg and by fast train from there to New York, requiring sixteen hours and forty minutes. It is said such a plan would save the clearinghouse much in interest losses.

CLOTHING PRICE FOUND TOO HIGH

Agriculture Department in Search for Reasons

Paradoxical Low Quotation on Raw Wool Cited

Slump Continues in Face of Tariff on Imports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, July 16.—In its effort to determine the reason for the present low price of raw wool in the face of reduced wool supplies and decrease in the number of sheep in the principal wool-producing countries of the world, the Department of Agriculture has found clothing prices too high.

"All branches of the textile and clothing trade regard clothing prices as too high," says the department, "but each feels that economies can best be effected by the others. Retailers feel that any reductions must take place in the manufacturers' selling price. The clothing manufacturers contend that the present wage scale makes it impossible to effect economies in production costs.

REMEDY IS SEEN

"Some of the clothing manufacturers and wholesale dealers feel that more efficient organization in the retail trade would bring about lower clothing prices."

Raw wool is a comparatively small factor in the price of clothing, the department adds, an all-wool suit averaging about five pounds of wool, and the difference between a high-priced and a low-priced suit being mostly in the quality of linings and findings, and the labor used in making the cloth and the suit.

"The present low price of raw wool cannot continue in the face of reduced supplies, unless a radical change takes place in the consumption of woolen clothing by the American public," the department states. "American wool growers are receiving 20 cents a pound less for their wool now than a year ago, despite low world stocks, decreased imports during the last ten months, and a decrease in the number of sheep in the principal wool-producing countries of the world.

IMPORTS FALL OFF

"Curtailed buying of woolen goods and clothing, because of high prices, backward seasons, high rents, changes in style of women's wear, two-pants suits, and increased use of silk and cotton goods, have been advanced by the trade as the reason why the prices of raw wool are under those of a year ago, despite the American import tariff on wool.

"The price of raw wool in Boston is approximately 18 cents a pound lower than the London price plus import duty, resulting in increased imports and the re-exporting of large quantities of foreign wools imported into the United States and held in bond. Total wool imports into the United States in the ten months ended April 30, 1924, were 200,000,000 pounds as compared with 438,000,000 pounds the corresponding ten months a year ago."

FRIEND SLAYS HUNTED MAN

Wyoming Cashier Sough in Pay-Roll Theft is Shot Dead; Plunder Found Cached Near By

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

ROCK SPRINGS (Wyo.) July 16.—Clyde N. Fisher, cashier of the Gunn-Quealy Coal Company here, who disappeared yesterday morning at the time the semimonthly pay roll of the company vanished, was shot and fatally wounded early this morning by J. Walker, mine foreman and friend of Fisher. He died a few hours later without making a statement.

Walker, who was one of several who had been searching for Fisher soon after the disappearance of the mine pay roll, encountered the cashier a few miles from town about 1 o'clock this morning. Called upon to throw up his hands, Fisher is said to have complied by raising one hand. The other, in which he carried an object, remained at his side. Walker, declaring he believed Fisher had a revolver, opened fire and the cashier fell to the ground. Walker approached and found that the object in the man's hand was a water bottle. Fisher was taken to a hospital, where he died.

Search of the vicinity where the shooting occurred revealed a cache of food, water and blankets, also the entire amount of the pay roll, more than $6000, with which Fisher is asserted to have fled after obtaining it from a bank.

Fisher, according to the police and mine company officials, dashed from the bank with a pay roll and escaped in an automobile shortly before noon yesterday. Posses on horseback and in automobiles were soon in pursuit.

Two airplanes from a flying circus here were pressed into service and for several hours they circled overhead in an unsuccessful effort to locate the fleeing cashier. Early last night, Fisher's abandoned automobile was discovered several miles from town.

Fisher had been in the company's employ six years. He leaves a widow and two children, who, acquaintances here say, live in Iowa.

RESCUE SHIP NOW HELD-UP FOR REPAIRS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—The northward cruise of the power schooner Herman, bound for Alaska and Siberia to trade furs and for Wrangel Island to rescue a party left there about a year ago, has been delayed by a mishap in the engineer room, according to word received here yesterday. A letter from Sidney Snow, son of H. A. Snow, Oakland, explorer, said the vessel was lying at St. Lawrence Island, southwest of Nome, Alaska, awaiting receipt of a new crankshaft to replace one broken some days ago.

When people travel, their object is to reach a definite place. The first question to be answered is, "Where?"

In house-hunting, the first point the prospective tenant decides is what locality he wishes to move to. As in traveling, the question of "Where?" precedes all else.

POLICE HOLD AFFIDAVIT IN DORRIS CASE

Say Paper Has Direct Bearing on Long Beach Murder Investigation

A new affidavit said to set out evidence believed by the police to be among the most important unearthed against Charles W. Dorris, under indictment for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Therese M. Dorris, and his business partner, Henry D. Meyer, at Long Beach, June 30, is in the hands of the Long Beach police.

The document was being held by Detective Franks of the Long Beach department last night and the contents would not be divulged by him, he said, until permission is obtained from Detective Mozeley in charge of the Long Beach angle of the investigation.

It is understood the document was sworn to by a woman, a resident of an eastern city, who declared she heard a conversation between Dorris and Meyer, in which the $25,000 note Dorris asserts Meyer owed him was discussed.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Dennison stated that the affidavit will form the most damaging evidence yet discovered. According to Dennison it indicates that Dorris planned the slaying of his business partner and that Mrs. Dorris's death was accidental.

Meanwhile Capt. Worley of the Long Beach Detective Bureau and Capt. Hunter, chief investigator of the District Attorney's office are on their way to Seattle from San Francisco in search of a former owner of the .32 caliber "mystery" gun, found in the Dorris apartment immediately after the dual shooting.

According to a telegram received from Worley today by Chief J. C. Yancy, Worley and Hunter discovered clews in the Bay City which make the trip to Seattle advisable as the pair had learned the name of the former owner of the weapon, who is now said to be in Seattle.

BEAUTY OF STATE WINS DIPLOMAT

Argentine Minister to Japan Arrives to View California Wonders

California—to Dr. Sergio Garcia Uriburu, newly appointed Argentine Minister Plenipotentiary to Japan, who arrived in Los Angeles last night on the way to his new post—means the land of the heart's desire.

Consequently, in his suite of rooms at the Biltmore Hotel last night, he eagerly anticipated his first trip of inspection through the Southland. He has allowed ten days for his visit to Southern California and while here will be the guest of his nephew, Dr. J. Z. Uriburu, a former member of the Argentine diplomatic corps, who is now a resident of Los Angeles.

"I have always heard of California as the wonder spot of the world," the Minister said. "I want to feel your sunshine, see your orange groves, see your famous beautiful women—and dance, for like other Argentines, I am fond of the tango."

Dr. Uriburu arrived on the Sunset Limited over the Southern Pacific. He was greeted at the depot by his nephew and a party of old friends from South America who now make their home in Los Angeles. They were Dr. O. Robledo, M. L. Ayulo, Peruvian Consul to Los Angeles; Henry C. Niese, Argentine Consul to Los Angeles, and J. T. Butler. Also included in the welcoming party was R. B. Graham, passenger agent of the Southern Pacific.

Following his visit to his nephew, Dr. Uriburu will go to San Francisco and then to Seattle. He will sail from Seattle on the 31st inst. for Tokio to present his credentials and take charge of the diplomatic affairs of the Argentine in Japan.

The new Minister has been active in the Argentine diplomatic and Consular services for many years. He was at one time Consul-General in New York City and was more recently Consul-General at London, which position he was holding when he received the appointment to Japan.

REPEAL OF PARK PLAN LAW ASKED

Opponents of Hollywood Scheme Gather Despite Dropping of Project

Despite the announcement by the board of directors of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce that the proposal to extend a boulevard park through the center of Hollywood had been abandoned, a meeting called to protest against the plan was held according to schedule in the auditorium of the Hollywood High School last night.

Instead of protesting against the park strip, however, speakers advocated the repeal of the 1909 Improvement Act, under which it was proposed to establish the strip; suggested that the thirty-six acres of Olive Hill be purchased for a park and called upon the directors of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce to define the limits of the territory they serve with an end in view of determining whether all sections within that territory are adequately represented upon the board.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the South Hollywood Improvement Association with an attendance of 350. G. W. Vandegrift, president of the Hollywood-Vermont Improvement Association, presided.

Among those who spoke were M. L. Garrigus and W. E. Burnham, president and secretary, respectively, of the South Hollywood Improvement Association; L. H. Booker, representative of the Dayton Heights Civic Center; Mrs. Will E. Chapin and Mrs. Theodore Roberts, wife of the motion-picture actor.

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

Coolidge Contenderá en el Noroeste contra La Follette

WASHINGTON, Julio 16. — El Presidente ha ordenado a los directores de su campaña que acepten el reto del Senador La Follette, republicano de Wisconsin, y vayan a contender por el voto rural en el Noroeste, que es el propio terreno del candidato independiente. El Estado de Wisconsin mismo, que es la tierra natal de La Follette, será el centro de un ataque especialmente vigoroso por parte de Coolidge.

Hoy recibió el Presidente a una docena de consejeros políticos de varias partes del país, y todos a una le comunicaron que estaba cada día más fuerte en los distritos agrarios, y que en algunos de ellos podía hacer añicos a La Follette.

Y se encontraron con que el Presidente estaba no sólo dispuesto, sino ansioso de entrar en esa lucha. Missouri, California, Ohio, y aun Nebraska mismo, el Estado de Bryan, serán baluartes republicanos cuando se cuenten los votos, según los informes que se han dado al Presidente, y algunos de sus más optimistas consejeros le manifestaron que tenía buenas probabilidades en Wisconsin, y aprobaron su plan de luchar allí.

En tanto que se celebraban esas conferencias en la Casa Blanca, en el campo de La Follette se celebraba otra con el objeto de contrarrestar los planes formados por el Presidente. En esta conferencia se anunció que el Senador Wheeler, demócrata de Montana, y acusador en la comisión investigadora del asunto de Daugherty, había proclamado que apoyaba a La Follette y que haría campaña por todo el Noroeste para combatir a los republicanos. Algunos supusieron que esta noticia significaba que tal vez Wheeler sería compañero de designación de La Follette, como candidato a la vicepresidencia. Para todo significó la confirmación de la noticia de que La Follette haría poca campaña personal en el Noroeste. El viernes se tomarán decisiones formales sobre ambos asuntos.

Causas de la Revolución Brasilera

WASHINGTON, Julio 16.—Las personas que están empapadas en los asuntos sudamericanos creen que la revuelta que estalló entre los habitantes del estado brasilero de Sao Paulo contra el gobierno federal del Brasil es más seria de lo que parecen indicar las noticias oficiales y extraoficiales. Operando los rebeldes tras la barrera montañosa que los separa del mar, y rodeados del lado de tierra por estados leales a la autoridad federal, no han podido ponerse en comunicación con el mundo exterior. En Río de Janeiro el gobierno central ha establecido una censura tan estricta, que no ha dejado pasar noticia alguna acerca de las causas de la revolución.

Por tal razón, ninguna autoridad de aquí se atreve a publicar su opinión acerca de la causa de la formidable guerra civil que parece estar ardiendo allí. Sin embargo, algunos funcionarios de este gobierno que estuvieron hace poco en el Brasil y en el Estado de Sao Paulo, dicen en lo privado que desde hace dos años se estaba preparando un levantamiento de esa índole.

Aunque no contiene el Estado de Sao Paulo sino 1,200,000 de los 30,000,000 de habitantes que hay en el Brasil, es el más rico de los veinte estados de esa república. Dentro de Sao Paulo se produce el 60 por ciento del abastecimiento mundial de café. Menos numerosos que los habitantes de algunos otros estados brasileros, los de Sao Paulo son esencialmente productores y negociantes, y, por lo tanto, contribuyentes. Sao Paulo y el Estado limítrofe de Minas Geraes aportan más del 50 por ciento de los ingresos del gobierno federal.

Estos dos estados, o más bien los políticos que allí residen, dominan la política federal, y se turnan la presidencia de la república. Al presente la ocupa un ciudadano de Minas Geraes, aunque con cabal consentimiento y aprobación de los políticos de Sao Paulo.

Ahora se observa la anómala situación de que el pueblo de un Estado, que es el de mayor poder en los asuntos federales, se ha rebelado contra la autoridad del gobierno federal. La explicación de ese hecho es, sin embargo, sencillísima. La votación está limitada a pocos ciudadanos relativamente. La revuelta es ante todo la de los elementos no políticos, agrícolas, industriales y de negocios, contra el elemento político, y particularmente contra la demasiada intervención que dicen tienen las autoridades federales en los asuntos de negocios del pueblo del Estado.

DEPORTES

En el fondo de la revolución está el resentimiento contra el plan de valorización del café por el gobierno nacional, que fue inaugurado en 1906 en el Brasil, a efecto de sostener el precio de dicho artículo. En esencia se trata de un plan para reducir la producción, y el actual gobierno general amplió el proyecto poniendo una cláusula en el presupuesto de 1924, por la que se crea un "Instituto Nacional para la Defensa Permanente del Café." Este instituto gobierna la venta del café brasilero, primero, restringiendo el número de puertos por donde se exporta, y, segundo, gravando como con diez centavos cada saco de café vendido, en forma de impuesto de trasporte que cobran los ferrocarriles al facturarse el café. Los productos de dicho impuesto se aplican nominalmente a sostener el citado instituto.

La carga principal de ese impuesto pesa sobre el pueblo de Sao Paulo. Además de eso, el Instituto ha decretado que Sao Paulo no podrá producir ni poner en el mercado este año más de 36,000 sacos de café.

Combaten la Policía y las Tropas en Chihuahua

EL PASO (Tejas) Julio 16.—Los escasos informes que se tenían de una batalla entre las tropas federales y la policía de Chihuahua, como resultado de las recientes elecciones, se robustecieron el miércoles en la mañana, cuando se descubrió que hand sido cortadas todas las líneas telegráficas entre Juárez y la ciudad de Chihuahua. Hace pocos días pudo evitarse un grave encuentro entre las tropas y la policía de Chihuahua, merced a la oportuna intervención de las tropas del Estado, que comanda el gobernador. Ya se habían disparado algunos tiros.

El ganador cubrió la distancia en 5m. 22⅕s.

BEAM SYSTEM RADIO SOON TO BE OPERATED

COMMERCIAL LINK BETWEEN ENGLAND AND AUSTRALIA READY IN SIX MONTHS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

LONDON, July 16.—The first commercial utilization of Senator Marconi's newly discovered beam system in wireless communication will be inaugurated between England and Australia in about six months as the result of an agreement which has been reached in Sydney for the erection of beam stations in the two countries. Experiments have been successfully carried out by the Marconi station at Foldhu, Cornwall, and Sydney.

It is estimated that a saving of 90 per cent will be realized in the constructional cost of the new stations as compared with the cost of erecting the old broadcasting high-power stations, a substantial reduction in telegraphic charges, together with the comparative secrecy are other benefits predicted.

RABBI IS INDICTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

ST. LOUIS, July 16.—Rabbi Jacob J. Grodsky, leader of four orthodox Jewish congregations, has been indicted here on charges of violating the prohibition laws in the sale of sacramental wine. His son, Solomon, 20 years of age, was indicted on the same charge. It is charged Rabbi Grodsky made four sales to J. H. Koplunvich, who is now a Federal prohibition agent. Rabbi Grodsky says he sold wine to Koplunvich as a member of his congregation, as he was privileged, and charges the whole matter is a frame-up because of a grudge that Koplunvich has against him.

FAVORITES WIN EASILY AT GLENCOE

Harvey Snodgrass and Walter Wesbrook Still in Net Tourney

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

GLENCOE (Ill.) July 16.—All the leading lights of tennisdom attending the Illinois State championship here advanced through the third round today without an upset, excepting R. E. Schlesinger, Australian Davis Cup player, who, failing before the clever court generalship of Lucien Williams, former Illinois State champion, took a place in the ranks of the eliminated beside his fellow countryman, Pat O'Hara Wood, put out yesterday.

William T. Tilden, although at no time in actual danger, had a hard fight in disposing of Wray Brown of St. Louis, Missouri Valley champion, 6-4, 6-4, in the fourth round.

Tilden played two other matches during the afternoon, winning a romp with F. S. Weadley, Chicago, in the third round, and with his protege, A. L. Wiener, of Philadelphia, taking a doubles contest from Carter and Carter, Lake Forest.

Gerald Patterson, captain of the Australian Davis Cup team, had an easier time than the fans looked for in disposing of George

Three Los Angeles Boxers Continue Victories in Olympic Games

ACORNS SPOIL ANGEL RETURN

Visitors Maul Krugmen by Score of 11 to 7

Arlett and Hood Smash Out Home-Run Wallops

Local Hurlers Batted Hard by Oak Swatsters

BY ROBERT E. RAY

The Angels' home-coming was a decided bust and made so by Ivan Howard and his hitherto-known "Orrible Oaks who walloped the Krugmen, 11 to 7, in the series opener here yesterday. Big Buzz Arlett and his war stick partially accounted for the locals' embarrassment. Buzz hit a home run, a double, a single and drew two walks, driving in four runs during the afternoon's entertainment, which lasted some two hours and fifteen minutes.

"Pinches" Kunz saved the day for the visitors when he relieved Harry Krause in the fourth when the veteran southpaw was in the act of dissipating away a five-run lead. Kunz checked the Angels until the eigth when a fluke double and a legitimate single were combined to give the home guards their final run.

Four pitchers pastimed for the Seraphs, Charley Root starting and getting charged with the defeat. Root was touched for seven runs in his three-inning stay on the mound. Buck Ramsey, Phil Weinert and Elmer "Uncle Bim" Myers were the other local hurlers exposed to the Oaks's attack.

MAILS GETS WHEEL

Walter "The Great" Mails did not take part in the game, but Mister Mails managed to get very much in the public eye when he irritated "Boy Bandit" Reardon with a few choice remarks in the first inning and was given the wheel, which is a way of saying he was kicked off the field, for his vocal efforts. Reardon is somewhat of a vocalist himself and was evidently afraid that Mails was trying to swipe his stuff. Although officially booted off the field, Mails caused the fans much glee by expressing with gestures his disapproval of Reardon while walking to the clubhouse. As a final and closing touch, Walter opened the big gate in center field and the game was held up until one of the Washington Park flunkies rushed out and closed the gate.

The visitors took the lead at the start, when two walks, an error by Durst and Cather's sacrifice fly brought in a run without the aid of a hit. However, the Angels came right back in their half and tied the count by scoring a run on McAuley's single, which was followed by Durst's double.

Root got by the second without being scored upon, but what happened to him in the third was something to shed tears about. In all, the dogs of six Oaks pattered across the rubber, Frenchy Lafayette led off by drawing a walk. Brubaker flied out, but Adams singled and sent Lafayette to third. Then up stepped Arlett and all Buzz did was to raise one of Root's fast ones high up into the right-field bleachers for a home run, counting Lafayette and Adams ahead of him. Cather fanned, but Ed Goebel kept up the carnage by driving a triple to left center. Al Maderas's single to right counted Goebel, and Al then proceeded to steal second. Baker's single to right scored Maderas, and Baker took second on the throw to the plate. Krause singled Baker to third, from where he scored on Lafayette's long double to center. Krause was held at third on the hit, but Lafayette had ambitions for a triple, and before he could stop and turn back to second Twombly's throw to Beck was waiting for him at the keystone sack.

Durst's double, followed by Hood's homer over the left-field wall, accounted for two Angel scores in the home half of the third.

Ramsey took the mound for the locals at the start of the fourth and was touched for one run. In the Angel half of the fourth Krause was driven to cover when four hits were converted into three Los Angeles runs. Kunz stepped in and from then on, except for a brief spell in the eighth, the Angels failed to do much of anything.

RAMSEY WILD

Ramsey grew wild in the sixth, and two walks, coupled with a double by Brubaker, a single by Cather, and Adams's sacrifice fly, gave the Oaks three more runs. Ramsey was lifted in this inning for Weinert, who retired the side. Weinert stayed in until the last of the eighth, when Cruise doubled for him, Myers pitching the ninth.

There will be the usual one game today, but a double-header is on the board for tomorrow to make up for Tuesday's postponed game.

LEDOUX NO MATCH FOR GOLDSTEIN

Bantamweight Champion Batters Frenchman All Over Gotham Ring

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VELODROME (New York) July 16.—Abe Goldstein, the bantamweight champion, battered the venerable Charley Ledoux of France all over the place for fifteen rounds at the Velodrome tonight, in an awful affair. The champion had the ancient Frenchman on the floor in the eleventh round for a count of eight and dropped him in the fourteenth for a count of four. Ledoux fought at times like a man who never caught up with a boxing glove in his life. One never could have thought that Ledoux at one time fought the famous Georges Carpentier when the latter was a bantam.

The crowd got a lot of fun out of the ludicrous efforts of Charley to fight back against the champion, although the latter lost considerable prestige by failing to stop the old timer.

During the early rounds Goldstein peppered the Frenchman all over the place and it did not seem possible that Ledoux would weather the storm, but as the bout progressed the Frenchman plucked up some courage and managed to sneak through some left hooks to Abie's chin.

On the whole it was a disappointing fight all the way. Goldstein should have stopped the Frenchman, who did not appear to have a thing except a willingness to take it.

The Toronto University crew, carrying the Maple Leaf of Canada, today won the final eight-oared elimination trial of the Olympic regatta and earned the right to meet America's famous Yale eight, the Thames Club of Great Britain and Italy tomorrow in the blue ribbon event. Seven championships will be contested over the picturesque Seine River course.

LOS ANGELES ANGLER AMBLES TO BISHOP

WEISMULLER TRIMS RIVAL

Speedy American Takes Measure of Andrew Charlton But Latter Fails to Exert Himself

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

SWIMMING POOL, LES TOURELLES (France) July 16.—Johnny Weissmuller, Chicago; Lester Smith, San Francisco, and Ralph Breyer, Northwestern University, the three Americans entered for the 400-meter Olympic swim, free style, today qualified for the semifinal event, while Pete Des Jardens, of Miami, Fla.; Clarence Pinkston, San Francisco, and Albert C. White, Leland Stanford University, are finalists in the fancy high-diving events. All six of these Americans won their respective contests in the elimination trials today.

Warren Kealoha, Hawaii, and Paul Wyatt, Uniontown, Pa., are among those who will fight it out for the 100-meter backstroke championship. Henry Luning, Hawaii, although he finished first in his heat today, was disqualified on a charge that he "beat the gun" at the start of the race.

The long-awaited duel between Weissmuller and Andrew Charlton, the young Australian phenomenon failed to materialize when they met today in the 400-meter free-style race in qualifying for the semifinal. Both the American and the Australian kept themselves well in hand, as though saving their strength for the semifinal and the final. Weissmuller, who is the pet of the French public and receives louder cheering than any of the French entrants, finished today's race ahead of the Australian, but it was evident to the spectators that neither he nor Charlton was exerting himself.

It was a bad day for the American women swimmers, Agnes Geraghty being the only one of them to qualify in the 200 meters breast stroke.

Both Eleanor Coleman of Milwaukee and Matilda Shurich of New York were eliminated.

In the 200-meter breast stroke for men, Robert D. Skelton, Illinois A. C., treated himself to the luxury of breaking the Olympic record. W. T. Kirschbaum, Hawaii, finished second.

SOUTH MEETS NORTH IN BASEBALL CLASH

The One Hundred and Sixtieth Infantry baseball team, champions of the local National Guard, meets the champions of the north from the San Francisco Presidio in a game that will decide the State championship at Del Monte next month, according to an announcement by Capt. Brown, athletic manager of the infantry teams. The game will be played during the two weeks' encampment at Del Monte, Brown said.

NEVADA NINE NEEDS GAMES

The Union Pacific baseball nine of Las Vegas, Nev., would like to come to Southern California if it was certain of some games here. That was the gist of a letter from J. H. Lightfoot, manager of the team, to Frank Kerwin of the Southern California Baseball Association. Lightfoot claims he has a good team, and can put up good games against the best of teams.

Net Aces to Play Special Matches Here

William T. Tilden II, world's premier tennis player, and two of his proteges, Sandy Weiner and Donald Strachan, will arrive in Los Angeles in a few days to play some exhibition matches on local courts. The trio will play at the Montecito Country Club a week from Saturday and will be in Los Angeles for some time after. Tilden will play at Midwick the following day.

Montecito has arranged a complete program for the exhibition matches. Admission will be $1.10 A dinner dance, with Tilden and the two juniors as guests, will be the feature of the evening, according to an announcement made by R. W. Rives, secretary of the club.

MOVIE STAR LEAPS INTO RACING GAME

John Bowers, popular motion-picture star, has changed from grease paint to real grease. Bowers sent in the first entry to George Bentel, to drive in the Thanksgiving Day races at Ascot for the gold cup to be awarded on that day. Bowers has been a racing enthusiast for a long time and suddenly decided to enter the race. He has not, as yet, announced what make of car he will drive. It is rumored that he will have some chariot specially made.

TROUT LIMIT BROUGHT IN BY STORE SCOUT

Charles Van Horn, New York Hardware Trading Company scout manager, returned from Cottonwood Creek with the trout limit yesterday. Van Horn and an assistant caught the limit of seven-inch trout, and report that fish are plentiful in the streams, but will not continue to be, as the water is falling rapidly. Van Horn used gray flies and small spinners. He reports that fishnig also is good in the Cottonwood Lakes.

YANK ATHLETES GAIN POINTS IN GAMES ABROAD

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, July 16. — While the American rowing forces were resting today preliminary to their attempt to capture five championships in the regatta on the Seine tomorrow, the Olympic representatives of the United States made further gains in the boxing, swimming and tennis competition.

Reaching the round before the semifinals, the American tennis court stars scored six victories, to offset the elimination of Miss Eleanor Goss and Watson M. Washburn in the singles. The boxers, in spite of a few hay breads, continued to roll up a big margin of triumphs in the second events in the ring.

The swimming contests did not include any finals this afternoon, but led by the brilliant Weismuller, the men scored heavily and qualified in the various heats, but only one girl, Agnes Geraghty, survived the trials. Four finals in swimming are slated for tomorrow, while with the fields narrowing down in all the other events, a keen battle is promised for the Olympic titles.

WOLF REPORTS SEEING MANY QUAIL IN SOUTH

Paul Wolf, gunsmith at the B. H. Dyas Company, is back from an investigation trips of the Dons del Descanso, a sportsmen's club on real hunting grounds between Ensenada and Tia Juana. Wolf declared he saw literally thousands and thousands of quail, and an unusual sight it was to see several thousand in one covey.

Hunting conditions throughout the Dons del Descanso property were found ideal. On the property is a stream from which trout and bass can be caught by the limit. A fresh water lagoon furnishes the duck hunter a limit in a short while. Wolf also found wonderful surf fishing and abalone hunting.

LaBarba's Right to Jaw Ends Bout With Italian

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, July 16.—Despite an injury to his thumb, suffered in the bout yesterday in which he defeated Doyle of Ireland, 16-year-old Jackie Fields, Los Angeles high-school boy, and American featherweight boxer, today won handily from Hansen of Norway on points.

Fields took the first and second rounds easily. Because of his injured hand he devoted himself to landing frequently on the Norwegian's stomach. In the third he opened up and winded Hansen by landing at will on his face and body.

The American won the applause of the crowd by helping his opponent off the ropes and back into the middle of the ring.

In the featherweight class Joe Salas of Los Angeles defeated Levis of Holland. It was the closest decision as yet awarded to an American boxer. The Dutchman possessed more aggressiveness than science, but he made a good impression and the crowd booed the decision favoring the American.

IS DISQUALIFIED

Lazarus of the United States was disqualified in the second round of his bout with Endren of Sweden, whom he had knocked out. The judges ruled that the American boxer had failed to break when ordered to do so. The little American shed tears.

Lazarus denied that he had held his opponent.

Tripoli of the United States boxing team, whose ring appellation is Jackie Williams, put away Tarrant of Great Britain, showing superiority throughout the bout. The young Britisher relied on infighting, but the Yonkers boy put it all over him, and especially in the third, making up for the defeat in the 118-pound class of Lazarus.

Edward P. Eagan, American Rhodes scholar at Oxford and former light-heavyweight intercollegiate champion, lost to Clifton of Great Britain on points, in the heavyweight contest.

Clifton was manifestly superior to the American in the last two rounds of the three-round bout and finished fresh after having punished Eagan severely.

Many Casualties Suffered as San Francisco Noses Out Vernon by 5 to 4 Score

SEALS REGAIN TOP POSITION

Northerners Nab Lead Again When Suds Lose

Tiger Rally in Ninth Falls Short One Run

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Manager Ellison came right back with Marty Griffin again today and Marty pitched the Seals back into first place by beating Vernon, 5 to 4. There came near being a blow-off in the ninth inning at that. Marty had one man out in the last round when Truck Hannah went to bat for Christian. He lifted a high fly to center which Valla dropped. Jack Warner was then walked, and Rod Murphy was tossed out by Griffin.

Blakesley had two strikes on him when he lifted the ball high and dry over the right-field fence, scoring two runners ahead of him and making the score 5 to 4. Mesnosky tried to duplicate Blakesley's trick, but Valla did not drop the ball this time and that out ended the game.

VALLA CAUSED TROUBLE

On Tuesday Valla dropped a fly ball with two men out and Vernon scored nine runs after that before the third man could be retired. Valla dropped another fly today and three runs scored before Griffin could get the side out. On Tuesday two home runs were made off Griffin after Valla dropped the fly ball and neither of those home runs was an earned run. Blakesley got a home run today and it was not an earned run.

Sounds like a paradox, but it is all according to baseball rules. Any runs scored after chances have been offered to retire the side, are not earned runs.

All kinds of unusual plays cropped up in the game. Pete Kilduff was running to third base when Yelle hit a ball to Warner which he beat out. Pete charged full tilt into Kimmick and they bumped heads so hard that they both dropped as if shot. They lay head to head and neither of them moved.

The ball was thrown to first too late to get Yelle, but as Kilduff and Kimmick lay stretched on the ground, Warner ran over to third base and took McDowell's throw. He touched Kilduff out as Pete lay on the ground unconscious. So Warner started the play and finished it.

LED OFF THE FIELD

Kimmick was still groggy when he was lifted to his feet and he fought to get back in the game like a football half-back who had been knocked out cuckoo. He was finally led off the field and Rod Murphy finished the game. Kilduff was badly shaken but he went on playing.

Christian, pitching for Vernon ran to first base in the third on Ellison's infield hit and nearly had his leg cut off. His stocking was badly cut on the calf of his leg but after Bill Essick took a look at him he let him stay in the game and finish.

The Seals got busy on Christian in the first, massing four blows, but got only one run out of it because the Tigers pulled a double play when Ellison hit to Warner, who choked Valla off at the plate. Murphy tried to double Ellison at first, but the throw was bad, but Mulligan was picked off third to complete the double killing.

The Seals picked up two in the second and two more in the third on consecutive hitting and then they were through for the day.

Griffin just breezed through until Blakesley got that homer in the ninth with two men on bases. The score:

HOLD GOLF MATCHES AT SUNSET CANYON

A match against par golf tournament will be held at Sunset Canyon today, according to an announcement by Mrs. Ike Wentworth.

The meter (often called the "world yard") is about 10 per cent more than the old yard. Thus the 200-meter dash is about the same as the 220-yard, the 400 meters is the 440 yards and the 800 meters represents the 880-yard run, or half-mile. Running races, walking events, jumping as well as weight tests, swimming contests and yacht races are being regulated by the world metric measurements. Standardization of athletic records is being urged by many athletic experts as a reason for even more general adoption of the world system. The Americans and British alone have failed to adopt the system of measurements which will be used in the Olympic festival.

BOSTON, July 16.—Detroit advanced to within a game and a half of the league leadership today by defeating Boston twice, 5 to 4 and 11 to 3. Cobb went hitless, but his teammates batted fiercely. Blue was put out of the game for disputing the action of Umpire Owen in calling him out for interfering with Picinich's throw to prevent Heilmann stealing second in the second game. Score:

CRUSH CHICAGO

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.—The Philadelphia Athletics took the Chicago White Sox into camp today for a double victory, winning the first game 5 to 0 and the second 6 to 5. Sam Gray's elusive pitching proved too much for the White Sox in the opening half of the day's engagements, the youthful Texan holding them to four scattered safeties. Chicago piled a five-run lead in the second inning of the closing contest on Heimach, but was helpless against the relief hurling of Big Bob Hasty. Scores:

THE NEW CARS

Seems as though all the automobile manufacturers have been trying to outdo each other in putting out new models this year. Only after an extended test through and about metropolitan traffic row looking 'em over, I haven't seen a bus that couldn't be bettered by the installation of a set of Stewart Autoguards. It pays to protect a new wagon before you drive it out on the street.

W FACES TO CONFRONT FANS

ie Gleason and Williams in Bright Spot

ton Frye to Swap Blows With W. Steffen

BY BRAVEN DYER

After a lay-off of several months the fans of the Los Angeles Athletic Club will again be afforded the opportunity of seeing their favorite amateur mitt slingers in action, for Charlie Keppen, athletic director, has lined up a card of bouts for this evening. The program is a fitting one for a return show since matches being scheduled which will serve to introduce some of the best known boys of the city.

Of course the absence of such boys as Fidel LaBarba, Jackie Fields, Jim Belas, Ad Allegrini and a few others of the kick out this evening's fun but George Trask and De Witt can Court have been plugging along several new boys who are more than likely to be some great favorites with the fans.

PROMISING HEAVY

Among those is Ernest Viles, a promising fellow discovered by Coach Jim the Long Beach oil fields boxing club a long ago. Blake regards Viles as one of the most promising heavies he has glimpsed in this end this ought to guarantee enough to get Viles no little test, as he is to go against Clifford Gleason, a distinct favorite with club followers, is slated to mix with Carl Williams in the windup of the night. Gleason is a hard and hits hard. When in shape he is hard to beat. His opponent is Billy Coe's protege and has shown a willingness to mix with any of the boys. If he has improved since his showing in the Olympic trials at Verdugo Park some time ago he should be in things decidedly interesting for a while.

HANDS FULL

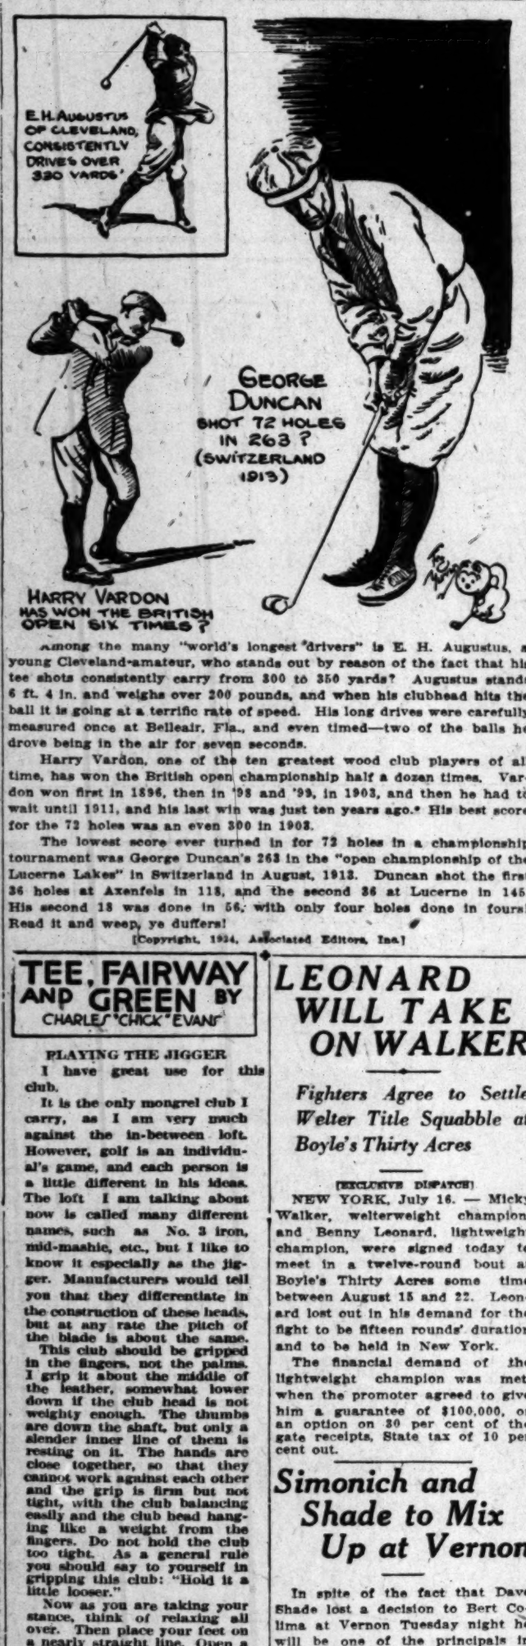
Ernest Frye, former Multnomah A.C. boxer, will probably have his hands full in his fight with Jimmie Rufus, a newcomer. If Frye lives up to his name he should have no trouble in taking Rufus to a nose and ear finish.

The complete card follows:

Harry Vardon, Ernest Viles, 148 pounds.
Jimmie A. G. McDonald, 139 pounds.
Jack Reese vs. Ernest Viles, 150 pounds.
Ernest Frye vs. Jimmie Rufus, 135 pounds.
Billy Coe vs. Petit Duarte, 118 pounds.
Clifford Gleason vs. Clarence Rodier, 148 pounds.
Carl Williams vs. Ben Wood, 138 pounds.
Marcellino Lassalli, 130 pounds.
Clarence Wiltshire vs. Clark Wiltshire, 128 pounds.

DID YOU KNOW THAT?

BY FEG MURRAY



Among the many "world's longest drivers" is E. H. Augustus, a young Cleveland amateur, who stands out by reason of the fact that his tee shots consistently carry from 300 to 350 yards? Augustus stands 6 ft. 4 in. and weighs over 200 pounds, and when his clubhead hits the ball it is going at a terrific rate of speed. His long drives were carefully measured once at Belleair, Fla., and even timed—two of the balls he drove being in the air for seven seconds.

Harry Vardon, one of the ten greatest wood club players of all time, has won the British open championship half a dozen times. Vardon won first in 1896, then in '98 and '99, in 1903, and then he had to wait until 1911, and his last win was just ten years ago.* His best score for the 72 holes was an even 300 in 1903.

The lowest score ever turned in for 72 holes in a championship tournament was George Duncan's 263 in the "open championship of the Lucerne Lakes" in Switzerland in August, 1913. Duncan shot the first 36 holes at Axenfels in 118, and the second 36 at Lucerne in 145. His second 18 was done in 56, with only four holes done in fours! Read it and weep, ye duffers!

TEE, FAIRWAY AND GREEN BY CHARLES "CHICK" EVANS

PLAYING THE JIGGER

I have great use for this club.

It is the only mongrel club I carry, as I am very much against the in-between loft. However, golf is an individual's game, and each person is a little different in his ideas. The loft I am talking about now is called many different names, such as No. 3 iron, mid-mashie, etc., but I like to know it especially as the jigger. Manufacturers would tell you that they differentiate in the construction of these heads, but at any rate the pitch of the blade is about the same.

This club should be gripped in the fingers, not the palms. I grip it about the middle of the leather, somewhat lower down if the club head is not weighty enough. The thumbs are down the shaft, but only a slender inner line of them is resting on it. The hands are close together, so that they cannot work against each other and the grip is firm but not tight, with the club balancing easily and the club head hanging like a weight from the fingers. Do not hold the club too tight. As a general rule you should say to yourself in gripping this club: "Hold it a little looser."

Now as you are taking your stance, think of relaxing all over. Then place your feet on a nearly straight line. Open a little if necessary for freer motion; not enough, however, to have the right shoulder dipping down, which will surely interfere with the stroke. If you want to have the left toe turned out a little more than the right one, as if you were ready to race for the hole, it is all right, but be sure to turn the toes out so that you can get a better pivot. If you have not got a feeling of solidity, place your feet farther apart. When playing in the wind the stance should be wider.. A good tip at times is to think of standing a little closer to the ball, and often say to yourself, "Stand more upright."

Play the ball off the left heel and by all means not too far back, for then you will have most of your weight and hands in front of the ball. The idea is to stand at a comfortable distance from the ball; closer in a high flight or in a high wind. You will be surprised to notice how many times you have allowed your feet to come too close together; put them just a little farther apart.

Cultivate the ability to stop your preparation for the stroke if you do not feel that it is going to be a good one. There are few who can do it.

Stand comfortably with a medium upright position of the body. A moderate bending of the knees is excellent and necessary. The right heel should be kept down as well as the left for an even distribution of the weight. Your shoulders should be straight for the address. I have always been inclined to the bad habit of standing too far away from the ball. Never hit the ball unless you are comfortably set and read to do it. If you do you are bound to jerk your shot. This applies to the time when you are out of breath after a walk up hill or a foolish run.

Both Sides Presented

"Don't you know better than to write on both sides of the paper?" stormed the editor.

"But this is fiction," said the bright young man.

Fighters Agree to Settle Welter Title Squabble at Boyle's Thirty Acres

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 16. — Micky Walker, welterweight champion, and Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, were signed today to meet in a twelve-round bout at Boyle's Thirty Acres some time between August 15 and 22. Leonard lost out in his demand for the fight to be fifteen rounds' duration and to be held in New York.

The financial demand of the lightweight champion was met, when the promoter agreed to give him a guarantee of $100,000, or an option on 30 per cent of the gate receipts, State tax of 10 per cent out.

Simonich and Shade to Mix Up at Vernon

In spite of the fact that Dave Shade lost a decision to Bert Colima at Vernon Tuesday night he will be one of the principals in the main event next week, according to Matchmaker "Wad" Wadhams. Shade meets Joe Simonich of Butte, Mont. Simonich held Shade to a draw in a former battle and Wadhams thinks the two will make a good battle again.

Simonich has a good reputation, with decisions over both Morrie Schlaiffer and Billy Wells. Wells ruined Colima in his first fight here, Colima took a decision from Shade, so according to all the rules of compensation and geometry, Simonich should score a knockout in the first minute of battle. Wadhams says the rest of the card will be announced later.

EBBETTS SEEKS AID OF COURT IN FIGHT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 16.—The strain of discord among officials of the Brooklyn National League baseball club was accentuated today when Charles Ebbetts, Jr., filed suit in the Supreme Court through his attorney, Meier Steinbrink, naming the club as defendant and demanding $4270 back salary, which he says is due him and which the club failed to pay.

The suit also accentuates the action already on file and at issue, brought last year by young Ebbets against Steve McKeever, asking $20,000 for an assault he alleges was committed on him July 8, 1923. In that action Ebbetts, Jr., saying he was lawfully on the grounds of the ball club, alleges he was wrongfully put out by McKeever and that an assault was committed in the ejection. McKeever has filed a denial and the case may come up for trial this fall.

He Didn't Find Out

A very inquisitive man, seated at dinner beside a girl in evening dress, which displayed her arms and shoulders to excellent advantage, was surprised when she remarked:

"I was vaccinated yesterday, and still feel the effects of it."

The man studied her smooth, shapely arms for a moment, and then asked:

"Where were you vaccinated?"

"In Boston," was the demure and smiling answer. — [Arlene Holmes in Capper's Weekly.

BOXERS TO MINGLE IN TITLE GO

JOHNNY ADAMS AND FRANKIE BURNS READY FOR GO IN HOLLYWOOD FEATURE

With the lightweight championship of the Pacific Coast at stake Johnny Adams, youthful Southern California contender, and "Oakland Frankie" Burns, veteran four-rounder from the northern part of the State, square off tomorrow night at Hollywood in the final match of the lightweight tournament. This bout will give to the Coast its first official lightweight champion. All of the preliminary matches leading up to tomorrow's final affair have been conducted under New York rules, with boxers weighing in at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of their bouts.

A wire from a prominent San Bernardino sportsman yesterday to the stadium requested the reservation of a block of 150 seats, together with an assurance that 150 Adams boosters would be there to fill them. Adams hails from San Bernardino, and the home guard will be there to cheer him in his bout for the highest Coast lightweight honors.

While Adams has demonstrated his ability as an audience pleaser and is well liked by all of the local fans, "Oakland Frankie" will be far from without supporters. He is popular here, too. In that Adams is a Southern California boy, however, most of the house will no doubt be pulling for him to win.

Just prior to the feature, Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame mentor, who is the guest of honor tomorrow night, will be introduced from the ring and presented with a small token of the esteem of Hollywood Post No. 43. Many Notre Dame alumni here are expected to be there to honor the coach of their alma mater.

Larry Murphy, very popular with the Hollywood fans, boxes with Gene Delmont in the semi-windup at 128 pounds, while Johnny Lotsey and Jack Lewis step in the special spot. Dude Martinez and Hank Gatton mingle at 152 pounds, Joe Pimenthal meets Toby Montoya at 122 pounds and Benny Pascal opens the show against Young Danny at 120 pounds.

JACKIE FIELDS MAKES BIG HIT

ed Jurando of Argentine and Maurelos of Chile lost to Rosagnon of France.

In the heavyweight division, Porzio, Argentina, decisively defeated Peguilhan, France, in the most exciting match yet contested. Porzio was considered by the spectators to be the most dangerous heavyweight yet seen in the Olympic Games.

H. G. Greathouse, Washington, Pa., won from Galinat, France, in a stirring slugfest in the heavyweight class. The gong in the last round saved the Frenchman from a knockout.

FIDED TOO GOOD

In the flyweight class, Fidel LaBarba, United States, defeated Lanzi, Italy. The judges stopped the fight in the middle of the second, a smashing right to the jaw having disabled Lanzi.

In the same class, Ray Fee, United States, defeated Catada, Argentina, in a stirring three-round bout. Catada lost because he was thrice warned for holding.

The American heavyweight, H. G. Greathouse, of Washington, Pa., is the only one of the American boxers in that class who emerged triumphantly in the elimination bouts today. He defeated the Frenchman, Galinate, the gong alone saving the Frenchman from a knockout.

On the other hand, Edward P. Eagan, American Rhodes scholar at Oxford, who won the light-heavyweight title in the Olympics at Antwerp in 1920, suffered defeat at the hands of the British heavyweight, Clifton.

Porzio of Argentine put up what is considered the best of all bouts against Guilhan of France. He showed strength, speed and punch, such as has not hitherto been uncorked in the Velodrome d'Hiver.

WHIPPETS IN TRIALS FOR AUGUST RACES

The whippet races to be staged by the California Whippet Association at Tournament Park, Pasadena, next month, will bring out some of the fastest dogs in the south, it was stated by Manager Tom Howard. Whippet owners are putting the dogs through trial heats this week.

Since the last races at Pasadena last Saturday, Howard says the interest in the sports has increased and a bigger card will be arranged by the Whippet Association. A newcomer from the East, that has run the 200 yards in two fifths of a second less than the world's record, is favored to carry away the major portion of the honors. The dog is High Flyer, who is a member of the Foothill kennels, but has done all his running in the East. The dog is recovering from a broken toe but owners say as will be ready for the races.

Saw Him Wrong Time

Jones was never averse to taking a day off from the office, and one day he sent a note to his employer saying he was ill, and that it would be impossible for him to turn up at the office that day.

"I thought you were ill yesterday, Mr. Smith," said the boss when Jones arrived next morning.

"Yes, sir," replied Jones, expectantly.

"You didn't look very ill when I saw you at the races in the afternoon."

"Didn't I, sir? inquired Jones, not the least disconcerted. "You should have seen me at the finish of the third race."—[Exchange.

Bus Queen of Iowa

In 1922 Miss Helen Schultz, then 23 years old, started a bus line between Charles City and Waverly, Iowa. She herself drove the first car, which she had bought on the installment plan with savings representing two years' work in a Duluth railway office. Now she owns a fleet of fifteen cars representing an investment of $150,000. She directs her business from a private office.

The Affair at Othman's

BY WILL PAYNE

"This note was in the pocket of your coat, crumpled up. It reads, 'Mr. and Mrs. Stamford Marsden announce the engagement of their daughter Flora to Mr. Frederic Othman. No date has been set for the wedding.' Your handwriting?"

"Yes," he said.

"That was what your quarrel, or difference, with Mr. Othman was about?"

"Yes."

"He didn't care to have it published?"

Her face puckered with pain. "O, no, captain! Not that! I didn't take that note up there tonight. I had given it to him before, at his request. I went up there tonight to get it back. That's what the quarrel was about."

The captain politely preserved an immobile face, but it was clear enough to Kendall, at least, that he didn't believe it. In fact, with something like a shrug he handed the note back to Ferguson, and the sergeant then gave him the glove, silently pointing to a spot. Welbasky examined the spot carefully and gave a slight nod. Like a patient man with an unruly pupil he returned to Flora:

"Miss Marsden, you were vigorous about it. The leather is broken over the middle knuckle of your glove here. The skin is broken on Othman's chin where you struck him. Your hair was shaken loose; you shed hairpins. I must do my duty, you know. You make it harder than it need be for yourself, to say nothing to me. You fought with him, struck him, ran out and shut the door. Honestly, it would be much better for you to clear it up—tell me what happened."

She was wincing, fluttering like a snared bird, her brow contracted; she struggled an instant and turned to Kendall, helplessly giving up:

"Leave us, please, Phil. I'd rather tell him alone."

A significant little motion of Capt. Welbasky's head enforced the plea, and he directed. "Take him downstairs, Dick. See what he has to say."

Resistance would be merely silly. Kendall went out, eyes on the floor, riven by a question: "Is she going to confess?" For when he was finally released from Othman's house no car waited for him; he had come down on a bus and been in the house hardly ten minutes when the policemen arrived.

Flora raised her eyes to Welbasky's face and said steadily, "I'm going to tell you the truth, captain." He thought with satisfaction, "That's the real goods; now she's coming through!"

She waited a moment, with a little twisting of her lips, to get the narrative straightened out in her mind, and began firmly: "Mr. Othman and I were engaged day before yesterday. He came down here last night to talk it over with the family—a family dinner, my father and mother and Mr. Othman and myself. He was going to make some business arrangements for my father's benefit and a donation to charity as a betrothal gift to me when the engagement was announced. We talked it over. I'd promised to marry him with my eyes open. I was going through with it. I wrote that note here last night and handed it to him before my father and mother. I said he could announce it—publish it in the newspapers—whenever he wished. This note was a pledge that it was all settled between us and with my family. Mr. Othman said he had some friends, in business. He hadn't many associates in —well—in society, you know. These were men who had been more his friends than anybody else. He wanted to give a little dinner to them at his house tonight and tell them first. And after he'd told them he was going to send it to the newspapers. That's the way we left it last night."

Her eyes fell and came back again to his face. "Yesterday afternoon I heard something about him that I hadn't known before. I didn't know whether it was true or not, so I sent for Nelson Barlow—an old friend. That's why he came over here. He said it would be a great mistake to marry Mr. Othman. I knew about this little dinner at his house. He was going to send the announcement to the newspapers. I thought I must stop that at any cost. I telephoned his house, but they said he was out. I knew he would be back soon on account of the dinner, so I called a cab.

"I telephoned again, but he had not come in, so I left word that I was coming. Then I got in the cab and went up there. We went upstairs—Mr. Othman and I. I told him he must not announce the engagement. I was not ready yet; it must be postponed. I was terribly—disturbed—about what I'd heard. I could not tell him what it was. It was too shameful. I only insisted it must be postponed; he must give me back the announcement. He would not do it—arguing.

Her face suddenly puckered: "Really, I could not tell you what I said or what he said. I was too disturbed. The more he resisted, the more disturbed I was. I know he finally said that I'd promised, and on the strength of it he'd made some money arrangements today for the benefit of my father's business; it wasn't fair of me to give my word and then try to take it back after he'd — made those money arrangements. I said he could take the money arrangements back; I must have the note; he must wait; I wasn't ready to go on with it. I couldn't tell him, you know; it was too shameful. We contended, in that way. Finally he gave me back the note, because I said I'd deny the engagement if he announced it. He gave me the note. I had it."

Her voice suddenly faltered. She looked down, biting a corner of her lip.

"I had the note in my hand. Maybe he realized it was all over with between us. He caught me in his arms." She bent forward in her chair, speaking with an absorbed earnestness. "I knew it was coming, but I had no time. I tried to get free. But he was a strong man. It was more than his muscle. I knew it was coming two seconds before he had touched me, as though he had said, 'You've taken my money; you don't walk out this way.' There was something about it that beat me down before he touched me. But he was strong, too. It was as though you were drowning—going down—you felt it—got to do all you knew quickly. I wrenched away, got an arm free—struck him on the point of the jaw. I know how. It shook him so that I got free, and ran out. I shut the door after me—thought he might follow. I was all bowled over, captain — running to the stairs. Then I heard that sound behind me. I didn't know what it was—really. But it startled me more and I ran on down."

The captain nodded and said, "When you heard that sound, you thought Barlow had shot him."

Her eyes wavered and fell, but she repeated, "I didn't know Nelson Barlow was in the house."

"You thought Barlow had shot him," he repeated, rather fatherly than otherwise. But she said again, "I didn't know he was in the house."

The policeman waited a moment to let her think it over, and spoke quite kindly again: "Miss Marsden, I believe you—up to a certain point. What's more to the purpose any jury in the United States will believe you—up to a certain point. You know, you're the worst kind of customer for us officers of the law to tackle—toughest nut in the whole box. With anybody else—gunmen, yeggs, burglars, and so on—we've got a sporting chance. We can land 'em if we have any luck. But a young woman as handsome as you are—shoo! If she's got any sort of sympathetic story to tell against a man who was a bad actor, why, we might as well sit down and twiddle our thumbs. I'm under no illusions, you see. The public wants it that way. It's the public that turns 'em lose. We police are servants of the public, so if the public makes an unwritten law that an attractive young woman can't be punished for shooting a man who's misused her, that's none of our business. See what I mean? I've no motive or inclination to make it a bit harder for you than my duty requires. I'd rather not even take you away from home tonight."

He saw the shock in her eyes at that suggestion and went on:

"But you see how the case stands: You and Barlow have a talk about Othman. You start for Othman's house. Barlow goes for his gun and follows you. He shoots Othman and hides the gun. Now, the butler and a footman and yourself heard the shot. Sure as sunrise it was fired almost as soon as you left the room. There was nobody else around. The butler seems a respectable old chap. You say yourself that he was down on the second floor. The footman was down in the main hall when you got these. He could not have shot Othman upstairs and beat you down to the ground floor. The valet was out of the house. We've checked up every other servant. You see?' Let alone finding Barlow's gun, which he acknowledges there was nobody else to do it. Now, I'm going to leave you here for a few minutes, Miss Marsden, to see if you have anything else to tell me.

AMERICAN NET TEAM MAY QUIT

diculous. No space is provided for typewriters. American correspondents sought to use an empty tent but they were kicked out by irate French officials to make way for a "committee meeting" which was not held.

YANKEES PROTEST

The grand-stands are made of the roughest boards. A delegation of American correspondents protested to Allan Muhr, an American assistant of the sport commissioner on the French committee. Muhr, without cracking a smile, asserted that the Colombes arrangements were just as good as those at the new Forest Hill Stadium or at Wimbledon.

Vincent Richards cleared a menacing obstacle in his path for the tennis championship this afternoon when he defeated the Spanish star, Manuel Alonso, 7-5, 10-8, 2-6, 6-3. It was the hardest fought match wherein the American was forced to extend himself to win.

In the first two sets both fought for the net with Richards getting the best of it, and holding the edge with fine shots. In the third set the heat weakened the young American and Alonso won with ease after running the score to five love. The fifteen-minute rest saved Richards, who won the next set without much trouble.

WASHBURN LOSES

S. M. Jones, the English player on India's Davis Cup team, eliminated Watson Washburn by 6-1, 6-4, 8-10 and 6-2. Williams scored five sets before beating Kohrling, the champion of Hungary by 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3. Mrs. Mallory defeated Mrs. Bouman of Holland by 9-7, 6 love, making Molla's next match against Miss Helen Wills, who did not play today. Miss Vlasto, the youthful Greek star, eliminated Eleanor Goss, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

FAVORITES WIN AT GLENCOE

O'Connell, Wisconsin State champion, by a score of 6-1, 6-1.

Howard Kinsey of San Francisco eliminated John Barr of Dallas, Tex., without difficulty, while George Lott, Canadian singles champion, was disposing of Jerry Weber of Chicago. Walter Westbrook and Harvey Snodgrass of Los Angeles, A. H. Chapin of Springfield, Mass.; Bryan Norton of South Africa, and Fred Kalms of Australia also took their third-round matches in straight sets.

Junior singles lacked but a match or two of reaching semi-finals with Emmett Pars, Chicago boy champion, and A. L. Wiener and Donald Strachan, Philadelphia, constituting a trio of favorites to win the title.

NEW STAMP ISSUES

Commemorate Walloon-Huguenot Landing and Olympic Games

Commemorative postage stamps seem destined to be a prominent philatelic feature of the present year.

The issues of that character which are now attracting chief attention are the Walloon-Huguenot stamps in honor of the three hundredth anniversary of the arrival in New York Harbor of the Nieu Nederlandt with thirty-two families, most of whom settled at Ft. Orange, now Albany, and the French issue commemorative of the Olympic Games in Paris.

With the exception of the Harding memorial stamp, the Walloon tercentenary stamps comprise the first special issue since 1920 in this country, when three stamps in honor of the tercentenary arrival in America of the Pilgrim Fathers were issued. The present issue also has three values, 1, 2 and 5 cents, and they will doubtless be in use for the balance of the year.

Judging by the interest aroused when the Olympic stamps recently made their appearance, it seems likely that the major portion of the issue will be absorbed by dealers and collectors and a handsome revenue will accrue to the French government. There are four values in the set, 10, 25, 30 and 50 centimes, and the designs are by M. E. Becker. The 10-centime stamp symbolizes the welcome of Paris to the athletes, showing the head of an athlete wearing the victor's crown of laurel, while in the background are the stadium and the Arc de Triomphe, over which is the word "Paris." At the top is the word "France," being the first adhesive stamp issued by the government without the full designation Republique Francaise. The initials "R.F." are in the lower left hand corner.—[New York Times.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Rate reductions of $1 on intercoastal lumber shipments and of 5 cents per 100 pounds on beans, dried fruits and canned goods between Pacific Coast ports and Hawaii to Gulf ports were announced today by some steamship companies operating in that class of trade with offices here. The lumber rates will not be effective until August 31 and the canned goods rate will become effective on September 1.

The tug Tatoosh, sailed from here late yesterday evening for Gray's Harbor, Wash., and will be used in towing whales from Fort Orford to Gray's Harbor.

The S.S. President Polk is due here tomorrow morning from New York. Included in the passenger list is United States Representative Elton Watkins of Portland, Or.

SEATTLE, July 16.—Several Seattle shipping men will attend the quarterly general meeting of the Pacific West-bound Conference at Portland next Monday, called for the purpose of discussing the trans-Pacific freight situation. A. F. Haines, vice-president, and L. L. Bates, general freight agent, will represent the Admiral Oriental Line; E. J. Manion and Robert Tinling the Blue Funnel Line, and W. C. Dawson the Osaka Shosen Kaisha. The Nippon Yusen Kaisha will also be represented.

The Pacific Steamship Company's liner Queen sailed this morning on one of her regular excursion trips to Southeastern Alaska points. She had 169 round-trip excursionists.

H. C. Cattelow, vice-president of the Luckenbach Steamship Company, and supervisor of the operations of that company on the Pacific Coast, is visiting in Seattle. He is optimistic over shipping conditions generally and particularly as to the intercoastal traffic.

The Blue Funnel steamship Achilles arrived here from the Orient today, bringing 3100 bales of silk and several passengers. Her cargo aggregated 7000 measurement tons. The vessel disembarked 300 oriental steerage passengers at Victoria before coming here.

Wireless dispatches from the Admiral Oriental liner President Grant state that she will reach Victoria at 8 a.m. next Sunday and Seattle late in the afternoon.

The steamship President Jefferson is scheduled to sail from Seattle for the Orient at 11 o'clock Saturday morning with a big passenger list and a full cargo, including 500,000 feet of lumber for Shanghai.

ASTORIA (Or.) July 16.—The crew of the port dredge Natoma is engaged in laying the pipe lines, preparatory to starting to fill the nineteen-acre tract adjacent to the port terminals, which is to be the site of the Standard Oil Company's proposed big storage and fueling plant. The material is to be dredged from the shoal in front of piers 2 and 3.

The tug Douglas arrived this morning from Siletz towing a raft of 850,000 feet of spruce logs for the Astoria Box Company.

The steamer William Campion arrived this morning from Gray's Harbor and went to Portland. The vessel had a strong list to port on account of being topheavy, but it is expected she will shift to an even keel after taking on fuel oil and additional cargo in her hold.

VANCOUVER (B. C.) July 16.—The Seattle freighter Morning Star was today served with an Admiralty Court writ, the plaintiff being C. C. Pramilton of this city, who claims approximately $2500 for lost cargo when the vessel nearly capsized between here and Seattle early this week and a roll of steel cable belonging to Mr. Pramhton was jettisoned. The plaintiff's solicitors contemplate alleging that the Morning Star was unseaworthy, that the vessel was topheavy, and that the cargo was not properly loaded.

Tenders are again being advertised for the 43,000 tons of Russian railway equipment lying in the Canadian Pacific Railway yards at Coquitlam, near here. The material, which has been here since 1918, is in charge of the railway company, having been bought for the trans-Siberian Railway and consigned there via Vancouver, but the Russian revolution caused the shipment to be ordered stopped here.

PORTLAND (Or.) July 16.—Approximately 28,000 cases of canned goods, amounting to 6600 tons, will be taken to London and United Kingdom ports aboard the Dominion Miller of the Furness Line when she leaves Portland the 23rd inst. Lumber and cascara bark amounting to 6000 tons is also booked for cargo. The ship will dock Sunday with general cargo from Europe.

The Atlantic, now loading lumber and flour, will leave Friday for the east coast of South America.

The Montpelier completed loading this afternoon at Terminal No. 4 and will leave Thursday for London, Hull, Hamburg and Antwerp.

VICTORIA (B. C.) July 16.—Several days ahead of schedule, the freighter Canadian Highlander made quarantine late last night with a large general cargo and 20,000 cases of liquor.

BELLINGHAM, July 16.—The bark Phyllis will load 1,500,000 feet of lumber here for Australia, arriving here from drydock at Winslow.

COOS BAY (Or.) July 16.—The steamer F. A. Warner sailed for San Francisco this morning with lumber.

PORT NOTES

New orders were issued yesterday by the Southern Pacific and the City Housaing Commission through Capt. R. S. Sandberg, for the removal of the half-mile of apron and tracks on the breakwater by the 21st inst., or suffer them to be torn down. Similar orders were issued a month ago, but no attention, it is said, had been paid to them.

Another boat yard for Fish Harbor was assured yesterday when the Harbor Commission granted a year's permit to Kitsuke Maeda for 20,000 square feet of city land at Berth 207, at a rental of $2500. A five-year lease was denied him by the commission, which declared the land might be needed for more valuable purposes within that time.

The City Council recently spent $6000 in building a comfort station at the foot of Sixth street, Los Angeles Harbor, but it is said, failed to provide for its upkeep, and J. H. Clifden, sanitary engineer, yesterday closed the place because of its insanitary condition. The Los Angeles Harbor Chamber of Commerce will take the matter before the Council today.

CATTLE—Active demand at about steady values developed for practically all killing classes and an early clearance was effected. Bulk of steers were of medium grade averaging 940 to 1080 pounds and cashed from 7.00@7.50, with five loads making the latter price. Common steers sold downward to 5.00 while three loads on the canner order went over for 3.35. Fat cows cleared largely from 3.75@5.50, however, one head sold upward to 6.00 and above. Canners and cutters turned mostly from 1.50 to 3.00. Bulls held steady with most bolognas from 3.00@4.00.

CALVES—Steady prices prevailed in the calf division and the comparatively small receipts were cleaned up readily. Odd lots common kinds sold downward to 5.00.

HOGS—Brisk trading at 15@25c higher values developed in the hog house and all offerings were cleaned up early. Fourteen loads good and choice 160 to 195-pound butchers cleared at 8.00, today's extreme top. Part bud nearby hogs went over for 8.25. Packing sows showed an advance with a few going over at 6.50. Several loads of the butchers at the top price carried mixed offerings but they were not sorted.

SHEEP—No offerings in the yards, quotations nominal.

BUSINESS NEWS OF BUSY MARTS

Realty Company Offers Issue of Preferred Stock

Public Taste Being Educated to Avocados

Water Rate Relief; Abstract Company Absorbed

A MORNING THOUGHT

Income tax receipts in Los Angeles show a gain of 21.7 per cent for the twelve months ended May 30, 1924.

REALTY STOCK OFFERED

First Securities Company and associates are offering an additional issue of $1,000,000 Pacific Southwest Realty Company 6½ per cent cumulative preferred serial stock at $100 per share, plus accrued dividend, to yield 6½ per cent. This stock, in the opinion of counsel, is exempt from the normal Federal income tax and the personal property tax in California.

The Pacific Southwest Realty Company was organized in 1923 for the purpose of acquiring and thereafter owning and operating all the real estate properties owned by the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank and one parcel owned by the First National Bank of Los Angeles. The company also undertakes the providing of additional bank premises and buildings, as required by the growth of these banks. The entire issue of common stock of the Realty Company, which enjoys the sole voting power, is owned by the First Securities Company, which is owned entirely by the stockholders of the First National Bank of Los Angeles and Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank. The management of the Realty Company is under the direction of Henry M. Robinson, president, and other officers and directors of the First National Bank of Los Angeles and the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank.

After giving effect to the present financing, the appraised valuation of the properties held by the Pacific Southwest Realty Company, as accepted by the Superintendent of Banks of California, will be in excess of $6,210,000. The properties as acquired from the banks are leased to the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank for a period expiring July 1, 1955. Under the terms of this lease, the interest on the bonds, the dividends on the preferred stock issued by the Realty Company and the annual maturities of stock and bonds are assured by the rental contract.

AVOCADO DEMAND

Recognition of the eating qualities of the avocado is rapidly spreading throughout the country and is reflected in increased shipments of the fruit, according to George B. Hodgkin, secretary of the California Avocado Growers' Exchange with headquarters in Los Angeles. The exchange is now shipping from ten to fifteen tons of avocados per month and in the face of the increased supplies the public is taking the fruit at fair prices. The present wholesale price is about 45 cents per pound.

The exchange, Mr. Hodgkin says, is endeavoring to build up a permanent demand for the avocado and has succeeded in interesting most of the first-class hotels and restaurants and some cafeterias in putting the fruit on their menus permanently. The secretary recently made a trip to San Francisco and arranged to supply the trade there with regular shipments to meet the demand. Heretofore the San Francisco market has been supplied erratically with inferior West Indian types from Tahiti and Florida.

RATE RELIEF

The Sutter-Butte Canal Company, serving a large area of land in Sutter and Butte counties with irrigation water, has been granted permission by the Railroad Commission to collect certain charges for its services as a measure of temporary relief from water shortage. Heavy increases in costs of operation due to pumping requirements have been sustained because of the low water and the Railroad Commission has fixed higher rates designed to afford the company a more equitable return.

BUYS ABSTRACT COMPANY

Sale of the Bakersfield Abstract Company to the Title Guarantee and Trust Company of Los Angeles was yesterday confirmed by officers of the latter company here. As announced from Bakersfield, George Hay, president of the Bakersfield Abstract Company will remain as president of the concern, while S. C. Bradford of the Los Angeles office will take charge of the title department. The price paid for the concern was not announced, but, according to Bakersfield reports, it was in the neighborhood of $75,000. The Bakersfield Abstract Company is twenty years old.

DIVIDEND PAYMENT

W. H. Daum and Staff announce that the Rio Grande Oil Company has mailed dividend checks representing 2 per cent quarterly on stock of record June 1. The letter to stockholders reports an excellent volume of business, with the plants in El Paso and Phoenix showing record volume of sales.

CREDIT MEN MEET

Los Angeles Credit Men's Association will hold its monthly meeting this evening at the Alexandria.

The program includes the president's message, and an address by L. C. Kelley, attorney of the Union Oil Company, "When Does an Account, Note or Judgment Outlaw, and What is There to Do About It?" Also a talk by Dr. Edwin Mims of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., on the subject, "Building a City."

Music during the evening will be furnished by the Hollywoodland Orchestra. Harold Proctor and Frank Geiger will sing and President A. F. Stepan will play a piano solo.

PERSONAL MENTION

Leo V. Belden, vice-president of the Bank of Italy, in charge of the bond department, has arrived from San Francisco, and will remain in Los Angeles for a few days conferring with local officials of the Southern California headquarters.

Carl Anderson, formerly cashier of the Union County Bank of Elk Point, S. D., and for the past fourteen years cashier of the First National Bank of Vermillion, S. D., has been recently added to the personnel of the California Bank.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Professor Irving Fisher Tells City Club Why America Should Enter World Arena

Declaring that the muddy financial waters of the world could be clarified to a great extent by America's joining the World Court and League of Nations, Prof. Irving Fisher, head of the department of political economy at Yale University, told the City Club yesterday that long moratoriums for Russia, Germany and other heavily indebted nations is the commonsense cure for the international economic disease.

Speaking broadly on the subject of international indebtedness, Prof. Fisher said that it would be as fallacious to say these debts represent assets as that they represent liabilities.

"The proposition is as broad as it is long, for these debts represent both assets and liabilities," said the speaker. "However, it is a mistake to imagine that the big debts of the nations are not a burden to the world, in general. The readjustment of international financial conditions involves great loss, economically and industrially. For instance, the resort to inflation of currency has seriously interfered with the enonomic situation in many countries.

"Germany has been injured more by the issuance of paper money since the war than she was injured, financially, by the war itself," continued the speaker. "Half of the ruin of Russia is traceable to the degeneration of the rouble, and the degeneration of the crown was largely responsible for Austria's former plight. The main trouble in Europe has been due to militarism plus the tampering by governments with their mediums of exchange.

WOULD CANCEL DEBT

"One remedy for the present deplorable situation is the cancellation of national debts," said Prof. Fisher. "The net loss to the world in trying to do ideal justice to each and every nation would be greater than that which would be sustainde through the cancellation of international debts. The time has come when the same commonsense methods should be applied to creditor nations as is applied by business men to individual creditors who find it impossible to meet their bills."

Pointing to Austria as a model nation in the scheme of reconstruction, the speaker showed how, with the advice and assistance of the League of Nations, that country had, after having been granted a long moratorium, raised her taxes and reduced expenses and thus avoided the financial disaster which follows continued inflation of currency. The result of the Austrian plan is that that nation is now almost in as good condition as before the war, said the speaker.

DAWES PLAN SOLVENT

Prof. Fisher said that the Dawes plan, modeled after the League of Nations, shows what the United States could do if this country were officially a member of the League and had an official member on the Reparations Commission. The entire situation is Europe today would have been different and better, he said, had America joined the League of Nations long ago and agreed, with other allies, to protect France from possible German invasion.

"Such a step would not have meant the sending of our young men to Europe a second time, for Germany would, under those conditions, never have dreamed of another invasion of France," said the speaker. "It would also have left France no excuse to enter the Ruhr. As it is now, France is almost bankrupt as a result of her Ruhr campaign, a campaign which she deemed imperative for her financial and national salvation. On the other hand, Germany has been placed in harder straits than ever. All this might have been averted had America played the good hand which she held in the international game.

SHORT COVERING IN FUTURES MARKS DAY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, July 16.—Spot cotton closed 20 points net higher at 31.47 cents.

The futures market closed with a wave of heavy buying today, in which new crop positions got up more than $4.50 a bale, although finishing some 20 points under the day's top. The advance was due to heavy short-covering by local bears and active buying by western interests, based on reports of hot winds in Southern Texas. The sharp rise in wheat and corn was another factor.

Circulation of notices for 2500 bales on July options induced scattered selling by commission houses on call earlier but a rallying tendency was shown when the notices were taken up by important interests. July was up only 37 points at the close, while other months were up 71 to 75 points net.

Heavy Trading in Wheat Pit; Damage Report

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, July 16.—Continued sensational damage reports on the Canadian wheat crop in the form of scattered showers in the three provinces with dry weather and hot wind reports from the American Northwest brought in a wave of speculative buying that swept values up 5@6½c from the early low to a new high on the crop. Closing trades were at net gains of 3½@4½c.

Trade in wheat was on an immense scale, with wide fluctuations in prices. So heavy did business become toward the last that many commission houses were unable to report expectation of buying and selling orders until after the close. There was scattered selling early on the rain reports from parts of the Canadian northwest, but the break was short-lived and the surplus was taken off the market by strong commission houses. There was no let-up in the damage claims from the three provinces, and losses are irreparable in some sections.

Rouine news attracted no attention. The erratic action of futures presaged export business and sales at the seaboard and Gulf were reported at around 250,000 bushels. July here finished at 1.26. September at 1.26¾@1.27. December at 1.29¼@1.29 and May at 1.33¾.

While near-by deliveries of corn showed further congestion, they failed to get into new ground for the season, but the new crop futures were taken on a big scale by commission houses and shorts and advanced to 96c for December and 91¼ for May, a new high on the crop, and the finish was at the top, with net gains of 3¼@3½c the latter on September, which closed at 1.04⅞@1.05, with July at 1.10½.

Reports that the Canadian oats crop had suffered as severely as wheat from the continued hot and dry weather, attracted a material increase in speculative interest to the oats market, and July, December and May sold at a new high on the crop and finished at the top with net gains of 1@2¼c, with May leading. There was some buying of September credited to a leading local operator, who was also believed to have been a big buyer of corn.

Rye advanced 3¼@3¾c, with other grains, with some attention given to reports that the final crop would be smaller than expected, due to abandoned acreage. Export business was small.

INFLUENCE OF FUEL OIL TOLD

Commissioner Outlines Effect on Public Utilities

Explains Relation of Power Concerns to Petroleum

Heavy Gain in Consumption by Gas Companies

The compelling influence of fuel oil on all California public utilities was emphasized yesterday by Commissioner Harley W. Brundige of the State Railroad Commission, in an address before the Chamber of Mines and Oil.

Gas and electric utilities in California will use 14,500,000 barrels of fuel oil during 1924, and the railroads operating in California will use on their entire systems upward of $40,000,000 worth of oil during the present year, Commissioner Brundige pointed out. He also gave interesting facts in regard to the great increase in the work of the Railroad Commission of California during the last fiscal year, ending July 30, 1924.

Commissioner Brundige asserted that the regulation of public utilities in California is closely associated or tied in with the petroleum industry, and any fluctuation in the production or price of oil is immediately reflected in the rates and service of a number of the chief utilities of the State.

"This is best illustrated," he said, "by the fact that the Railroad Commission for the last two years has kept in effect a sliding scale of rates for manufactured gas and steam-heating service, based on the prevailing price of fuel oil.

"All rates for manufactured gas, which is produced from oil, are automatic at the present time, the rate varying on the basis of approximately 2.1 cents per 1000 cubic feet for each 10 cents increase or decrease in the price of oil per barrel. An increase of 25 cents per barrel in oil will automatically result in an increase in the public's bill for gas service in California by $1,150,000 per year.

"In this connection," the commissioner observed, "it is interesting to observe that the cost of regulated fuels in California has not increased in the same ratio that unregulated necessities of life have increased. Figures collected by the United States Department of Labor recently showed that the price levels now prevailing for all necessities of life, as compared with those of the prewar period in 1913, have increased an average of 70 per cent, while the average rate paid for gas throughout California during 1923 was 52.8 cents per 1000 cubic feet, or approximately 30 per cent less than the average prewar rate of 1913.

HIGH FUEL COSTS

This is in striking contrast to the increase of 81 per cent in fuel costs throughout the United States noted by the Department of Labor. The California figure includes the total sale of gas by California gas utilities, and the decrease in price over prewar conditions has been made possible by the enormous use of gas by California industries. Many industries in this State use gas exclusively for fuel by reason of its lower cost, greater convenience and its ability to adapt itself to very close regulation.

"The electric utilities of California," he said, "will use 10,000,000 barrels of oil during 1924 due to dry-year conditions, as against 3,000,000 barrels in 1923. Gas utilities will use 4,500,000 barrels of oil this year, as against 4,200,000 barrels last year. The increase in the use of oil to present conditions represents approximately 7,000,000 barrels in excess of that which would be required in a normal year. In addition to this, the utilities are using natural gas equivalent to more than 1,000,000 barrels of oil.

"For the year 1924 the oil bill of the gas and electric utilities will be approximately $20,000,000. The steam railroads operating in California, using oil for fuel on their western divisions, used in 1923 26,000,000 barrels of oil for their entire system. The fuel bill for oil per year approximates $35,000,000 to $46,000,000. Every 10-cent increase in the price of oil for the steam roads represents an increase in operating expenses of $2,800,000 per annum.

"The fuel bill for the electric utilities of California in 1924, due to increase in the price of oil and increased use due to dry-year conditions, will be approximately $10,000,000 greater than in 1923."

THE BANK OF CALIFORNIA, N. A., SAN FRANCISCO, Trustee.

Issuance authorized by the Railroad Commission of the State of California.
Exempt from California Personal Property Tax.

Application has been made to the Superintendent of Banks to certify these bonds as a legal investment for savings banks in California, and these bonds are offered subject to such certification.

The following information is summarized from a letter of Mr. George W. McNear, President of the Company:

The Port Costa Water Company was incorporated under the laws of California in 1898, succeeding a business established by its predecessor as far back as 1887. The Company serves without competition the territory along the south shore of San Pablo Bay between Concord and Rodeo, including the towns of Concord, Martinez, Port Costa, Crockett, Valona, Tormey, Selby, Oleum and Rodeo, located in Contra Costa County, California. In addition the Company supplies large amounts of water for industrial purposes to the Southern Pacific Company, the Shell Oil Company at Martinez, the California and Hawaiian Sugar Refining Corporation at Crockett, the Union Oil Company at Oleum, and the American Smelting and Refining Company at Selby.

The present water supply of the Company developed over a period of thirty years, is believed to be the only dependable, adequate and economically accessible supply of water in the district served. The Company supplied its customers last year with more than 500,000,000 gallons of water and its present facilities are believed adequate to have supplied at least 250,000,000 gallons additional. The Company owns 200 acres of proven water bearing lands on which additional wells may be developed as the necessity arises. The Company's pumping plants and system of mains are in first class condition.

The California Railroad Commission as of May 1, 1922, valued the Company's property for rate making purposes at $758,000. The cost of extensions since that time plus the value of the Company's non-operative property, amount to $85,891.86, making a total value of $843,891.86, or more than $1875 for each $1000 bond.

The net earnings of the Company before interest charges, Federal Income Taxes and depreciation for the past three years, as verified by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company, have averaged $66,658.30. This is more than 2¼ times the annual interest charges on the present issue. Water sales for the first six months of this year are more than 15% in excess of those for the corresponding period last year, which was the best in the Company's history.

Beginning with the year 1925, the mortgage will provide for a sinking fund into which one-half of the Company's annual earnings, after operating expenses, maintenance, depreciation, taxes and interest charges, must be paid each year up to a maximum in any one year of 10% of the par value of all outstanding bonds under the mortgage. This money may be used either to redeem bonds issued under this mortgage or for betterments and additions against which no future bonds can be issued. Additional bonds may be issued to refund bonds of a previous series or for 60% of the actual cost of betterments and extensions not paid for out of the proceeds of the sinking fund, when earnings available for the Company's interest requirements together with the interest requirements on the bonds to be issued have been one and three-quarters times such charges for twelve consecutive months of the fourteen months immediately preceding the application for the sale or authentication of such additional bonds.

We offer these bonds when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to the approval of all legal matters by Messrs. Goodfellow, Eells, Moore & Orrick.

Price 100 and Interest to Yield 6½%

BOND QUOTATIONS

Sensational Bonds Rise
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]
NEW YORK, July 16.—The pace of trading quickened perceptibly today, bringing recovery in the Brazilian issues, and substantial improvement in the values of railroad liens.

Reports of Federal successes in the Brazilian revolution were encouraging to bondholders and railroads bonded in for the St. Louis to Rio de Janeiro 5s, Sao Paulo 8s, Brazilian government 5s and Central Railway 7s.

The demonstrations in the bond shares stimulated buying of various rail bonds. Buying orders flooded in for the St. Louis bringing advances of 1½ points, while gains of a point or more were registered by the Maryland, Seaboard Air Line, Louisville and Nashville, Northern Pacific and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul issues. Illinois Central issues appeared in the limelight, although the main trend of this group was upward, gains ranging from fractions to 1¼ points took place in Wilson & Co., Virginia-Carolina Chemical and Armour issues.

Following new financing in excess of a total of more than $30,000,000 for public utility and industrial bond issues under consideration, but to be offered until next week, an active opening movement on bonds listed on the New York Stock Exchange, furnished by Logan & Bryan, 638 South Spring street:

TRUE STORIES OF THE DOLLAR

Wise Investors Seek Safety Before Large Return

Small Capital Entitled to Equal Protection

Honest Advice is Essential in Making Sure

This is the fourth of a series of articles written for The Times by Thomas N. Dysart, a member of the board of governors of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, which he calls "Tales of the Dollar." They are told for the purpose of pointing out some of the pitfalls into which the unwary often fall, and to show the average man or woman how to invest safely and soundly. In the next installment the author will discuss "This Country's Wealth."—[Ed.

BY THOMAS N. DYSART

One of the greatest investing mediums in the United States is the life-insurance companies. They have total combined assets of about $9,500,000,000. Most of this is invested in bonds, mortgages, high-grade seasoned stocks in old-established corporations and in loans on their own policies. These companies have almost $55,000,000,000 of life insurance in force and yearly they receive approximately $2,000,000,000 in premiums. They must invest millions of dollars every week. To do this they employ a highly trained force of investment experts.

Now, it is the duty and the business of a life-insurance company to provide safe insurance for its policy-holders as cheaply as possible. The existence of the company depends on safety and low costs more than anything else, for competition is keen in the business. Their investment experts are eager to obtain the soundest securities that will yield the highest possible returns. If they could scout around and find safe investments that would yield 10 or 15 or 20 per cent it is reasonable to assume they would do it—and they could do it if anyone could. But it can't be done, and the individual investor who accepts the spoken or written word of some oil swindler, bucketshop operator or other faker that it can be done is simply ignoring the long-proved experience of honest men who have invested billions of dollars.

The banks of this country have about $30,000,000,000 in loans and discounts. These are the short-time credits that take care of the country's day-to-day and month-to-month business. In addition, the banks have about $13,000,000,000 invested in long-time credits, in bonds, stocks and mortgages. There are about 250 fraternal orders in the United States which have approximately $400,000,000 in assets and $8,000,000,000 of life insurance in force. These, like the life-insurance companies, are big investors and they follow the same expert investing course.

SAFETY FIRST

As a guide to the less experienced let us consider how these wisest and biggest of investors go about it. Do they go into new inventions and enterprises that promise huge fortunes, honestly, too? No, they do not. They know that new inventions and new enterprises are hazardous and more often fail than not. They know that such things should interest only those who can afford to lose if the enterprise fails.

Do they look for gold mines and oil gushers? There are quite a number of gushers and profitable gold mines. No.

Do they go to strangers looking for investment bargains, ground-floor tips and schemes that will pay 20 to 100 per cent? No. Instead, they look first and always for just two things—safety and honesty. They know that they can get safety and honesty only by buying securities from honest persons.

These big investors of billions of dollars go out into the market, just as does the baby bond buyer, and seek sound investments. The chief difference between these wisest investors and the most unwise investor is that the wisest go to honest investment dealers and are careful to know that the dealers are honest, while the most unwise investor doesn't know the character of the person or firm with whom he deals.

The small investor can have just as good a bond as any multimillionaire, life-insurance company or bank—he shouldn't have anything else. There's no excuse for buying a poor-grade security. But the small investor will have to do as do the multimillionaire and the life-insurance company and the bank. He'll have to go to the same places to buy them.

Trust Company Conference in Salt Lake City

The second regional trust company conference of trust companies and banks performing trust services in the eleven Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain States will be held at Salt Lake City on October 7 and 8. The regional conference, affording a connecting link between the national association and the State units in Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Oregon, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Arizona and New Mexico, was inaugurated last year at San Francisco and the results obtained were considered so profitable that it has been decided to hold an annual regional meeting in this district as a means of interchange in advanced fiduciary thought.

More than $500,000,000 in property is already instrusted to banks performing trust functions within the area embraced by the coming conference, and this amount is increasing at the rate of about $100,000,000 annually.

Approximately ten topical discussions and two demonstrations will constitute the program, which will be novel in that there will be no set speeches. The conference will be held under the auspices of the trust company division of the American Bankers' Association.

Too Old to Learn

"Sweet are the uses of adversity," said the confirmed quoter.

"I believe so," retorted the dissatisfied one, "but somehow or another I don't seem to be able to cultivate a taste for it."—[Boston Transcript.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Oil stocks marked time again in yesterday's trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. July Offering of Specially Selected

7% Tax Free Street Improvement Bonds

WE offer for July investment an especially selected list of Street Improvement Bonds issued by various California cities.

Street Improvement Bonds are a first lien on city property—ahead of all contractual obligations such as mortgages, deeds of trust, leases, etc.

Street Improvement Bonds represent only the cost of paving and other improvements such as sewers and sidewalks installed by the cities for the benefit of the property bonded. For that reason the ratio of land value to bond lien is greater than in any other security based on real estate, with which we are acquainted.

The various offerings have been carefully selected with reference to property values, location and general desirability. We invite a careful inspection.

To Yield 7½% Tax Free $150,000

Very attractive, various offerings from several cities: San Bernardino, Colton, Burbank, Glendale and Hermosa. No less secure or satisfactory than Los Angeles City offerings, but fixed for a higher yield, giving our customers the benefit of our buying power. Every bond offered is amply secured and the Cities in which they are located have all long since demonstrated their stability.

To Yield 7% Tax Free $200,000 City of Los Angeles

Our lists include issues for the improvement of Western Ave., 18th St., San Pedro; Rowena Ave. and many other streets in the city of Los Angeles, all within the built-up area of the city, and none of them covering new subdivisions.

To Yield 6½% $180,000

1915 Act Improvement Bonds issued by the Cities of Bakersfield, San Diego, Torrance, Inglewood and Huntington Beach. Bonds issued under the 1915 Act possess all the protective features of the Street Improvement Bond plus the obligating of the issuing city, imposed by statute, to pay any delinquent assessments. These bonds are serial in form with maturities from one to ten years. Denominations $500 to $1000 one of the best securities in California.

BONDS ARE READY FOR IMMEDIATE DELIVERY IN AMOUNTS TO SUIT THE CONVENIENCE OF CUSTOMERS.

We believe that California Street Improvement Bonds, such as we offer, are not only one of the best, if not the best tax-free investment in California, but with the service we render to our clients, one of the easiest and most conven

Suspect Taken as Grower of Mexican Drug

Local marijuana smokers suffered the loss of one of their principal sources of supply yesterday, according to Richard Earl, inspector for the State Pharmacy Board, when what he said was a farm devoted to the cultivation of the Mexican drug was raided and the season's crop cut down.

Romela Allarada, 1328 Thomas street, Pomona, is under arrest charged with violating the State Poison Act. On his place near Pomona, Inspector Earl and Chief of Police Lyter of Pomona, said they discovered a half-acre of loco weed, from which the manijuana leaves are obtained, concealed in a field of corn, along with a shed for drying the harvested crop, stripping the leaves from the stalks and packing them in tobacco boxes.

Allarada is said to have sold the drug in tobacco boxes to peddlers, who in turn made it up into cigarettes, which sold for 25 cents each.

Allarada pleaded not guilty before Justice White of Pomona yesterday and was held under $1000 bail to appear for trial tomorrow.

After negotiations extending over several weeks, in which practically every operator interested in the Comanche Point district has participated, a third test of the oil possibilities in that area is to be started immediately, it was learned yesterday. The well is to be financed by lease holders in the district, and is to be drilled by the General Petroleum Corporation on its own property, it is said. The derrick was built several weeks ago and machinery is to be moved in at once, drilling to be started not later than August 3.

Among the operators interested in the project are the General Petroleum with about 800 acres, George F. Getty, 40 acres; Honolulu Consolidated Oil Company, 400 acres; Universal Oil Company, 200 acres, Joseph B. Dabney, 150 acres; Petroleum Midway Company, Ltd., 160 acres; Russell Oil Company, 80 acres; Globe Petroleum Corporation, 480 acres; Comanche Point Oil Company, 480 acres; W. W. Stabler, 3600 acres; Pacific Oil Company, 2000 acres; Marland Oil Company, 160 acres; Sun Oil Company of New Jersey, 200 acres, and the Standard Oil Company, which holds several hundred acres.

The new well is to be drilled one mile west of the Tejon No. 1, drilled by the Globe Petroleum Corporation last year, which went to 2527 feet, and found oil sand at 1630 and 1830 feet. No test of the shallower sand was made by the Globe, but at 1830 feet a production test produced six barrels per day of 14 gravity oil for several days. An earlier test by the Comanche Point Oil Company, two and one-half miles north of the present project was drilled in-granite at 2365 feet and abandoned.

Over $225,000 was spent in drilling these two wells, according to W. W. Stabler, who organized the Globe and Comanche Point companies, and was chiefly instrumental in launching the present project.

Shell-Hellman Wet

The Shell Company's Hellman No. 1, in the northern area of the Dominguez field swabbed wet on its second shutoff test and is to be recemented, according to officials of the company. The bottom is at 5237 feet, and is regarded by Shell geologists to be stratigraphically deeper than the General Petroleum Corporation's wells farther to the north, which are generally conceded to be in the edge of the field.

Make Third Test

The Superior Oil Company is making a third test of the 3838-feet formation in its Moreland No. 1, in the extreme eastern part of the Rosecrans field, according to official reports. The well was drilled to 4171 feet originally, but had a bad fishing job, which left over 600 feet of casing in the hole. It was plugged back to test the 3838 formations where showings were found, but two tests have been wet, it is said.

In Oil Showings

The Maxwell No. 1, 600 feet south and east of the Union Oil Company's Rosecrans No. 1, is drilling ahead at 4286 feet, and has found good showings below 4147 feet, where casing was set, according to officials of the Superior Oil Company.

Down 4550 Feet

The Casserini wildcat well of the Associated Oil Company in the Baldwin Hills area is drilling at 4550 feet. Showings are not encouraging, according to field reports. The Casserini well was taken over from the Fifty Seven Petroleum Corporation by the Associated about five weeks ago, after strong gas indications had been reported.

Through Fishing

The Rowell No. 1 well, which is being drilled by the St. Helens Petroleum Corporation in the eastern part of the Rosecrans field, has completed its fishing job and is drilling at 3850 feet, according to officials of the company. Drillers lost about 1000 feet of drill pipe in the Rowell, which required nearly two weeks to extract.

In Blue Shale

The Trustees' Development Association is drilling at 2300 feet in blue shale in its wildcat well on the Jacob Mueller ranch near Orange, according to field reports. The association plans to drill to 3600 feet, it is said.

Set Casing

The Vosburgh wildcat well in the Arcadia district has set eight-inch casing at 3465 feet, and is drilling ahead, according to reports from the field.

New Safety Device

The Standard Oil Company has introduced a new feature for the safety of men climbing to the top of derricks that is causing much comment in the field. The device consists of a zig-zag ladder instead of the straight one in general use. It is in six sections, with as many platforms. Upon reaching the top the climber goes through a trap onto a platform instead of making the long final reach to climb over the top. Chances of serious injury or death through falling have been reduced through the series of platforms with each flight screened in with heavy material. A climber could only fall a few feet and would not be hurt if he lost his balance.

AMERICAN PEOPLE DO LOVE SUGAR

Each Resident of This Country Will Consume One Hundred Pounds

During the first six months of 1924 the American people consumed 6,247,000,000 pounds of sugar, according to figures compiled by Facts About Sugar, the trade journal of the sugar industry. This represents an average of approximately fifty-six pounds for every man, woman and child in the country, including, of course, the quantity consumed in manufactured products such as candy, ice cream, soft drinks and bakery products as well as that required for ordinary household use.

This is an average of over two pounds per week per person for the whole country. For the six-month period the amount used per capita is about two pounds more than during the first half of 1923 and about two pounds less than in the first half of 1922 when consumption of sugar reached its highest record.

While the distribution of sugar is regularly higher during the first half of the year than during the second half, present indications are that the total amount used during 1924 will amount to 11,200,000,000 pounds, or an average of 00 pounds for each resident of the country. Last year it was about ninety-five pounds. Apparently the explanation of the larger consumption this year is to be found in the fact that the average retail price has been from one to two cents a pound less than last year.

This year's crops of beet sugar in the Central and Western States and of cane sugar in Cuba, Porto Rico and Hawaii, all of which enjoy a tariff preference in the United States markets, are larger than last year's and the increased supply has brought down the price paid by consumers.

MAY DODGE TRIAL IN SALE OF OIL STOCK

A. C. Langan may escape prosecution for asserted violation of the Corporate Securities Act through a technicality, it developed yesterday in Judge Hardy's court. The date of the offense, according to the complaint, was May 31, last, but the witnesses produced said they bought stock of the Five Star Oil Syndicate in January, February and March. Attorneys for Langan asked for a direction of acquittal and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Lucas offered to dismiss the present complaint and file another giving different dates. An argument then started whether Langan had been placed in jeopardy by the present trial and Judge Hardy will rule on the question today.

FOREVER SEALED TO REST UNDISTURBED
Crypt Entombment in Reinforced Concrete, Faced With Marble, Provided by California Mausoleum Co.
Those whose thoughtfulness and consideration for their beloved dead have led them to lay their departed away in the beautiful Mausoleums in Inglewood and Hollywood Cemeteries have the intense satisfaction of knowing that as much as can be done has been done to perpetuate the inviolability of the deceased.
Individually entombed in solid reinforced concrete, faced with marble, in a structure designed to endure and grow more beautiful with age, bodies laid away under such conditions are inviolate. Perpetual endowment for maintenance of dignified and tasteful surroundings completes the imposed trust, so far as human hands and hearts can provide.
Whoever has seen a deserted graveyard or one that has been surrounded by a city's noisy growth, can appreciate the advantages, to the living, as well as the dead, of the methods provided by the California Mausoleum Company in its two "Chaste Temples of the Dead"—and will respect them. They are not for the rich only—crypts may be had for little more than ordinary burial would cost. Telephone MAin 1534 for the beautiful booklet issued by the Company, wherein by word and picture the details of the Mausoleum idea are explained. The offices of the Company are at 206 Harris Bldg., 110 West 11th St.—[Advertisement.

OUR SLUMBERING COUNCIL

The city government of Los Angeles is the largest business corporation west of Chicago.

The budget for the fiscal year calls for more than $25,000,000, including interest and sinking fund charges.

Large sums of money have been voted for carrying out important public enterprises. A new City Hall is to be built; there are projected harbor improvements; viaducts, a new public library and other tremendous projects.

The management of these important and portentous affairs requires big business brains—financial genius and directorial sagacity. It is "big stuff;" big problems; big projects; big responsibilities.

The city of Los Angeles should have—and sadly needs—the biggest, wisest and ablest board of directors of any business enterprise in the West.

Have the voters placed the affairs of the city in the hands of men who measure up to this standard?

An examination of the conduct of public business at the City Hall shows a tragic inadequacy.

The officials now in office seem utterly unequal, not only to coping with the big affairs of city government; but even to realizing the importance of them.

Any private corporation which did business in the same slovenly, indifferent, ineffective way could not survive six months.

An instance of this wretched inefficiency is the condition in the office of the building inspector.

During the period of our greatest building activity the city was confronted by a vast business emergency. Construction was going on at a rate probably never equaled by any American city.

The building inspector could not cope with the situation. He was buried in the rush of contractors seeking permits. He implored the City Council for more help. He needed better salaries for technical experts to check the building plans and to issue the necessary permits.

The Chamber of Commerce, the building and contractors' associations added their pleas to his. It was a critical situation.

What was done by the City Council? Nothing. The permits continued to pile up; trained men quit the city's employ. Contractors lost millions of dollars while waiting to start work.

It was a problem which required administrative method and ability. The City Council was either willfully indifferent or utterly unequal to the emergency.

A similar condition delayed operations in the office of the City Engineer.

Property owners' petitions asking street improvements accumulated mountain high. The owners themselves were to pay the bills for this work. All that was needed was official action. But the whole thing stood still. There were no engineers to prepare the necessary ordinances.

The City Council did nothing. Except to look on in helpless dismay. It was a situation that called for resource and action. The Council sat still. Nearly two years passed before an emergency appropriation was made to employ outside engineers to do this necessary work. Some of the petitions accumulated dust in the engineer's office for two years, all for the lack of some simple measure of ordinary business management. When help was finally authorized it resulted in a deficit for which there appears to be no adequate explanation.

The Council has sat in apathy and indifference before the gravest traffic problem that has ever confronted any modern city. Its members have passed picayunish regulations about the hours of parking. But they have done nothing in a big way even to consider the traffic problem. They have merely shuffled around in the direction of least resistance, yielding to whatever lobby exerted the most pressure, seemingly content to get the clamor out of their ears without thought of anything beyond.

The truth is, the problem was just too big for them either to tackle or to realize.

Finally the Automobile Club of Southern California was forced in desperation to do something about the traffic as a public duty. It employed experts and engineers to survey the conditions and make recommendations. The result of this survey was a report that attracted nation-wide attention. It attracted attention everywhere except in the City Hall. It did not even disturb the slumbers in the Council Chamber.

Copies were printed and sent to the Mayor and members of the City Council. Representatives of the club appeared at the City Hall daily for weeks hoping for action. They finally gave up in disgust. It is doubtful if the Mayor or any member of the City Council ever read the report.

The City Council holds long sessions each day of the week except Saturday. What do they talk about? What do they do?

Usually the discussion rages hotly about buying supplies. Lobbyists for these supplies haunt the City Hall. They buzz around like flies. The lobby of the City Hall and the private offices of the Councilmen are the happy hunting grounds of agents with something to sell the city.

Meanwhile the vital, big problems of the city government languish.

No business man of this city would trust the smallest branch agency to such ineptitude, indifference, inefficiency and inadequacy and stupidity.

Mr. Pomerene will appear before United States District Judge McCormick Monday and urge an early setting of the trial of the government's suit to cancel the Elk Hills naval oil reserve leases held by the Doheny company. Both Mr. Pomerene and U. S. Atty. Burke will ask that the trial be set for

Mr. Doheny and Mr. Fall have been friends for many years.

Mr. Fall Tuesday appeared in Federal Court in El Paso, Tex., where he posted $5000 bonds to insure his appearance for trial.

The indictments grew out of an investigation of the leasing of naval reserve oil land in Wyoming and California during Mr. Fall's tenure of office.

TROOP CALL IN FIRE DELAYED

Governor Will Leave Today to Meet Forester

Richardson Defers Action on Coolidge Proffer

Hundreds Still Are Fighting Flames in Canyons

Gov. Richardson will leave Los Angeles today for Sacramento for a conference with the State Forester regarding the menacing forest-fire situation in the State. This announcement followed the publication of press dispatches saying President Coolidge had offered to send forces of the United States Army and Navy into the burning area, if necessary, in an effort to aid in checking the conflagration.

At the Sacramento conference the advisability of asking the President for the aid of Federal troops will be taken up. Gov. Richardson said last night that he will have no announcement to make concerning this phase of the situation until after he has conferred with the State Forester.

The Governor said he had not received any official notice of the proffer reported by press dispatches to have been made by the President.

REPORTS ENCOURAGE

Optimistic reports concerning the progress of the battle being waged against the flames in the Santa Barbara National Forest were received last night at the office of County Forester Flintham.

Several hundred men were concentrated last night in Kings Canyon region where the most serious fire was declared to be. A huge fire break was thrown across the saddle between Saw Mill Mountain, on the north slope of which the fire was raging with greatest intensity last night, and Saw Tooth Mountain. This would have the effect of checking the flames leaping across the canyon. The wind is favorable to the fighters and it was believed this line will be under control by today.

Late yesterday afternoon the fire flared up anew from the embers in Pine Canyon and swept along a mile-wide path toward the more barren area of Antelope Valley. This outbreak was opposed by several hundred fighters who were already worn to a point of exhaustion by the prolonged struggle.

On the other fronts of the fire, a southwesterly wind of freakish intensity was carrying the flames back over the burned area, virtually extinguishing itself and allowing badly needed fighters to be thrown to the scene of the northern flare-up.

Unless the wind changes, the thickly wooded areas around Hughes and Elizabeth lakes are out of danger, reports stated. The Tweedy Gun Club, threatened time and again by new outbreaks, was believed to be safe.

That the worst part of the struggle is past was the belief expressed from headquarters of the fire fighters late yesterday. The Pine Canyon outbreak, it was declared, has now reached the last ridge between the Sawmill Range and Antelope Valley. If it spreads to the less heavily wooded valley, fighters may battle the flames more effectively than is possible in the more inaccessible parts of the hills.

Forest Supervisor Jordan, after two airplane trips over the fire-swept area late yesterday reported that the flames on the Fish Creek side, toward the Ridge Route, seem to be under control. A remote possibility exists that the fire may spread into the San Liebre Mountains, he declared.

Immediately following the report of the new flare-up County

JURY CITES NEED OF MONEY

Federal Body Urges Revolving Fund for Increasing Efficiency; Returns Secret Indictments

Resolutions recommending the establishment of a revolving fund out of which necessary expenses incurred by Federal officials and their deputies could immediately be paid, thus adding to the efficient of the government service, were submitted to Federal Judge Jams yestrday by the Federal grand jury.

In addition the jury submitted its last report, containing several secret indictments, and was discharged. The jury called for the July term will hold its first session tomorrow, United States Attorney Joe Burke said.

Judge James told the jury their recommendations were timely and he would do all he could to impress officials at Washington with the need for more money and with the necessity of expediting government work in Southern California. He said the department heads controlling the work of local government officials fail to realize the rapid growth of Southern California. The officials in the national capital, he said, still think of this part of the country in terms of its population twenty years ago.

THE RESOLUTIONS

The resolutions of the jury, signed by R. W. Pridham, foreman, were as follows:

"Whereas, it appears that the efficiency of the government service is impaired by the fact that Federal investigating officers are called upon to expend money for traveling, investigation and other necessary and proper purposes from their own funds, particularly in the prohibition and narcotic services, and

"Whereas, we believe that the public welfare would be best promoted by the establishment of a revolving fund out of which such necessary expenses incurred by our officials and their deputies could be immediately paid;

"Therefore, be it resolved, that we recommend such amendment to the statutes, rules and regulations, as may be necessary to permit the head of each department of our government, in the several districts throughout the country, to have a revolving fund sufficient in amount to meet and pay all proper and necessary incidental expenses arising out of, or appertaining to, the conduct of each respective department.

EFFICIENCY IS AIM

"We believe that the adoption of such a policy on behalf of our government will tend to greater efficiency, will expedite the transaction of the government's business and maintain the government service at the highest standard of personal integrity.

"In concluding our work we wish to commend the United States Attorney for the impartial and efficient manner in which he and his assistants have prepared and presented for our consideration the various matters with which we have been called upon to deal."

Judge James said the amount of red tape necessary in the transaction of business by the various government officers is constantly in evidence. Referring specifically to the assignment of rooms in the Federal Building, he said that on occasions it had required as much as two months to secure the allotment of office space. Whereas the government is paying about $150,000 in the rental of office space outside of the Federal Building in San Francisco, it is paying practically nothing for outside office space in Los Angeles, he explained.

The prohibition officers in Los Angeles are particularly hindered in their work because of the difficulty they meet in obtaining money necessary for incidental expenses, Judge James said. Their needs are especially great, he added, because they represent a small force working with only half-hearted support from police in the enforcement of the prohibition law.

REFEREES IN CITY CENTER PLAN NAMED

Board Will Hear Evidence on Value of Property to be Condemned in Area

Preliminary steps looking to the construction of Los Angeles's proposed $10,000,000 Civic Center were taken yesterday when Presiding Judge York of Superior Court, at the request of City Attorney Stephens, appointed a board of referees to hear evidence relating to the value of the land sought to be condemned by the city for the municipal buildings.

The center will be bounded by First, Main, Temple and New High streets, according to present plans, and will extend northward and westward to The Times Building at First and Broadway. Condemnation proceedings for the land sought were filed several months ago by the city, naming more than a thousand property owners defendants.

The duties of the board of referees appointed by Judge York will be to estimate and make proper awards for the damages sustained by property owners in the district to be condemned. Several historic buildings are scheduled to be razed to make way for the civic structures, including the Bank of Italy Building, the Equitable Building and the Bullard and Temple Blocks.

Those appointed to the board of referees are Willard L. Goodwin, Robson O. Bell and Paul Crippin.

CAUSE OF CRUSHED TOES IS MYSTERY

The mystery of how Stephen Correll, 22 years of age, got several of his toes crushed Tuesday night was being investigated yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Sweesy. Correll said he sat down to rest and wait for a street car on East Slauson avenue and remembered nothing more. William Birdsall, who lives near by, said Correll crawled to his porch and that he took him home. There were marks on Correll's shoes indicating they had been crushed on trolley rails, but his injuries were not sufficient for him to have been run over by a car. It was thought perhaps a handcar struck him.

Eagle Boats of Navy Arrive at Port on Cruise

U.S.S. Eagle Nos. 45 and 37, carrying officers and men of the San Francisco naval reserve unit on a two-weeks' cruise, arrived last night at Los Angeles Harbor. Each craft is manned by five officers and seventy men.

The cruise is in command of Commander John A. McGee. Eagle No. 45 is commanded by Lieutenant Commander J. D. Austin and Eagle No. 37 is in charge of Lieutenant Commander J. H. Willey.

Shore leave was extended last night to the reservists with orders to report tomorrow. The boats sail from the harbor Saturday for Catalina Island, where they will remain until Monday. The reservists are due in San Francisco at the end of the cruise on Saturday, the 26th inst.

Commander McGee reported he passed the Eagle No. 34 yesterday at Santa Barbara. This craft was with the Eagle No. 12 when the latter ship broke down off the Mexican Coast and remained without communication with headquarters of the Fleventh Naval District for five days. The Eagle No. 34, carrying fifty Los Angeles reservists, is due to return to the port here next Monday.

GAINSBOROUGH CAUSES SUIT

Pasadena Art Critic Seeks $49,800 Damages from Connoisseur for Asserted Contract Breach

E. F. Squadrilli, Pasadena art critic, yesterday filed suit in Superior Court for $49,800 damages against Bradford Perin, reputed wealthy art collector, for asserted breach of contract involving, according to the complaint, the proposed sale of an original Gainsborough portrait Squadrilli valued at $200,000.

The complaint recites that the portrait was one of Thomas Gainsborough himself, done by the famous English artist about 1755. Perin was said to have purchased the painting in England about a year ago at a price of £3 sterling. At that time, according to the plaintiff, the original Gainsborough was covered with another painting, and Perin employed Squadrilli to clean the canvas, thus revealing the famous portrait.

Perin is asserted to have agreed to dispose of the picture and to give Squadrilli 25 per cent of the sale price as his compensation for discovering the valuable Gainsborough. Squadrilli declares Perin advanced him $200, and the amount he sues for is his estimate of what he said he should have received if the painting had been sold at its top value.

Squadrilli states the painting was still hanging in Perin's gallery in Pasadena and he expresses the belief the defendant had no intention of disposing of it, although Squadrilli declared Perin had had many opportunities to sell the canvas a large sum. The complaint was prepared by Attorney Roger Marchetti.

Film Executive Indicates Certain Advertising May be Subject of Control

Will Hays, president of the national organization of the Motion Picture Producers' Association, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday on one of his migratory visits to the film capital. He will remain about a week to confer with officials of the State Producers' Association.

With his customary conservativeness, Mr. Hays declined to go into detail about the work he expects to do in California. "Just one of my semiannual visits," he said. "I will see Mr. Schenck and other officials of the California Motion Picture Producers' Association."

But the film executive admitted one of the matters he expects to take up is the advertising methods used by certain theaters in exploiting "decent" pictures. "That is something we have had complaints about for some time," Hays declared, "and I wouldn't be surprised if we didn't do something definite while I am out here."

Mr. Hays is stopping at the Beverly Hills Hotel. He is accompanied by Maurice McKenzie, his executive assistant.

DRIVER FACES MURDER IN KILLING OF CHILD

Asserted reckless driving by John T. Perea caused him to be held to answer to a murder charge in Justice Hanby's court yesterday. It was charged his car struck Anna Louise Soland, 3½ years of age, with such force that her head was torn from her body and thrown almost 100 feet. Deputy Sheriff Catlin declared Perea was on the wrong side of the street and was exceeding the speed limit. The accident occurred at Santa Fe avenue and Thirty-seventh street.

HEATH NAMED POLICE CHIEF

Mayor Declares Appointee is Best Fitted to Post

Captain Will Fill Vollmer's Place on August 1

Retiring Leader Pleased by Choice of Successor

Police Captain R. Lee Heath was named late yesterday afternoon by Mayor Cryer as the successor to Chief of Police Vollmer, whose resignation takes effect on August 1.

Capt. Heath will become acting Chief of Police when Chief Vollmer leaves for his vacation, probably Saturday. He will not technically become chief, however, until August 1. Chief Vollmer plans a week's rest in the mountains before returning to Berkeley.

The appointment of Capt. Heath was announced by the Mayor at the conclusion of an hour's conference with the police official. At the conclusion of this conference Capt. Heath stepped out of the executive chambers wearing a broad grin and accepted congratulations from all present on his appointment. He shook hands all around and then said:

"I expect the Mayor will have something to say in a few minutes."

Shortly thereafter Mayor Cryer issued the following dictated statement:

"After carefully canvassing the situation and considering the experience, merits, character and qualifications of the men eligible for appointment I have reached the conclusion that Capt. Lee Heath is the man best qualified to serve the public in the position of Chief of Police of the city of Los Angeles."

Chief of Police Vollmer was the first to congratulate Capt. Heath at the police station. He expressed entire satisfaction with Mayor Cryer's choice.

"Chief Heath is by intelligence and training peculiarly fitted for the position to which he has been appointed," he said. "His success as an administrator will depend entirely on the quality of support given by the public. He knows the community's needs, is intimately acquainted with the personnel of the department and has the ambition to make the police department of Los Angeles the finest of its kind in the country. His success is assured provided he has the unqualified support of the better element of the city."

Capt. Heath, in a short statement, expressed his regret at the departure of Chief Vollmer, even though the latter's retirement brought about his promotion.

"I admire Chief Vollmer," he said, "and regret very much that he has decided to return to Berkeley. What will be Berkeley's gain will be a loss to the city of Los Angeles. It has been a pleasure to work under his direction for the past year and I am fully in accord with his policies."

Mayor Cryer conferred twice during the day with Capt. Heath and once with Capt. George S. McClary. The former stands second in the certified list of civil service eligibles and the latter third. McClary was eliminated from consideration, it is believed, by his poor health. McClary's health is not of the best. Mayor Cryer stated after his conference with this official.

Chief of Police Charles H. Kelly of Pasadena, who headed the list of eligibles, is still in the East.

RISE IS STEADY

Capt. Heath's rise in the Los Angeles police department has been steady and picturesque. He was appointed a patrolman November 1, 1904; sergeant April 6, 1907; lieutenant October 24, 1910, and captain December 24, 1918.

In February, 1922, he was named assistant chief under civil service classification, but lost that rank when this position was abolished by ordinance. He continued to hold this office, however, at the pleasure of Chief of Police Everington. In June of the same year

FASTER TRAINS FOR FRUITS

Santa Fe, Espee and Union Pacific to Clip Forty-Five Hours from Freight Schedule to East

Announcement by the three transcontinental railroads serving California of a new fast freight schedule for citrus fruits, clipping forty-five hours from the present schedule to eastern cities, was received yesterday by California citrus growers.

The schedule of the new special train service is 154 hours to Chicago from California concentration points at Colton, San Bernardino, Bakersfield and Roseville. A proportionate shortening of the schedules to St. Louis and Memphis will follow soon, reducing the time of citrus fruit in transit to all eastern cities through these principal gateways.

The new schedules are to be effective the 20th inst. They were arranged at a conference between C. O. Cornwell, traffic manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, and chairman of the traffic committee of the California Citrus League, with officials of the railroads concerned. The Santa Fe was represented by Edward Chambers, vice-president and H. P. Anewalt, general freight agent; the Union Pacific by H. M. Adams, vice-president, and W. F. Lincoln, assistant general freight agent; the Southern Pacific by G. W. Luce, traffic manager and J. T. Saunders, assistant freight traffic manager. Vice-president S. H. Johnson of the Rock Island System also attended and participated in the schedule for the Southern Pacific-Rock Island connections to Chicago.

According to railroad officials, the fast schedule is given in recognition of the large volume and value of the citrus industry to the State of California, and its value to the carriers as an all-year-around traffic with steady volume and no peak movement at any time during the year.

The new schedules affect the movement of more than 60,000 carloads of oranges and lemons from California annually, and applied to this large amount of traffic will aid materially in maintaining an adequate supply of refrigerator cars to move the increasing crops of all fruits and vegetables from California. With the shortened running time, each car is enabled to make more round trips and the effect of this is to increase the refrigerator car supply at all times.

Fruit growers greet the innovation as a means of getting their fruit to market in better condition and on a reliable, dependable schedule of deliveries which will permit more efficient distribution.

he resumed the rank of captain of police, only to move back to the chief's office as acting chief of police, following the resignation of Col. Everington.

Capt. Heath began his career in this city as a motorman, assuming this place shortly after his arrival here. Later he became a patrolman at a salary of $95 a month, and in the years that followed he studied journalism and law and passed the bar examination after four years of study. He is married and has one child.

CENTER OF STORM

Like nearly all other high police officials, he has been buffeted constantly by political seas. As commander of Central Division he many times found himself the target for both sides in political controversies. He has participated in virtually every movement started by members of the police department for self-government and fraternal activities and probably no other police officer has been as closely identified with the inner policies of the police department.

His most spectacular battle came recently when he was ousted by Louis Oaks, at that time Chief of Police, for too great political activity in the department. The ousting of Capt. Heath precipitated a political storm. His dismissal was followed by hearings before the Police Commission, which ordered his reinstatement, but censured him for his actions.

POLICE OFFICIALS GIVE VOLLMER PRAISE

Division commanders of the police department had their last weekly meeting with Chief Vollmer yesterday, as the Chief, who leaves office August 1 next, starts on a two weeks' vacation Saturday. They presented him with a typewritten testimonial of regret and appreciation, which read:

"We, the undersigned division commanders of the police department, are desirous of expressing to you our appreciation of your patient, energetic, courteous and highly successful efforts in reorganizing and obtaining adequate equipment for the department of which we are members.

"During the year in which you served as Chief of Police of Los Angeles we found you frank, friendly and a comrade, and we have profited by your precept and example. Your mental attainments and zeal in promoting educational activities had an invigorating effect upon all the members of the police department, and caused the public to take a greater interest in the welfare of policemen.

"We believe that in the years to come the police officers and the general public of Los Angeles will feel an ever-increasing sense of gratitude to you for the unfailing energy and courage with which you worked to give this city a modern police department, properly equipped. The harmony and efficiency now existing in the department should command the respect of all good citizens."

man, "but I don't believe it is true today. This Council is of a temper to do something and I believe we can muster the votes to do it."

Mallard smiled his incredulity.

"How would it be," asked Wheeler, "if we called the offending department head before us and informed him that another offense would result in his dismissal?"

"He would walk out of this room," answered Mallard, "and go away smiling to himself."

"Let's poll the Council right now," suggested Gregory.

"Polling the Council now," insisted Mallard, "would be no criterion when the final test came. Experience has proved that, repeatedly."

"I believe," agreed Allan, "that Mr. Mallard is partially right in what he says, but I should hate to stand here and say that this resolution was a farce and this Council powerless—to say that we recognize the farce and that we were going to sit here and let it grow worse."

"The president of this Council," continued Mallard, "knows that heads of departments are constantly breaking rules that we have passed. Time and time again we have told them not to spend money, but they do it."

Further consideration of the resolution was deferred, pending a report from the Finance Committee in greater detail.

Signal Hill Fire Causes Oil Men to Plan Safety

Steps to prevent a recurrence of the disastrous fire Tuesday which destroyed four oil derricks on Signal Hill, Long Beach, and threatened untold damage to the Lovelady pool, were taken by Long Beach oil operators yesterday, with tentative organization of a self-protection association to prevent and fight similar conflagrations.

Systematizing of safety measures at the field, establishment of a fire patrol and a general cleaning up of leases on the hill are among the chief plans of the operators behind the organization. The fire, which caused damage of approximately $100,000, was brought under control Tuesday night and was extinguished yesterday.

MERVIN McBROOM SOUGHT

Aid of police in locating Mervin McBroom, said to be in Los Angeles, was requested in a telegram received yesterday from John McBroom, the youth's father, of Holton, Kan. The message stated the youth's mother died recently and his father wishes him to return home.

PREPARE CLOTHING SHOW

Tiny frocks, pinafores and rompers yesterday were paraded up and down the large apparel exhibition room on Los Angeles street, each with a chunky little boy or girl within attesting to the excellent quality of Los Angeles children and Los Angeles-made clothes.

The style parade was but a part of the preparations being made by Mrs. Frances Webb and the Los Angeles Apparel Manufacturers' Association for next week, when the first fashion review ever staged by Los Angeles wholesale firms will take place.

The review is planned to disillusion those who have believed that it was necessary for Los Angeles to look elsewhere in the buying of clothes. It will be held at 757 Los Angeles street and every type of clothing will be found among the articles manufactured every year within the boundaries of Los Angeles.

Among children's wear there are many new and ingenious designs in frilly organdies, rustly taffetas and freshly starched ginghams. There are all types of rompers, some resembling a reincarnation of little Jack Horner, and others of the round perky style. The most attractive of them on the front, and have tiny pockets bound with material of a contrasting shade.

WAR BEGUN ON BUCKET SHOPS HERE

Operators Reported to Have Fled from East Sought in State

Concentrated action to rid California of bucket shop operators who are said to have come to the Coast to avoid the war being waged against him in New York and Chicago, was instituted yesterday by E. M. Daugherty, State Commissioner of Corporations.

The clean up program has been placed in the hands of Deputy Commissioner Praul, who said yesterday that the names of nearly a score of operators throughout the State have been referred to him for investigation.

A preliminary move was taken by the commission some weeks ago in ordering the firm of Regan, Rice & Lowery to show cause why its license should not be revoked for operating a bucket shop. After several hearings the commission ruled the firm was engaged in bucketing and revoked its license.

From information Deputy Praul said he has gathered, business is principally done by telephone, the companies employing staffs who attempt to persuade prospective clients into purchasing stock through telephone conversations. The only actual contact made with a customer usually occurs when a messenger boy is sent out from the office to the customer with a confirmation slip of the stock sale, he said.

Lists of clients are often taken from tourist records, Deputy Praul said.

Supreme Court Upholds Death Benefit Ruling

Action of the State Industrial Accident Commission in ordering the payment of death benefit awards to dependent relatives of workmen who have been killed, which involve technical interpretation of the provisions of insurance policies, was upheld again by the State Supreme Court yesterday. It affirmed an award the commission made to the family of Manuel Gajo Teso, killed on March 22, 1922 while digging a sewer tunnel in West Sixth street.

The commission found that Teso had been employed by E. J. McDonnell, a contractor, who was insured against injury to his workmen by the Ocean Accident and Guarantee Corporation of London. The facts surrounding Teso's death were not disputed.

The insurance company, however, questioned the commission's ruling in finding McDonnell liable under a clause of his policy which was asserted to exempt him from the responsibility of Teso's death in the specific work he was engaged in at the time.

Wife Who Sues Husband Names Woman Tenant

Mrs. Irene B. Bowdish filed suit for divorce yesterday against Morris C. Bowdish, accusing him of infatuation for Mrs. Rita Ulrich, said to be a tenant of a Venice bungalow court owned by the Bowdishes. Mrs. Bowdish says community property, consisting of the bungalow court, is worth $45,000.

Last December, Mrs. Bowdish asserts she told her husband she intended to sue for divorce and was threatened by Bowdish and Mrs. Ulrich that Mr. Ulrich would bring a $50,000 damage suit against Bowdish if she bared their friendship, thus wiping out the community property. This caused Mrs. Bowdish to abandon her intention at that time, she declared. Later, Mrs. Bowdish asserts, her husband wheedled her into an agreement whereby she signed away her rights to the property. In the complaint yesterday, Mrs. Bowdish requested the court to restore these rights to her.

CHILDREN TO BE SHOWN "THE LIFE OF THE BEE"

The Junior Club of the Southwest Museum will have its program Saturday morning from 11 to 12 o'clock. The motion picture, "The Life of the Bee," will be preceded by a story on the same subject. The astronomy talk will be "Four Lesser Worlds." Ethel Walton Wright will dramatize the story of "Pandora" in the drama division. The music appreciation talk will be on the lives of Scriabine and Tschaikowsky. Mothers are cordially invited to attend with their children.

TELLS OF HAIRPINS ON HUSBAND'S BED

"I am going through the tortures of hell between my wife and my women friends," was the statement, without provocation, made by G. H. Gillens to Mrs. S. B. Gibons. Her husband openly admitted burning friendship for other women, she said. On one occasion, Mrs. Gillons declared, she returned from a visit with her sister and found hairpins on her husband's bed. He refused to answer her questions regarding them, she asserted.

ROMERO CASE DISMISSED

United States Commissioner Long yesterday dismissed the case against M. C. Romero, charged with violation of the Mann Act. Mrs. Mary C. Callender of Detroit, whom Romero was charged with having brought to Los Angeles, testified she had paid expenses of her trip to this city and that she had not lived with Romero.

GIANT HELD AS SUSPECT IN HOLD-UPS

Man Arrested at Beach Said to Have Figured in Fifty Robberies

Lyle Couchman, who stands 6 feet 6 inches in his oversize shoes, was arrested last night at Long Beach as the fifth member of a gang declared by police to have committed more than fifty oil-station and cafe hold-ups in this section.

The giant bandit suspect, after his arrest by Detectives Mayer and Johnson, is said to have confessed to slipping out of a net of Oakland police when his brother, Paul Couchman and Joseph Green, also accused as members of the gang, were taken into custody last week. The prisoner declared, the detectives reported, that he shipped on a boat at San Francisco and arrived at Los Angeles Harbor several days ago.

Also held in the City Jail as members of the quintet are H. C. Smith and Thomas Martin. It was through Martin's arrest following a Central-avenue gun battle a week ago in which a policeman was shot that the gang was traced, according to the police.

Out of the fifty hold-ups said to have been admitted by the prisoners, a large percentage have been definitely connected with the gang, the police asserted.

Three Dollars a Toe for Foot Bath in Stream

Fifteen dollars a foot, or $3 a toe.

That was the sum paid by P. L. Taylor of Los Angeles and Harry Hall of Brea yesterday as the price of washing their feet in the cool and soothing mountain stream that flows down Ice House Canyon.

Footsore and weary, the two rested there awhile after a strenuous day on the winding and tortuous mountain trails. In that "deep, romantic canyon," they gazed on the swirling coolness of the brook.

The temptation was great. Therefore, they threw aside their shoes, their socks and their prudence, and walked right down into the water.

"Hey, you guys," or words to that effect, is what they heard just when they were deepest in the water and their contentment.

Then they had to put on their socks and their shoes and hike to Upland with a forest guard. The guard told them they had polluted the stream with their feet.

The guard said the same thing to George R. Crane, justice of the peace. In corroboration, Taylor and Hall said "guilty."

"Thirty dollars each," said Justice Crane.

Asthma Cure Is Axle Grease So Seller Is Fined

George G. Watkins did a thriving business selling axle grease which cost him about 25 cents a pound for 50 cents an ounce after disguising it as a cure for asthma, according to Inspectors Richard Earl and Fred F. Roberts of the State Pharmacy Board, who arrested Watkins yesterday on a charge of violating the State Pharmacy Act.

A large quantity of the axle grease, coloring extract and small-sized containers was seized.

Watkins pleaded guilty to selling drugs without an itinerant peddler's license, before Judge Sheldon in the University Police Court and was fined $250 with the alternative of ninety days in jail. He is held pending investigation by officers of the State Board of Medical Examiners.

Watkins was arrested at 630 Wall street.

EXTRADITION WARRANT FOR KANSAS CITY MAN

An extradition warrant was issued yesterday at Gov. Richardson's office in Sacramento for the return to Kansas City, Kan., of Alfred B. Swanson, who was arrested here last week. According to the warrant, Swanson is wanted in connection with the murder of Richard P. McDonald in Kansas City November 4, 1922. Swanson was asserted to have been driving a police patrol wagon in which McDonald, also a policeman, was riding, at the time of the murder. Swanson and another officer, named Harry McCarty, are accused of plotting to take McDonald's life because of his activity in exposing McCarty's asserted acceptance of bribes from narcotic vendors.

LIQUOR HAS OWN BERTH IN SLEEPER

But Officers Arrest Two and Seize Auto as Novel Scheme is Revealed

First-class transportation with Pullman accommodations for intoxicating liquor figures in an asserted scheme to violate the Volstead Act that was disclosed yesterday when Federal dry agents and police, under the direction of Dry Agent Grant, arrested V. E. Postell and Moses Brasley, a Pullman porter, at the Santa Fe Railroad station. The two are held in the County Jail under $5000 bond each, pending a hearing before United States Commissioner Long.

The officers arresting the two reported seizing at the same time an Oldsmobile touring car and a suit case containing twenty-two pints of whisky.

Agent Grant's investigations disclosed, he said, that at various times the car was seen to stop in front of the railroad station. Each time the driver handed a suit case to a redcap, who in turn handed the suit case to Brasley, the Pullman porter. Brasley, it was said, would take the suit case to his car, where he deposited it under a berth. Thereafter, according to Agent Grant, the suit case was obtained by some one who had been assigned to that berth.

A third defendant, whose name is withheld, but who is said to be employed as a redcap at the Santa Fe station, was released on his own recognisance. It is the belief of Agent Grant that he was an innocent party.

It is expected other arrests will be made soon. The liquor so handled is genuine imported whisky, according to the officers.

Forester Flintham dispatched fifty men under command of Assistant Forester Merrill to relieve a squad under Assistant Forester Turner, who have been worn out by the constant fight. The fighters departed in two trucks and were expected to reach the affected area late last night.

Yesterday's outbreak, Mr. Flintham declared, illustrates the difficulty in fighting the freakish and stubborn fire, once it sweeps into the more remote portions of the area. When Mr. Flintham returned here Tuesday night after a thorough inspection of the fire-swept area, he said, it was believed that the fire had spent its fury and was under control. During the night, he said, the wind in the canyon changed, fanning the embers into a fierce blaze that rapidly ate its way into territory not previously burned.

A narrow escape from disaster was experienced by twenty men riding on a truck Tuesday night in the Pine Canyon area, according to reports to Mr. Flintham. Busily engaged in fighting the fire, the men found themselves almost surrounded by the flames. They escaped through the burning area without inury to themselves or damage to the truck, the reports stated.

EUREKA FOLK SCENT LOS ANGELES RODENT

BUT ANNEXATION COUP TURNS OUT TO BE PROBABLIE PRINTER'S ERROR

Taxpayers in Eureka, Humboldt county, were nudging each other's ribs yesterday after the fashion of Will Rogers over what they slyly remarked to be an evidence of the ambitions of Los Angeles county to extend its territorial bounds to include Humboldt county.

It all came about with the arrival in Eureka of several demands of County Tax Assessor Hopkins of Los Angeles that property tax payments be made to him on Humboldt county automobiles.

When informed of the situation in Eureka, Mr. Hopkins denied he sought to assess Humboldt county machines. He said he believes some mistake had occurred in the mailing of the demands by the printing concern in Sacramento which prints his official forms.

'SURE-CURE' BACKFIRES

Advertisement Attracts Medical Examiner; Fine Results

An answer to classified newspaper advertisements which Walter Railsbach inserted in behalf of the St. Cyr Sanitarium at Sierra Madre, turned out disastrously for him yesterday when Special Agent Carter of the State Board of Medical Examiners responded.

Railsbach was arrested on a charge of violating the State law in advertising a system of treatment without holding a license. He pleaded guilty to the charge before Justice Morton in Pasadena and was fined $100.

Railsbach told the court he had inserted the advertisement four times and Agent Carter was the first to answer. The advertisement presented as evidence, promised a cure for stomach troubles on a money-back guaranty.

ORIENTAL MARKET BECKONS

Visitor Says Los Angeles is Neglecting Chance for Immense Business in Far East

Los Angeles has great opportunities for trade in the Orient but is not taking advantage of them, says D. H. Rodrigues, fourteen years in the import trade in the East, who is in Los Angeles. Mr. Rodrigues for three years has been general manager for Paramount Pictures in the Dutch Indies, Malay States and Siam, but now is returning to general commercial agency work in those countries and in China, where he was engaged many years in the import business.

Despite his surname, Mr. Rodrigues is a Hollander. His Spanish name was inherited from the time of the Spanish invasion of The Netherlands.

"I have been hearing a great deal about the trade development of Los Angeles," he said. "I heard about it in China ad in Australia recently. But the possibilities are not being properly embraced. The opportunity in the lines I know, canned foodstuffs and drugs and patent medicines, is especially great in all parts of the Orient. But besides the products of Del Monte and Parke, Davis & Co., American labels are seldom seen.

"The California fruit people have an especially good chance. The only competitor is Australia, and the Australians have failed utterly.

The Australian fruit is as good as the Californian, but the Australians don't seem to know how to can it or to label it, and the California products have the best name. The natives like fancy labels with plenty of color. You see full nickel-plated automobiles in the Orient, and usually American-made cars.

"I am speaking of all of the Orient, east of Suez to and including Japan. For example, Java has 40,000,000 population. Now, if it expends only $10 a year per capita you can imagine what the consumption of goods will be. California is the nearest to Java, with the exception of Australia and Australia will not be an important competitor."

Mr. Rodrigues says that unlike Latin America, there is no difficulty with credits. In Latin America the Germans and English have encouraged long-time credits he says, but in the East, thirty days is the usual period with no other differences in procedure than is customary in the United States.

Mr. Rodrigues is stopping with friends at 545 Westlake avenue.

"MAIL-ORDER" BRIDE SUED

Venice Man Seeks Annulment Says Oklahoman, Woman Practiced Fraud on Bank Account

Charging that his "mail-order" bride from Oklahoma practiced fraud to deplete his bank account and finally went back to her "old sweetheart," Edward A. Bardsley yesterday filed suit for annulment of his marriage to Eva Bardsley.

According to the complaint, Bardsley became acquainted with his wife through a matrimonial magazine published in Topeka, Kan., in March. A long-distance courtship proving satisfactory, she left her home in Enid, Okla., and came to Los Angeles, where they were married on May 10, last.

NAMES ANOTHER MAN

For a while, Bardsley said, romance glowed in their Venice home. Then, according to the complaint, Mrs. Bardsley commenced her attack on his pocketbook and bank account. First, Bardsley asserts, she sent a $10 draft to a man known as Bert Fox, in the Oklahoma town, who she said lent her part of her railroad fare to Los Angeles.

The rest of the history of their short married life, Bardsley said, was as follows:

She asked for $100 to start a checking account for household expenses, but pocketed the money. On June 6, last, she said she needed dental work that would cost between $90 and $100. He gave her a bank check on the First National Bank of Culver City which she filled out for $245 and cashed at the First National Bank at Venice. Then she took his check book and wrote a $45 check, which the bank failed to honor. Then she left.

REPORTS LETTER

When she left, Bardsley declared, he found a letter from Fox, asking her to come back to her "old sweetheart."

Scenting trouble, Bardsley stated he went to the Culver City bank and stopped payment on the $245 check. This brought a suit against him by the Venice bank, which, he said, is pending in Venice justice court.

All of which Bardsley solemnly asserts to be evidence, beyond peradventure of a doubt, that his wife entered into the marital contract with the sole purpose of defrauding him of his money.

G. R. Grotewohl Temporarily to Head Dry Office

S. F. Rutter, Federal prohibition director for California, yesterday named Agent George R. Grotewohl to serve as acting agent in charge of dry forces during the remainder of July, while J. Harper Shoop is away on vacation. Instructions from Mr. Rutter were that Agent Grotewohl would serve as head of the office until a permanent successor to Mr. Shoop was named provided the latter intends to sever his connections as indicated by his resignation filed with Mr. Rutter on the 1st inst.

Mr. Shoop said he was not prepared to say whether he might reconsider his resignation. At the time he announced his resignation he said he expected to establish himself in the practice of law with Frank M. Sturgis, International Bank Building.

REMOTE CHANCE TO FIGHT JAPAN

Pioneer Resident of Hawaii Scouts War Idea

Declares Clash Possibility Almost Nonexistent

Gen. Soper Tells How Nippon Almost Had Islands

Possibility of a war between the United States and Japan is so remote as to be virtually nonexistent, in the opinion of Gen. John H. Soper of Honolulu, commander-in-chief of the military forces of Hawaii under the provisional government set up in the islands subsequent to the overthrow of the monarchy in 1893.

Gen. Soper, who is at the Clark Hotel, is here on a pleasure trip. He has been a resident of Hawaii since 1877, when he went there to become the manager of a sugar plantation, and he is not only thoroughly familiar with the situation in the islands as it exists today but is also in possession of a vast amount of historical information relative to the political changes that have taken place there during his long residence.

JAPAN SOUGHT HAWAII

"Probably few persons are aware of how narrowly Hawaii escaped domination by Japan instead of becoming a part of the United States after the deposition of Queen Liliuokalani, the last native sovereign," said Gen. Soper.

"No sooner had the news reached Japan that the Queen had been dethroned than a Japanese armored cruiser, carrying a large quantity of rifles and a considerable military force, appeared at Honolulu for the purpose of restoring Liliuokalani to the throne. If that had happened it is probable the monarchy would have remained in power in the islands to this day, with a protectorate exercised by Japan. The American forces in Hawaii at the time were too small to have offered resistance to the Japanese had they gone about carrying out their purpose. When they discovered the American flag floating over the government building, however, it gave the orientals pause. It was the only circumstance that saved the situation."

Gen. Soper speaks entertainingly of the hectic state of politics that existed in Hawaii prior to the ascension of Liliuokalani and during the latter part of her reign.

"The king who preceded her was involved in different transactions pertaining to opium concessions and other things that brought him into disfavor with his subjects," said the general. "In 1887 the situation reached a crisis and a revolution took place, resulting in the adoption of a new constitution and the appointment of a new ministry. Things then went smoothly for a time but demoralization again set in during the latter part of Liliuokalani's reign.

WANTED TO BAR WHITES

"The direct cause of her overthrow was her attempt to make another change in the constitution, which would have enabled her to carry out sundry schemes she had in mind and would have made her, in effect, an autocrat. Uncle Sam's intervention was due largely to the fact that the new constitution would have barred all white people from the islands and the Americans already had important interests there."

Gen. Soper was born in 1846 and is a native of England. He came to California in the early sixties and was one of the members of the Vigilantes who played a part in the early history of this State. He is a close friend of Cornelius Cole, former United States Senator from California, who now lives in Los Angeles and is one of the city's centenarians.

SULLY GETS NEW DARCY CASE TRIAL

Charges of Attack Made by Film Actress Will be Reviewed by Court

Charges made by Yvonne Darcy, 19-year-old film actress, that she was attacked by Grenville P. Sully, former brother-in-law of Douglas Fairbanks and son of Daniel P. Sully, retired cotton broker, again will be reviewed in Superior Court. Judge McLucas yesterday granting a motion for a new trial of the suit for $200,000 damages Miss Darcy brought against young Sully.

The jury that heard the testimony in the trial of the case several weeks ago in Judge McLucas's court returned a verdict of $50,000 in favor of Miss Darcy.

Miss Darcy accused Sully of luring her to his father's home on Beachwood Drive, Hollywood, under pretense that he wanted her to meet his parents. When she arrived there, she said, there was no one in the house but a maid.

Sully entered a flat denial of the charges and declared on the witness stand that his relations with the young woman were always above suspicion. His father and mother also testified they were at home the evening of November 14, 1923, the night on which the attack was asserted to have occurred.

Sully's motion for a new trial was filed through his attorney, Fred Hunt. The motion, which was argued and submitted to the court last week, was resisted by Lorrin Andrews, attorney for Miss Darcy.

The case probably will be taken before Presiding Judge York next week to be reset for trial.

ASSERTED BANDITRY HEAD BROUGHT BACK

Deputy Sheriff Purrier returned yesterday from San Diego with Jimmie Sailz, asserted head of a band of criminals, said to have burglarized at least fifty homes and business houses in Los Angeles and near-by towns in the last few months. The suspect was found in the hills near San Diego. Three other members of the asserted band are John Silvas, Joe Monte and Henry Garcia. They are under arrest and are said to have confessed to many burglaries, some of which never have been reported officially to the authorities.

RUUD hot water is just naturally there

A water heater is something that you want to forget as much as possible. It certainly is unpleasant to worry every time the tap is turned on as to whether or not you will get the hot water you desire.

That is one of the greatest advantages of the RUUD. You know that you are going to get the hot water. That allows you to forget that there is such a thing as a water heater—and that is the real value of the RUUD.

SOME TAX LESSONS

The total tax levies for Great Britain's fiscal year were nearly $4,250,000,000. Of this amount $3,450,000,000 were assessed by the general government. This amounts to $80 per capita, while the local taxation in the empire is but $18. In spite of our war burden, the State and local levies in this country consume the major portion of the taxpayer's money. The general government is indicating a thrift and economy that should furnish an inspiration for the cities.

WORLD REFORMS

American reformers are urging the League of Nations to take the lead in a movement for world prohibition of heroin. The doctors and scientists are agreed that there never is any real need for this drug. Always there is something better and less dangerous that may be used. Definite warrant for the use of less than 100 grains was found in the State of New York last year and yet it is claimed that some 70,000 grains were acquired by addicts and others. With a world understanding and international agreement the production of heroin could be entirely stopped. The point is that when reforms are to be wrought or great good accomplished America often looks to the League of Nations. We are not willing to assume the hazards of a membership in the League, but we are quite willing to furnish the League with the bulk of its business.

BOOKS VERSUS BEER

A New York pastor recommends the corner bookstore as a happy substitute for the corner grogshop. He would like to see bookshops transformed into chatty rendezvous, where the thirsty can meet their friends over books of wisdom rather than mugs of ale.

So far so good. But we can foresee certain kinds of reformers boggling at that idea. All books are not necessarily draughts of wisdom and founts of knowledge. Many books are even now censorially regarded as poisonous stimulant for brain and morals. And the sort of books that are the mental equivalent of lemonade and ice-cream sodas are not the books that the thirsty congregate to imbibe in enticing social intercourse.

When the corner bookshop takes the place of the corner saloon we may confidently look forward to compulsory one-half-of-one-per-cent literature.

RUNNING AMUCK

Bob La Follette is not wild enough for the Farmer-Labor party and there will be no indorsement of the independent candidacy of the Wisconsin Senator. The workers' wing of the pink party has withdrawn any La Follette recommendation and formally named the turbulent William Z. Foster, agitator, discredited strike leader and apostle of direct action, as their candidate for President. Nevertheless, the "conservative radicals"—if there be such—are expected to round up with the La Follette bunch. It is difficult to tell exactly what will happen, but it is hard to imagine any sincere or conscientious Republican or Democrat following La Follette into the wilderness in which he is taking his flock. The Republican organization is, of course, relieved of any further responsibility for a La Follette connection. He can no longer claim enlistment in the Republican column.

OVER THE WIRE

The department of business administration in an eastern college has introduced a course in the practical use of the telephone. This would seem to be lost motion, but it turns out that there is a whole lot to learn at both ends of the wire. It may bring about a more patient understanding of some of the problems and complications of the service. The intelligent and proper use of the voice in its intonations was emphasized and the importance of unfailing courtesy and good cheer was proven. It is in the spirit of the time to make a telephone conversation blunt, direct and heartless. This may accomplish the first purpose of contact, but it doesn't spread and popularize the service. If everybody could be polite and patient it would add 1,000,000 years to the combined longevity of American telephone subscribers. As a business man do you know how to get the greatest permanent value out of your phone?

SO LIKE AND YET SO UNLIKE

Mussolini, Italy's dictator, has just assured an audience of factory workers, "I am a man like yourselves." The statement was greeted with affectionate applause.

At the same time the reverse might not be quite accurate. They are probably not all men just like Mussolini. Nature is so wise in her niggardly provision of Mussolini that it is so doubtful whether a Mussolini could successfully rule a nation of Mussolinis.

In the same week Gilbert Frankau, speaking of women in politics, remarked that if Mary Pickford stood for Parliament in any English constituency she could be assured of election. This is the reverse of the contention that women vote for handsome men. Well, Mary, too, is a woman like other women, but perhaps it is just as well for England that all women political aspirants are not like Mary; or that Mary was not a candidate for the Presidential nomination at the recent Democratic convention.

FORGING AHEAD

California has stepped into the $10,000,000,000 class, according to a taxation report filed at Sacramento by Controller Riley. The valuation of all real and personal property in the State, which is made on an average 60-per-cent basis, is fixed at $5,716,785,815.

To appreciate what these figures mean one has but to consider that the amount is greater than the wealth of the whole of the thirteen colonies that united to form the United States and that the population of the State is nearly as great as that of the united colonies, excepting the Indians.

California's increase in material wealth and population is one of the marvels of the generation. The conversion of what was considered fifty years ago a desert waste into one of the most productive spots on the globe is an earnest of what the future holds in store for other parts of North and South America, provided there is no departure from the governmental and economic principles which have made such growth possible.

California's potential wealth cannot, of course, be accurately estimated. In many parts of the State development is only in its infancy. In some districts it has not yet begun. Southern California has grown faster during the generation than the northern and central parts of the State; and in so doing it has shown to other sections what vision, diligence and industry can accomplish.

Climate brings tens of thousands to California; but one cannot live on climate alone. In the past, millions of dollars of outside capital have been brought here for profitable investment. The present wealth has not all been produced here. But we are approaching an era in which California must create its own capital. New York has been the banking house of the Pacific Coast and most of the important projects have been financed by eastern capital.

The time has arrived when these loans must be repaid by production in California. Our development will be limited so long as we must be borrowers; for outside capital comes in only when all conditions are favorable. California has won through vision and industry its place in the sun. It has reached a stage of development when it can assert its independence.

For fifty years we have looked to the East. Now is the time for us to begin to look to ourselves.

Natural conditions are distinctly favorable. California has proved that the desert can be conquered by irrigation and that the potential water power of the mountain area can be converted into hydroelectric energy sufficient to operate fifty times the number of industries now in operation. Fifty years ago there were but two harbors on the California Coast, one at San Francisco, the other at San Diego. But a new harbor has been developed at Los Angeles which is now second in tonnage only to New York.

We have reached the $10,000,000,000 point and our development is only in the beginning. Whether we shall continue to grow and prosper depends upon ourselves. Far removed from the seat of wars our development has proceeded under the most favorable conditions. There have been no invasions, no battles fought on California soil during that period. While our country has engaged in two wars we have lived in California in a state of perpetual peace. Contributing the full quota of our sons and our dollars to the common defense, we have known at home nothing of war's devastation.

Other countries have grown rapidly in the past, but only to a certain point. Then decadence began; and it can be traced in nearly every instance to wars and invasions. Never have the signs for continued peace been so propitious; but one cannot always trust to signs. Europe has hardly begun its recovery from war and anarchy; and, so long as any part of the world is so infected, there is always the hazard that the infection will spread. It is very possible that the future welfare of California depends upon the decisions made by the conference now in session in London.

Most of all, we must not discard lightly the things that have made our present growth possible. We must not risk our substance in grasping for political shadows. There may be forms of government proposed that are appealing to the imagination; but experience proves that they are nearly always flowers blooming on the surface of poisonous swamps. There is a deal of philosophy in the homely maxim, "Let well enough alone."

A MIND OF HER OWN

When Sir Walter Scott sang of woman that she was as

Variable as the shade
By the light, quivering aspen made,

he probably didn't pause to reflect that man had no monopoly of invariability or that there was many a male who could not boast, as Caesar did, that he was "as constant as the northern star of whose true-fixed and lasting quality there is no fellow in the firmament."

In sooth, any woman, however variable her nature, might well ask why Scott singled out her sex for such a distasteful characterization when there are to be found on this pleasant planet men who behave like that Boston millionaire who, according to the story told over the wires, kept changing what he called his mind as to his impending nuptials with a pretty choir singer until the girl's mother finally intervened and declared that there would be no wedding, as she didn't care a snap for a prospective son-in-law of such impermanent matrimonial ideas. Nor did she yield to filial or other pleas that she alter her decision.

In that mother is found at least one woman with a mind of her own and with firmly fixed notions of the eternal fitness of things. But it would seem that a man of 58, which is the age of the inconstant lover, might be as steadfast as the girl of 20 whom he had promised to wed and who seems bent upon marrying him yet, despite his fickleness of nature. Of course, the fact that he is a millionaire has nothing to do with her steadiness of purpose in the matter, though there will be those mean enough to intimate that it's another case of cashing in on constancy.

The new business life of woman is causing her to develop more immobility of mind. She has found that when she gives her word in business she is expected to abide by it or suffer the consequences, just as the fear of the loss of business prestige has steadied many a vacillating man. There may come a time when the handsome tenor singing "La Donna e Mobile" will be laughed off the stage. It is to be presumed that only those ladies without knowledge of Italian ever have applauded the singing of this slanderous song.

It Will be a Relief After Having Them with Us Since the World War!

COOLIDGE, MAN OF ACTION

Perhaps the "whirligig of time" never worked in its revenge more appropriately than when it splintered the chief plank in the Democratic platform. The whole campaign of the unterrified rested on denunciation of the Republican party for its assumed indifference in the so-called oil scandals and the failure of the nation's Chief Executive to set the wheels of justice moving against the alleged offenders.

Before the paint of invective and the varnish of self-congratulation were dry on this main prop of Democratic Presidential aspirations the District of Columbia grand jury returned indictments against Fall, Sinclair and the two Dohenys for conspiracy in connection with the oil-lease scandal. That the indictments followed so closely on the wild mouthings of the Democratic leaders was merely a coincidence. Fate sometimes turns the tables in this felicitous fashion on those who indulge in unfounded allegations.

For some time past the machinery of law had been working quietly to bring about these indictments. While the Senate raged in political fury, President Coolidge set two prominent attorneys at work to prosecute the case as soon as the necessary evidence was accumulated. Their confirmation was assailed by the Democrats and the proceedings were stigmatized as a blind and a stall.

But when the time was ripe Nemesis appeared on the scene. The attorneys Coolidge had named put the legal machinery to work and proper indictments were returned. Actions speak louder than words. Never was a baseless charge refuted at a more timely moment. Law enforcement is Coolidge's ideal. He can afford to disregard verbal onslaughts composed of nothing but political wind.

WAR ON WINGED PESTS

Nature has made of Southern California a mosquitoless land. The growth of motor vehicle use has cut down the fly population materially.

Man can cut it the rest of the way. It will not cost much; just a few vigilant inspectors and a little care and house flies will be as rare as mosquitoes. We have no mosquitoes because we have no breeding places for them; if we abolish the breeding places of the flies they will disappear.

This is no counsel of perfection. It can be done because it has been done. More than one community has done it. The first, so far as is known, was Saranac Lake, up in the Adirondacs, in Northern New York.

It is a small community, but it has a vigilant health officer and a lot of civic pride. The health officer organized a fly war that cleaned up the nuisance in a season. It did not cost much, in money, and the advertising value alone was many, many times the cost.

House flies do not fly far; a few hundred yards is their limit; they are easily traced to their source, and the source—which is filth—is easily screened, abolished or chemically treated.

FOR FREE BEACHES

There is much complaint, and, indeed, much reason for it, from persons who wish to spend a day at the beach, but at the same time wish to escape the crowd. The signs of private ownership, club property and keep-off signs are so numerous and all-encompassing that nothing is left for the choice of a family seeking a breath of sea air, but to pack in with the crowd near the concessions, for many of them do not drive cars and it is too far to walk to a bit of strand—generally the least desirable bit—that is free to the public. Through the Playground Commission the city of Los Angeles is solving the problem admirably at San Pedro, and it behooves the beach cities to extend a welcome to the public if they are to retain desired popularity and patronage. The sea and the air should be free to the humblest child and those who seek to commercialize them will in the end realize the blunder that has been made.

RIPPLING RHYMES

DREAMS

Aunt Jemima dries the dishes; as she plies her rag she wishes that she was a famous singer, singing for a thousand bones; she can see herself resplendent with a sunburst and a pendant, filling all a noble building with her wealth of golden tones. She can see the crowd applauding, saying that she knocks the wadding from the best and greatest singers of the present and the past; and her joy is all-pervading; in her vision she is wading from one triumph to another, so her happiness is vast. With gee-whizzes and odds-fishes she consigns the blamed old dishes to the darkest, furthest limbo, where the old world's junk is thrown; she aspires to something higher and such chores disgust and try her, and she hates her humble station as she plies her rag alone. Julia Ginger is a singer, and men say she is a dinger and they pay unholy prices just to hear the damsel sing; does this lovely Julia capture all there is of human rapture—is her life a round of pleasure, is she happy as a king? She is angry in the morning, for a critic's idle scorning puts her lower down than Melba, hardly up to Ellen Yaw; and she's rattled at the nooning, for some rival has been crooning at another music temple, in a voice without a flaw. She is snorting in the twilight and she tries to smash the skylight, for her name appears in letters on the bills an inch too small; and perhaps at times she wishes she were busy drying dishes, far from all the tribulations of the folks who hire a hall.

FLYING CHIPS

BY ALMA WHITAKER

If it was once considered impossible for women to stand together in co-operation and harmony, how is this for news?

The Philanthropic and Civics Club passed an amendment to its constitution last week by which its board of directors may ask for the resignation of any member who is antagonistic to its policies and does not "work in love and for love" for the club!

Madame President Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith was responsible for the idea. Mrs. Nellie Van Graham put the resolution, which was eagerly seconded from all over the floor, and the only "discussion" took the form of ardent indorsement. It passed without a dissenting vote.

Now I ask you, did men ever achieve anything as sweepingly harmonious as that? Wouldn't our political conventions be soothing and comfy if they could be run that way? Wouldn't it be wonderful if cities could be run that way?

Maybe the Woman's City Club and the Friday Morning Club will be feeling pretty envious and hasten to follow the Philanthropy and Civics' soothing and harmonious lead.

This is better than making the world safe for democracy—it is making democracy safe for boards of directors.

But how very complicated life is getting. For, of course, there is still quite an authoritative school of thought that considers that we should conceal our emotions and that a vocabulary of body words is not quite nice. They call it social poise.

BRINGING HOME THE BACON

From the Portland (Or.) Journal

Californians never overlook a bet.

New York sat up and took notice when the California delegation arrived for the big convention. The parade down the streets was, of course, headed by a band and flooded out all the pyrotechnics. To cap the climax three pretty girls brought up the rear, throwing California oranges to the massed crowds of people along the way. It was million-dollar publicity brought to the highest point of perfection.

And why not? California has built a million-people city at Los Angeles by her marvelous publicity. With their so-called "sun-kissed" oranges and "sun-cured" prunes and other "sun"-processed products blazoned to the world in costly advertising the Californians have about convinced mankind that the only genuine sun is the California sun and that all others are cheap imitations.

There is as much sunshine and there are better grapes at The Dalles or Grants Pass or Medford or Ashland than in California, but nobody in Oregon has broadcast it to the country. Oregon pears and cherries and apples and prunes and walnuts and filberts and flax for fiber and long wool and many other products beat California and beat the world, but the world has never been told about it.

As for scenery and a paradise of beauty, no spot in the world beats the Willamette or the Rogue River Valley in June, or Coos and Curry counties at any time, or the Columbia Highway forever. If they were in California pictures of them would appear in every magazine in America and on every billboard and street car. But a lot of Oregon people do not even realize that these scenes of beauty are in Oregon.

The California spirit is admirable. It is a State without knockers. Every Californian is a booster.

And they bring home the bacon.

HOW IT STARTED

BY JEAN NEWTON

Checkers

Like chess, the game of checkers derives its name ultimately from the Persian "shah" for king. Because of the many varieties of checkers—Chinese, English, Polish, Spanish, Italian and Turkish—there has been some dissension as to its origin. The game is said to have been found even among the native tribes of the interior of New Zealand.

There is evidence that a game very similar to checkers and probably among its earliest ancestors was played by the Egyptians as early as 1600 B.C., and a form of it is known to have been popular in ancient Greece, whence it spread throughout Europe, being adopted by the various countries with slight differences in detail which have persisted in the modern game. So in England it is customary to play on a black and white board with the blacks on the white squares, in Scotland upon the black squares. And in France the game is called "les dames" from its having been a favorite game with the ladies.

during the revolution, where and gained distinction for "gallantry and military resourcefulness."

Perhaps it is just as well that this world-peace movement is going the way. When women start recalling as militarists war is likely to become altogether too subtle. It was all very well when war was just plain shooting and killing and noise, but feminine "gallantry and military resourcefulness" is a fearsome terrors. Remember what the amateur English militant suffragettes managed to think up? And that was only mild civil warfare.

A reckless theatrical producer has revived Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" at a London theater—and marvels to pronounce it a financial success.

And yet . . . well, it is one of Shakespeare's ultra-he-manish plays. Petruchio, the husband who tames so successfully the wife of irrepressible Katherine that she finally proclaims him "her lord, her governor" and sets all the other wives that they owe such duty to their husbands "as the subject oweth to his prince," is the ideal that modern maidens might well wish to attain.

Perchance the English wives are bobbing their hair. Perchance the Shakespearean revival is the natural outcome of a masculine mimic yearn. In any case, London newspapers record a quite remarkable appreciation of the revival on the part of Englishmen. It is a play to which any husband can safely take his wife or his sister or his ex-wife on an honeymoon ty decree.

And the women appear to be accepting it with a Sphinx-like

A great Japanese shipping company sends one of its finest on the Korea Maru, on its first trip to the port of Los Angeles. Some of our civic notables were entertained with dinner on board. There were speeches. The Japanese representatives of the line graciously said how wonderful we Americans were. Then Boyle Workman said how wonderful we were. Then the Japanese Consul said how wonderful we were. Then a harbor commissioner, an emigration official and an American captain said how wonderful we were. Then the Japanese captain of the vessel said some more nice things about us.

Happily, Sam Kreider, as toastman, got in a few polite little recognitions of Japanese charms and efficiencies between speeches. Otherwise there is the awful possibility that our Japanese hosts might have been a trifle bored.

AFTER VACATION

By the Foothill Philosopher

During my vacation I took time to read several books by so-called infidels and unbelievers. After reading them I am more firmly convinced than ever of the divine goodness of life. "The unbeliever quotes his Koran best," said Goethe. Probably so, but often he misquotes it least. The charms of the Scriptures of the world are not revealed to rationalists.

Poetry is the conscious expression of the rhythm of life. I've been reading Isaiah recently and, aside from finding that book to be one of the loftiest expositions of monism, I submit that the best to be found therein is unsurpassed.

Why is it that great scientific teachers, preaching apparently practical and impossible doctrines, have had millions of disciples, that the greatest of doubting Thomas-ists have in turn been doubted, and have never been scoffed by authorities? Let the rationalists answer.

TROUBLE TO BE EXPECTED

One thing one may confidently expect of life is that there will be a certain amount of trouble in it. It may come in little pieces at a time, merely to be irritating or it may save itself up and deliver it to you in one big whallop. But somebody has trouble. Maybe it is necessary. Maybe folks couldn't get along without it, just as they couldn't without water. The thing to minimize is that unpleasant things happen and, so recognizing, how to act as if you are the first person who ever got in a fix. You have had and will have lots of company. Bad luck doesn't stay out. It is pretty impartial in the long run and everybody gets his share.—[American Boy.

sembles of the city have been presented to radioland by them. And yet true service does not end by using solely present-day successes. It is a far greater service to seek out the young and unknown artists of the future, and set their feet on the road to fame.

SIMPLE ARTISTRY

This was the keynote of a portion of the program last evening presented through the courtesy of Barker Brothers. For every five soprano voices in the world there is to be found one contralto. Elsa Van Norman, who made her initial bow to radioland last night, proved the possessor of a genuinely beautiful voice. It was a refreshing change to hear an artist who allowed the messages of the great composers to speak for themselves without the obtrusion of strained vocal technique. When Miss Van Norman sang, her audience realized that all of the work and tireless effort which goes into the preparation of a great interpretation had been accomplished long ago and put aside. All that remained was the effortless beauty of true singing—the height of art concealed in simplicity of style.

Included in her program was an aria from "Samson and Delilah," "Florian's Song," Greig's "Spring," Schumann's "Lotus Flower" and several English ballads. Miss Van Norman created to the utmost the special atmosphere which pervades each of these classics and it is a fair phophesy to say that her future place among the contraltos of the West will be a high one.

Joseph Jean Gilbert, flutist of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, accompanied by Claire Forbes Crane, played some beautiful ultramodern French numbers with a clarity of tone and ease of technique which instantly endeared him to the ever-increasing number of admirers of his instrument. Mr. Gilbert is, without doubt, one of the finest players presented to the radio family. He is not only an interpreter but a clever composer of both songs and instrumental music.

Jennie Durkee is such a beloved figure in the KHJ studio that there is little else that we can say regarding her marvelous handling of her tiny instrument, the ukelele. Last evening her portion of the program was given with her usual dexterity and fine musicianship.

It is very seldom on an evening program that as young a talent is presented to the grown-ups of Radioland as that of little Myrtle Jacobs, who played the piano with a musical maturity that both astounded and bewitched. Her rhythmic sense was no less obvious than the great mentality which colored her readings, one of which was the Mozart Concerto for two pianos, which she played with Claire Forbes Crane.

Continuing his absorbing lectures and tales of romance brought from the past of America, Prof. Walter Sylvester Hertzog thrilled his listeners with his narration of events which played such an important part in the erection of our democracy. He was followed by Victoria Louise Kerner, screen juvenile, who read two short stories. Morris Erenberg, 13-year-old violinist, dropped from his fingers a quality of notes that one did not suspect would be found in his tender years. He was ably assisted by Carl Fischer, who has proudly reached his twelfth year.

Marvel Lion, 13-year-old pianist, pupil of Winifred Pennell, rendered two difficult selections from the classics with seemingly no difficulty. The lads and lassies then were entertained by Dick Winslow, screen juvenile and reporter, relating his latest experiences. The curtain was rung down on the children's hour by Uncle John's bedtime story.

The heat of the noon-hour's sun was forgotten completely in the refreshing atmosphere that was created by Alika's Hawaiian Syncopators. This trio, composed of J. Alika, steel guitar; J. Hicks, guitar, and Claude Jones, ukelele, sent wafting through the studio salt-tanged breezes and blossom-scented currents from the pineapple isles.

Gladly Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Louisville, Nebraska.—"I was married twelve years before my boy was born. I had a lot of female troubles and had been treated by a physician for them but they continued much the same. Then I read your advertisement in the newspapers and thought I would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a good trial, for if it had helped others, why not me? I have taken 36 bottles of the medicine and am never without it in the house. My baby boy is three years old now and I sure am happy since I got relief from my troubles. When any one has troubles like mine, or any ways like mine, I am always glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound so that they will get the right kind of medicine."—Mrs. JOE NOVAK, Box 682, Louisville, Neb.

The Woman and Her Job

By Valeria Matrau

[Questions concerning the problems of women will be answered in this column if addressed to Mrs. Watrous at the Times. Requests for personal replies must be accompanied by a stamped envelope.]

ONE TIRED MOTHER

He was a very tired little boy who should have been in bed hours before. There was utter weariness in his strangled sobs, and the tears that rolled slowly down his round, ruddy cheeks left clean streaks that contrasted with the dust and grime of a long day.

His mother was tired, too. Perhaps she had been caring for a sick sister, or visiting some dear one out of the city. Her smart dark suit and hat were dusty, and the powder was gone from her round healthy cheeks. The small boy fussed and whimpered, and she tried to soothe or amuse him by turns. Patience vanished at last, and she shook him into the seat beside her.

"If you don't hush, I'm going to give you to the policeman. He'll put you in a dark hole, and you'll never get out," and the little chap's whine stopped instantly.

Just then a man took the vacant seat next to me, and I was aware he was clad in the blue uniform of an officer.

"What's the trouble, old man?" he inquired leaning over the seat in front to speak to the child.

"Put me in hole," the little fellow screamed. But the officer persisted, and the mother hastily assured him that this was a very nice man, and not a policeman at all. Presently two strong blue arms reached down, and in an instant the lad was on the man's knee, looking up confidently into his face. The nice man produced a wonderful watch from beneath his cuff, and allowed his guest to unstrap and put it on his own wrist. Diversion had done its work, and the little chap's head was cradled in the curve of the man's arm, and in a few minutes he was asleep.

The mother shifted about so that she might face us. She tried to explain how tired she was, and that she rarely threatened the boy.

"It's the biggest mistake in the world to scare a kid with what the cop will do to him. I guess it's done a lot to make crooks. If they have confidence in the police when they're little, they'll shoot square with them when they're older and begin to get into bad company," said the policeman. And presently when the mother was ready to leave the car the officer got off and placed the sleeping child in her arms.

I sat there listening and wishing that officer's little talk to a tired mother might be radioed around the world and reach every young mother, who uses fear of any kind to exact obedience. Fear, is the worst devil we have to fight.

Not many days later I was coming downtown at noon time, and our car halted at a school stop. On the corner stood an officer talking with a man. On a bench near by perched a young man of 6. As the man continued on his way the small person arose and walking over to the officer, slipped his small fist into the policeman's hand.

The officer looked down and smiled into the confident eyes of the child, and hand in hand they crossed the street together.

Here was a young citizen who knew that in that blue uniform was perfect safety. It came to me then that the traffic officer stationed at the school crossing is doing a much bigger work than clearing the way for boys and girls to cross the street.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

I want to thank several people for information regarding the stocking darner. The woman inquiring was very grateful for the suggestions. I will be glad to send the good word along to any one who wants to know about them.

Dear Mrs. C.: If you will call our Information Department you will be able to get the addresses of business colleges that will give the work you want. I do not know about university credits, however; better inquire directly when you interview the different colleges. Commercial courses are given in the University of California and the University of Southern California, but you must have come from an accredited high school if you expect to get credit there.

Dear Miss J.: Thank you for your suggestions about employment suited to the deaf. I have sent your letter to the president of the League for the Hard of Hearing. It was very thoughtful of you to tell us your experience.

THE NEW IN STORES AND HOMES

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS

By Olive Gray

Up-to-Datest:

Varying the shirt-front effect, so popular this season, for both frocks and blouses, the newest is the pleated oval inset, the pleats allowed to emerge below the vest or shirt-front, where it appears in spear-shaped opening. Plain color or white combined with stripes running cross-wise, is a popular version of this fad.

Tailored Versus Sportish

The strife between the strictly tailored and the sportish, in both dress and millinery, continues to manifest in plainness of trim and in absence thereof.

The tailored hat may adopt a multiplicity of bows, provided they be identical in shape and primly placed, say in an ascendant scale from brim to crown. Variations in brim, its upturn, its downturn, its straightness or its roll, are given to pointing the way sportaward, more perhaps than any single feature in hattery.

A Yellow Flannel

A local smart shop shows a flannel frock in the new Chinese yellow, which is sufficiently plain in line and trim to suit the most fastidious and which still disports distinction amounting to personality. The touch conferring this characteristic, lies in the narrow band of white flannel used as trim. This band is cross-stitched in many colors—all harmonious with each other and with the yellow of the frock. Around the neck, banding the short sleeves, forming the entrance to ingrown pockets and extending a very brief way down one side of the front from the rounded neckline, these bands are the savour of the dress.

Checking Up

Checking up the chic of a stunning tailleure, I decided that it lay in the black-and-white gilet, or vestee and cuffs. The suit was of black alpaca, a smart fabric of the season's choice, the short jacket very mannish—or one should rather say "boyish"—and the gilet was of checkered taffeta cut kerchief-wise and folded within the long rolling collar of the jacket. Appearing, also, below and at the slit sides of the coat-sleeve, the clean-looking checkered silk lent an air of inexpressible trig.

The Colored Blazer

"He had worn a colored blazer on the Nile;" and also upon the golf links of California—if he is in the very know. The newest of the season's most colorful of colored, these country sports blazers are the choice of both Dad and the mannish kid. Of fine, lightweight flannel in tennis stripes, these garments are not only comfortable, but they accommodatingly lend a valuable high note to the field of vision, especially when caught against an extensive background of greenery.

Airy

In all the scarf world what so airy as those of delicately tinted lace! When terminated with fringe to match, the effect is fairy-like. With summer gowns, these dainty scarves are delightful in effect.

Gaily Brocaded

The newest of the gauntlets like to display their linings, since these are of rich brocades. In colors to enhance the costume, they add an interesting note to the ensemble.

Gilty!

The newest of satin opera pumps and slippers, quite likely to be in black or in brown satin, are more than equally likely to be piped in gilt. The very most narrow peep of this golden effect is visible along all edges of shoe and straps.

Jumpers Return

The jumper has returned to feminine dress; but like all of fashion's revivals, it has a "some difference." The new one has an exaggeratedly long armhole, deeply rounded, and the straps, instead of passing over the shoulders, extend up the front. The effect is as if one donned a strapped, cut-away busque, over a blouse.

IN FASHION'S FOYER

A very smart motoring hat is a small affair of white crepe, swathed with a scarf.

Links of red coral, combined with links of gold, make an interesting chain bracelet.

A cluster of vivid geraniums is placed on the right shoulder of a frock of white kasha.

Black bone buttons and a black silk monogram are used on a blouse of soft white satin.

Buttons and pipings in navy are used on a frock of gray alpaca, with a navy ribbon tie.

A bodice of plain and pleated georgette gives the effect of a vest to a frock of alpaca.

A dinner gown of plaid lace is worn over a satin slip. The long scarf is of the lace.

A coat dress of pleated plain georgette is worn over a slip of printed crepe de chine.

Glass buttons are used on a blouse of coral crepe de chine, with string ties forming a narrow collar.

Two-toned braid is used in trimming a frock of flannel, widened at the hem with pleated sections.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Mrs. M.—The causes of sterility are many; among them are inflammatory conditions, wrong position of the generative organs, general undernourishment and overnourishment. The latest cause to be added is the lack of sufficient vitamins in the diet. Animals which are fed on vitaminless food develop sterility. You say you were brought up to be a crank about foods and that fresh vegetables and fruit are a large part of your diet, so diet apparently isn't the factor in your case. There are also other causes of sterility, information regarding which I suggest you seek of your family physician.

Why don't you adopt a baby? You would not have it for a day before you would feel that it was your own and you would never know the difference. It is the greatest mistake in the world for childless couples who want children not to adopt them.

There are organizations and societies from which you can secure babies. Tests are made to determine whether they are free from congenital disease or not. As far as the mentality is concerned, that could not be determined until later on in babyhood—7 or 8 months.—But if you are worried about that, adopt a child a little older. But adopt one.

I know of a woman who after years of childlessness, adopted a baby and then she had six of her own. You can't tell but what the happiness the adopted baby brought, so altered her condition that she could have her own.

"Dear Doctor—Since beginning to follow your directions on reducing, I have lost forty-five pounds in weight, six inches around the waist and three inches around the chest. I have still a long way to go yet.—N."

You did not state your weight. If you lost forty-five pounds and still have a long way to go, your displacement must have been considerable. The extra pamphlet has been sent to you if you inclosed 4 cents and s.a.s.e. with your request. Did you do that? If not, try again.

Mrs. B.—The length of the menopause varies. Sometimes the menstruation periods cease abruptly, and other times gradually. Your overweight may give you many of the symptoms you complain of. (We have no goiter which you may be sending away.)

L. J.—You should do something about your eyes. There is apparently some weakness of the eyes causing the lowered vision. Meanwhile, get a little 2 per cent of yellow oxide of mercury and rub on a little of the ointment each night. Inflammation of the eyelids gently may help some eyelashes grow. I don't know the length and size of those you may be an inherited condition. Sometimes the hair is affected by the condition of the body.

Miss S.—According to your height, 5 feet 4 inches, you should weigh 116 pounds. If you weigh 116 pounds or twenty pounds under, you probably have not enough to have normal vigor in not eating enough of the forgotten the elements your body needs and you may be suffering from latent scurvy or a mild acidosis. That probably is the condition you need. Build up your resistance. Send for our instructions regarding. Don't forget to include in stamps with your name and address.

Mrs. E.—No matter what the cause for the frequent urination bladder, a diet which renders the urine nonacid is essential. A diet which gives a nonacid urine will also improve your general health—plenty of fruits, milk, liberal amounts of vegetables and fruit, small amounts of meats, white bread and little salt.

MRS. IVANA NEAL LÆVY

One of the charmingly arranged affairs of the season was that given on Monday evening when Miss Josephine Quigg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John William Quigg of Hollywood, became the bride of Frederick Jurgen Siems of Anaheim, Dr. John Martin Dean of Hollywood officiating in the Congregational Church. The church was transformed into a bower of loveliness with palms and ferns and studded with clusters of fragrant summer flowers. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a becoming gown of imported ivory satin with yoke of rose point lace, which had been worn by her mother, and long court train of tulle was held in place by a coronet of lace and orange blossoms and lilies of the valley. She carried lilies of the valley and roses. Miss Josephine Quigg assisted her sister as maid of honor, wearing pink malines over pink satin, and the bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Dean of Pasadena and Miss Esther Butler of Seattle, were gowned in pastel blue and lavender malines, respectively. They carried flowers in their colors in arm bouquets to match. Miss John W. Quigg, Jr., was maid of honor, wearing yellow, her bouquet carrying the same color scheme. Little Miss Quigg, 7 years old, carried the ring on a white satin cushion. Harry Siems served his brother as best man, while John Dean and Harold Beck were ushers. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Siems left for a trip east and will be at home after October 1 in South Pasadena. Among those who came from Seattle to attend the wedding were Miss Butler, a school mate of the bride, and later at Broadoaks with Mr. Siems was graduated from the University of Washington. The announcement of the engagement several months ago was made at a charming tea given by Mrs. Hamilton Merchland in Oak Knoll, and the wedding also another affair given in honor of the engagement of her sister, Mrs. Harold Rudolph Gerard.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Chamois and Doeskin

Chamois leather gloves should be washed in lukewarm suds and rinsed in slightly soapy water or they will dry stiff and hard.

Keep Them Apart

All fruits and vegetables will keep better if laid separately on the shelf. Then the overripe will not contaminate the others nor will one article spoil many more.

Grease the Baking Dish

When using a baking dish or casserole, first butter the inside as you would a cake pan. It will add a bit to the flavor of the contents and cause them to be removed easily from the dish when serving.

The Emergency Shelf

Probably the best way of stretching a meal to provide for unexpected guests is to reach into that reserve shelf and serve soup and plenty of crackers as a first course. Then if the meat seems scanty, cut it in the kitchen and if need be, serve it on buttered toast. One always has a store of potatoes and from our shelf we add a can of tomatoes to help out with the fresh vegetables we had already planned. Hot baking powder biscuits are a matter of five minutes. A can of asparagus tips may be opened and served on lettuce with French dressing for a salad course. On our shelf is a choice of canned fruit and preserves and with a tin of sweet crackers make a very nice dessert, making in all a plentiful dinner with no worry and wondering on the part of the housewife.

A Real Pleasure To Iron Clothes

ALL drawbacks to the easy, satisfactory ironing of shirts, soft collars and other personal wash materials have now been overcome with Linit, the new starch discovery. Linit is a new starch—distinctly different from ordinary starches.

After Linit is thoroughly dissolved according to directions and is ready for use, it is THIN and FREE-RUNNING like water—with a "milky" appearance.

USE Linit according to directions, and, unlike other starches, you will not find Linit stiff or jelly-like. This is why Linit goes much farther than the old-fashioned kinds of starch, and is much easier to iron with.

You will be delighted with the soft, pliable, linen finish Linit gives even to ordinary cotton fabrics.

Linit penetrates the fabric, helps prevent wear, and prolongs the life of the material.

LARGE GAIN IN ACCIDENT CASES

Receiving Hospital Treats 58,313 in Year

Number of Traffic Victims More Than Double

Total Includes 244 Persons Who Tried Suicide

A constantly swelling list of motor vehicle accidents made the year from July, 1923, to June 30, last, the busiest the Receiving Hospital has ever known.

A total of 58,313 victims of accidents of every nature received treatment at this hospital during this period, according to a report submitted yesterday by Chief Nurse Whitehead. This total was in excess of that attained in the fiscal year preceding by approximately 7000 cases.

The number of traffic victims to receive attention at the emergency hospital during the year was 9270. This was more than double the number treated during the fiscal year from July 1, 1922, to June 30, 1923. The total number of traffic victims to reach the hospital that year was 4328.

MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENTS

Motorcycle accidents contributed 449 cases to the total during the twelve months and street railway accidents sent another 1175 victims to the hospital for attention. The number of motorcycle and street railway accidents last year bettered the best figures of the preceding year by substantial margins.

Only in accidental poisonings and food poisoning cases did the hospital fail to better the grisly totals it set at the end of the 1923 fiscal year, the high-water mark up to that time. Only sixty-nine food-poisoning victims received attention at the emergency hospital the year just past, as compared to 148 in the year preceding. The accidental poisoning cases also reached a total of sixty-nine this year, but 117 in the preceding twelve months.

Further analysis of Chief Nurse Whitehead's report shows 225 bicycle accident cases treated, as compared to ninety in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, and 304 persons injured while cranking automobiles, as compared to 253 in the preceding fiscal year.

OTHERS TREATED

In addition the small staff treated 344 persons who sought to end their lives, 278 suffering from gunshot wounds, 144 who were stabbed, 1770 men and women injured in industrial accidents, 824 who were bitten by dogs and forty-five suffering from delirium tremens.

Children suffered heavily during the year, the report further reveals. Sixteen, ranging in age from 1 to 16, were brought in dead, sixteen more were shot and wounded while playing with firearms, 499 were bitten by dogs, and 898 were included among the total of those injured in traffic.

The hospital is manned by a staff of ten police surgeons headed by Dr. Goodrich and twenty nurses, eleven male and nine female.

ADVERTISING AGENCY PICKS ASSISTANT AIDE

E. C. Anderson, known in the national advertising field, has been made assistant manager of the advertising agency of Hammel, Sutphen & Co., Inc., according to announcement yesterday. His elevation to this position was due, it is stated, to the increasing business of the firm, which made it necessary to relieve Max J. Hammel, general manager, of a large part of the office detail. Mr. Anderson formerly was with one of the largest clothing houses of the country, having occupied the post of sales promotion manager. He also held the same position with the Connecticut Telephone and Electrical Company. He came to Los Angeles a year ago and has been with Hammel, Sutphen & Co. during that period. Col. J. W. UTILITIES BUYING MORE OIL

Brundige Traces Connection of Industries Before Meeting of Chamber of Mines Here

California's public utilities are among the most important customers of the petroleum industry of the State, according to Harley W. Brundige, State Railroad Commissioner, who was the principal speaker at a luncheon of the Chamber of Mines and Oil yesterday.

Gas and electric companies operating in the State will consume a total of 14,500,000 barrels of fuel oil during 1924, according to Mr. Brundige, who asserted that this figure represents an increase of about 7,000,000 barrels over consumption for 1923, due to abnormal power conditions.

"Regulation of public utilities in California is closely associated or tied in with the petroleum industry, and any fluctuation in the production or price of oil is reflected immediately in the rates and service of a number of the chief utilities of the State," Mr. Brundige said.

WOULD INCREASE BILL

"This is best illustrated by the fact that the Railroad Commission for the last two years has kept in effect a sliding scale of rates for manufactured gas and steam heating service, based on the prevailing price of fuel oil.

"All rates for manufactured gas, which is produced from oil, are automatic at the present time, the rate varying on the basis of approximately 2.1 cents per 1000 cubic feet for each 10 cents increase or decrease in the price of oil per barrel. An increase of 25 cents per barrel in oil will automatically result in an increase in the public's bill for gas service in California by $1,150,000 per year.

"In this connection, however, it is interesting to observe that the cost of regulated fuels in California has not increased in the same ratio that unregulated necessities of life increased.

"The fuel bill for the electric utilities of California in 1924, due to increase in the price of oil and increased use due to dry year conditions will be approximately $10,000,000 greater than in 1923.

OTHERS SPEAK

Chester Brown, director of the Union Oil Company, was toastmaster. A. B. MacBeth, general manager of the Southern California Gas Company, spoke briefly.

L. S. Ready, chief engineer of the State Railroad Commission in a short discussion of regulation of corporations, pointed out that where competition is keen, regulation seldom is found necessary.

L. P. St. Clair of the Union Oil Company, in discussing the relationship of the petroleum industry with public utilities, expressed the opinion that the industry should always hold itself ready to aid public utilities to the utmost in any emergency, but added that public utilities should not expect this co-operation without being willing to pay a fair price for it.

WOMAN PLEADS GUILTY IN BANK FRAUD CASE

Mabel Edna O'Brien pleaded guilty yesterday in Judge Burke's department of the Superior Court to manipulating an inactive account in the bank in which she was employed and obtaining $600 in this manner. She declared, however, she was driven to do this so that she might have funds for feeding and clothing her baby, and applied for probation. Action on the application for probation will be taken on August 11.

Tiny Spotlight Aid to Actor in Make-up Work

Science has invaded the dressing-room.

Make-up, which, next to acting, requires all the skill at a thespian's command, has now a mechanical ally in a spotlight-mirror which Lou Tellegen introduces to America.

The device was presented to Mr. Tellegen by a French scientist when the star was playing opposite the late Sarah Bernhardt. Mr. Tellegen has received it from France only recently, whence it was sent with other personal effects which he requested from his Paris residence.

It is a semimicroscopic reflecting glass with a microscopic lens inserted in a cut-out on the bottom. This combination or spotlight within a mirror is mounted on a brass stand. An electric globe is adjusted in back of the mirror, the light projecting only through the spotlight lens onto the actor's physiognomy. When other lights in the room are eliminated, the full effect of this device is complete and most helpful.

Mr. Tellegen suggests that such a make-up stand would be an asset on milady's dressing table, but unfortunately there is not another like it in America. As a precautionary measure B. P. Schulberg, in whose production of "A Breath of Scandal" the star is now appearing with Betty Blythe, at the F.B.O. studio, had the spotlight-mirror fastened to a dressing table on the set and insured against breakage.

Ramon Castro Dies at 108; Active to Last

Born in Mexico 108 years ago, Ramon Castro, who lived in Los Angeles sixty-nine years and worked at hard labor until the last weeks of his life, died Tuesday afternoon at his home at 3328 East Thirty-eighth street.

When Ramon Castro first came from Mexico the little house in which he died was miles away from the city, then hardly more than a few adobe houses clustering about the Plaza. Today great industrial buildings crowd the modest home from every side and the noise of traffic and industry envelops the old man in his quiet sleep. He was a farmer and he lived to see street cars, automobiles and many-storied structures of brick and concrete cover the lands he had plowed. In the later years of his life he worked as a gardener and this with other heavy work occupied him until a few days before his death.

He left as descendents one son and two daughters, seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Cunningham & O'Connor have charge of the funeral arrangements. The services will be conducted at the Castro home at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

EXPERTS WILL SPEAK AT HUT CELEBRATION

Hut night will be celebrated tomorrow night at the California Hut, 1026 South Figueroa street, with an interesting program. M. E. Applebaum, salesmanship head of La Salle Extension University, will speak on "Personal Efficiency and Salesmanship," and Porter Blanchard, president of the Arts and Crafts Society of Southern California, will discuss the production of handicraft. Disabled veterans of the war, assisted by the board of directors of the Hut, will act as hosts during the evening. A musical and entertainment program will follow the addresses. The public is invited to attend.

OPENING OF BALLROOM AT BEACH POSTPONED

The opening of the new La Monica ballroom on Santa Monica pier has been postponed on account of light and power shortage, it was announced yesterday. The directors of the pier and building have arranged for the building of a private lighting plant to take care of both ballroom and pier, and this will take several days to install. The new ballroom, one of the largest and most elaborate along the ocean front, was to have opened tonight. The new opening date will be announced in a few days. Don Clark's orchestra of twenty pieces will play for the opening night.

How to Make a Wonderful Summer Drink at Home!

A real drink. Refreshing! Invigorating! Gratefully different from the usual cloying, sugary warm weather beverages. For relief from wilting hot days try Newmark's Iced Coffee.

If you've tried iced coffee before and didn't like it, your drink must have been improperly prepared. There's no more delicious refreshment than Newmark's Iced Coffee, made this way—

...To be served cold, coffee should be stronger than usual. To use the ordinary mild blend of coffee means an unsatisfactory cold drink. But Newmark's has a slightly heavier body—a heartier flavor—than most coffees. So take one heaping tablespoonful of Newmark's Coffee for every glass—and one for the pot. Brew the coffee in your favorite way. Let it cool about two minutes and then pour slowly from pot to a glass nearly filled with ice. Add cream and sugar to taste.

Another Way—

Mixing in a shaker produces a smoother drink—topped with an appetizing foam.

Make This Coffee Syrup—

A clever hostess will keep this coffee syrup in the icebox so she can quickly mix Coffee Milk Shake, Coffee Egg Nogg, Coffee Malted Milk and other refreshing drinks. Use this recipe and your coffee syrup will keep indefinitely.

One pound of Newmark's coffee and 1¾ quarts of water—brewed by any favorite method—strained—mixed with 3½ pounds of sugar—brought to a boil and kept boiling 2 or 3 minutes. When boiling, pour into sterilized bottles and seal air-tight.

....FREE RECIPE BOOKLET....

Use this coffee syrup as the foundation for many delicious summer drinks. Write to NEWMARK BROS., 310 East 1st St., Los Angeles, for free booklet of "Iced Coffee Recipes" prepared by MRS. IDA C. BAILEY ALLEN.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS OF THE GULBRANSEN REGISTERING PIANO BY A NOTED ARTIST

RUTH PITTS
One of California's Leading Concert Soloists

I shall never forget the day I was first asked to sing in concert with the Gulbransen Registering Piano.

Any singer appreciates the importance and support of good accompanying. Up to that time, I thought good accompanying could be done only by skilled pianists.

My skepticism was used as an excuse for not wanting to sing. But being assured that I need feel no hesitancy on account of the accompaniment, I consented to a try out.

I am perfectly willing to go on record and say here what I have said many times before, "I do not think it humanly possible to play a better accompaniment than was played for me on the Gulbransen Registering Piano." It was a revelation to me to learn that individual touch could be registered; and the musical possibilities seemed unlimited.

Ruth Pitts

You too, will be convinced when you hear the Gulbransen Registering piano. Come in at any time for a special demonstration.

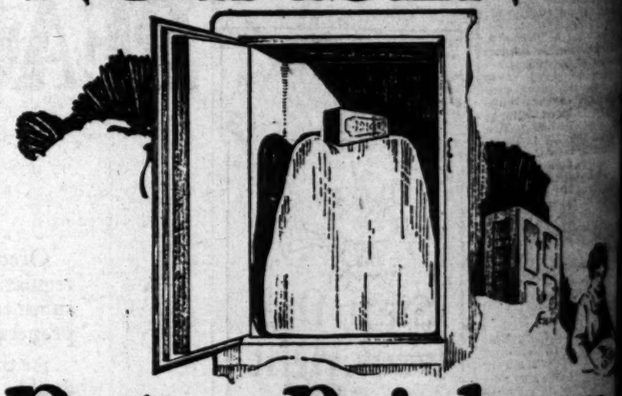
NOTASEME



Put a Brick on Ice!

Did you ever try it? Put a common brick on ice. Leave it there for over night—then take it out and see how long it will stay cold. The brick will stay chilled for a great many hours. That same principle applies to the lining of a NOTASEME REFRIGERATOR. This lining is of stone composition. When it is once chilled it stays that way of itself. Even if the Ice Box is opened a number of times in an hour the temperature is kept low because of the cold stone lining. For this reason the ice melts very slowly. One piece of ice lasts twice as long as in the old fashioned ice box.

Every corner in a NOTASEME is rounded. No dirt can collect in these rounded corners. The NOTASEME is most sanitary.

LASKY HOME SOON

PARAMOUNT COMPANIES ARE ACTIVE

By Grace Kingsley

Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president of Famous Players-Lasky, is to arrive in New York from Europe within a day or two. He will probably have some interesting announcements to make, especially in regard to the exciting question as to who will play "Peter Pan." Mr. Lasky will probably stay in New York a week or ten days, after which he will make a visit to the Coast.

In the meantime, interesting things are doing at the Paramount studios here, though some of the stars and directors are taking well-earned vacations.

Cecil De Mille left yesterday for a three weeks' cruise among the Santa Barbara Channel islands in his schooner yacht Seaward. His itinerary ranges from Catalina and Clemente islands to Santa Barbara Rock and Santa Cruz Island. While the major part of the time will be devoted to rest and fishing, some attention will be given preparation for making "The Golden Bed," which Mr. De Mille will film in New York this fall. Jeanie MacPherson has adapted the Wallace Irwin story.

Jacqueline Logan, who recently arrived in New York from the west coast, has been signed to play the leading feminine role opposite Richard Dix in "Manhattan." The picture will be put into production soon at the Long Island studios under the direction of R. H. Burnside. It will be Dix's first starring picture for Famous Players-Lasky.

Will Hays isn't particularly strong for snappy titles and a number of pictures throughout the industry have been renamed at his request. Whether Hays had anything to do with the change in the name of "The Cafe of Fallen Angels" or not, certain it is that the title has been changed to "A Drama of the Night," in which Ricardo Cortez has the principal male role. James Cruze having completed the picture is vacationing at his home in Flintridge. His next production will be "The Beautiful Adventuress."

Irvin Willat, with his wife, Billie Dove, returned yesterday from New York City, where Willat has just finished directing "A Story Without a Name," which cofeatured Antonio Morena and Agnes Ayers. Willat is now working on "North of 36," by the late Emerson Hough, who wrote "The Covered Wagon." The director is to look over possible locations in Arizona and Texas, and production will start in two or three weeks.

There is no vacation for Betty Compson, Adolphe Menjou, Elliott Dexter or Zasu Pitts. They just sit around and talk about all the places they are going to visit when the William De Mille picture, "The Fast Set," is completed.

Sailing around Catalina Island is the pleasant way in which Herbert Brenon and his company are combining business with pleasure these days. "The Alaskan" water stuff is being made at present, with Estelle Taylor and Thomas Meighan in the principal roles.

Joseph Hanbery is to direct Thomas Meighan in his next starring picture for Paramount, "Tongues of Flame." The picture will be made in New York.

Paul Bern has completed "Open All Night," featuring Viola Dana, Jetta Goudal, Adolphe Menjou, Raymond Griffith, Lefty Flynn and Gale Henry. Bern is going to take a week's vacation before starting other work.

SARA SOTHERN WILL TRAVEL TO LONDON

It looks as though Sara Sothern is going to have a very busy season. Miss Sothern is visiting her parents at Woodlawn, but hourly expects a telegram calling her to London, where she is to play her original role, which she created here at the Majestic of the little lame girl in Channing Pollock's play, "The Fool."

Miss Sothern is under contract to the Shuberts, who produced "The Fool" in New York, with the young actress scoring a tremendous hit. Since that time she has received many offers, but has refused everything in order to remain in the Channing Pollock play.

Channing Pollock has a new drama called "The Enemy," which he wrote recently during a visit in Austria, and which is to be produced in New York some time during the coming season. While writing it, he retired to a monastery where the brotherhood held no converse. Anybody who writes will immediately envy the playwright this opportunity.

Wallace Beery Engaged

Wallace Beery, who is so busy villaining in pictures these days that he finds it easy to keep out of mischief in real life, has been engaged to play a leading heavy role in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production of "The Great Divide."

Al Christie Goes Abroad

It seems a dull year to Al Christie when he doesn't go abroad. Yet he's not a drinking man either, never touches a drop. He has been home only a few weeks from Europe, when lo and behold he announces that he is leaving today for the other side.

In England Christie means to take pictures of Oxford. Don't worry. He isn't turning high-brow. It is merely in the interests of making correct sets and giving the right atmosphere to "Charlie's Aunt" that the pictures are to be taken.

Bert Lytell With Caldwell

Harry Caldwell doesn't mean to do anything by halves in his new production. Therefore, just by way of starting off right in the making of "Fifty Years From Now," he has signed up Bert Lytell for the leading role.

Victor Halperin a Dad

Victor Halperin may be said to have now a double right to the title of producer. Not only is he head of Victor Hugo Halperin Productions in the films, but he is a fond dad. A little daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Halperin last week.

She Was Always Saucy

The fact that Margaret Livingston is to play a zippy role in "The Follies Girl," her first starring production for Regal productions, recalls the fact that she was always just as saucy as she looks and acts in her pictures.

It was when Margaret was doing her first picture, playing an extra under direction of John Griffith Wray, that the director, in a kidding spirit said to the bashful looking but not really bashful Margaret—

"Well, well little girl, who told you you could act?"

Margaret's eyes snapped as she retorted:

"The same one who told you you could direct!"

Virginia Valli Ill

Word is just received that Virginia Valli, playing the leading role in M. C. Levee's production "In Every Woman's Life," is very ill and confined to her home.

It was while making some scenes the other day, that Miss Valli was suddenly stricken, and found it necessary to be taken home, where she was at once put to bed. She will not be able to resume work for a week at least.

Here and There

Marguerite Courtot, wife of Raymond McKee, has just returned from a lengthy vacation trip to her New Jersey home.

Harry Todd, eccentric comedian, who scored heavily in his two recent appearances in the Hoot Gibson troupe at Universal City, is playing a character role in Gibson's newest feature, "The Cactus Kid."

George K. Arthur both wrote and will play the lead in a Unity production to be made at the Grand-Asher studios.

Clarence H. Geldert is playing the doctor in 'Oh, Doctor," Reginald Denny's newest Universal-Jewel starring vehicle, from Harry Leon Wilson's story. Martha Mattox likewise has an important role.

Frankie Mann and Max Asher have been added to the cast of the newest Leah Baird production.

Jack Mulhall has returned from New York, and has been cast in the B. P. Schulberg production, "The Breath of Scandal."

Dot Farley Signs

Dot Farley, for years a Sennett comedienne, has won another big comedy part following rapidly upon her recent successes in "Listen Lester," and "Vanity's Price." It is the contrasting note in the forthcoming Novak-Fairbanks production for Waldorf as yet untitled and will be a distinct variation from Miss Farley's recent portrayals of Ben Turpin's mother in "Romeo and Juliet" and the leading feminine parts in Witwer's classics in slang series.

Wally and Doris Travel

After one has completely packed one's baggage for a vacation trip to a cold climate, it is most exasperating to have to unpack, then begin all over again for a trip to a warmer place.

Doris May, wife of Wallace MacDonald, packed her trunks last week to accompany friend husband on a location tour. Furs and heavy undies, went into proper places, while suits and coats were not forgotten. For Wally, playing a featured role in Hunt Stromberg's "Roaring Rails," was all set to visit Klamath Falls, Or., on a location trip. And he promised Doris that she might go with him.

Then rapid changes in location schedules followed. Stromberg decided to send his company to Barstow. Then he changed again, and yesterday, after many indecisive moments, the troupe left for Victorville.

The MacDonalds will be absent from Hollywood about ten days, during which time they will also visit Big Bear and Pine Crest.

Ruth Roland's Cast

Ruth Roland has selected an unusual all-star cast to support her in her first feature-length picture which is called "Out Where the Worst Begins."

Matt Moore, Roy Stewart, Alec Francis, Grace Darmond, Derelys Perdue and Theodore Lorch comprise the supporting cast. Jack McDermott is directing and the photography is in the hands of Byron Haskell. Miss Faith Thomas is in charge of production.

ADELE ROWLAND ON NEW ORPHEUM BILL

The big event at the Orpheum Monday will be the return to vaudeville of Adele Rowland (Mrs. Conway Tearle) in her own home town. Miss Rowland is a musical comedy star of beauty, style and ability, and has been a prime favorite in New York shows. In vaudeville she will be found still more delightful in that she has selected her own material, and will put it over without the hampering background of a company.

Also on the bill is to be noted the return of Harry Carroll and his revue troupe, including Linda, Zelma O'Neal, Joe Donohue, and his crop of pretty girls, who will be brought back from the north for a second season.

Enhancing Presentation of Farce

Nina Romano

Appearing in "The Whole Town's Talking," the John Emerson-Anita Loos Comedy in its second week at the Playhouse.

"NERVOUS WRECK" IN THIRD WEEK OF RUN

Although now in its third week there is no let up in the interest being shown in Owen Davis's farce comedy, "The Nervous Wreck," for the Majestic continues to be crowded at each performance.

Perhaps most of the attraction lies in the fact that Edward Everett Horton is playing the leading role. The return of this clever comedian has struck a popular chord with theater patrons who have long admired him for his previous excellent work at this house.

Barbara Gurney, who is making her first appearance at the Majestic, is excellent in the role opposite Horton, and a well-selected cast gives the principals splendid support.

PARTNERS AT WORK ON NEW SCENARIO

Arthur Statter, secretary of the Screen Writers' Guild, and Mary Alice Scully, who recently formed a partnership, are now doing their fourth script. Miss Scully, who is a well-known magazine writer and also a member of the Guild, has recently taken up screen work, while Mr. Statter is one of the oldest continuity writers in the profession, having entered the motion-pictury industry while both were still in their infancy. His most recent release is "Those Who Dance"—an Ince production, preparation for which required Mr. Statter to read over twenty pages of Commissioner Haynes' report on prohibition in order to describe the scenes in the picture with authenticity.

WILSON FINISHES LATEST PRODUCTION

"The Feud's End," the second special of a series which marks the reunion of a well-known screen team of former days, Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber, has just been completed. This is an original by William E. Wing. It wil be shipped to New York in a few days.

The first of the specials, "Vic Dyson Pays," was reported a 100 per cent attraction from the box office standpoint by the eastern office. It was written especially for Mr. Wilson and Miss Gerber by Mr. Wing, who has also completed the synopsis for the third of the series.

Alice Gentle Bowl Soloist This Evening

Returning to delight music lovers with the charm of her voice and personality, Alice Gentle, dramatic soprano, features tonight's program at the Hollywood Bowl and one of the biggest crowds of the season is expected. Miss Gentle's reputation is world-wide and her popularity here is increasing with each fresh appearance.

Tonight she will sing two of her favorites, the "Pace mio Dio," from Verdi's "Force of Destiny," and the "Serenade," by Richard Strauss. She will be accompanied by the orchestra of 100 musicians under the direction of Alfred Hertz.

Also featured on the program is the orchestral presentation of Tschaikowsky's "Caprice Italien." This is the only Tschaikowsky composition which Hertz has arranged for this week. Other numbers are the Thomas overture, "Mignon;" Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun," and Grainger's "Molly on the Shore."

CHANGES INCREASE APPEAL OF COMEDY

Very much changed from its original presentation just one-half year ago, "White Collars," under the personal supervision of the author, Edith Ellis, has been made even more impressive. Considerable money has been spent in order to accomplish this in the matter of scenic equipment and in its new form it is continuing to delight large audiences at the Egan Theater.

The acting in "White Collars" is splendid, collectively and singly, the ensemble playing of the company being exceptionally well done, but after all, the success of this comedy depends not so much on the individual efforts as on teamwork. The author has attended to her share of the task with rare skill and the cast does the rest. Among the company will be found Craig Ward, Dian Esmonde, Ross Forrester, Marvel Quivey, Blanche Douglas, Zellah Covington, Betty Sinclair, Stuart Erwin and Alfred Arnold.

SEND PICTURE BY AIR

New Metropolitan Feature to Arrive Tomorrow from New York

Negotiating in thirty-six hours a transcontinental journey that ordinarily requires five days, "The Side Show of Life," the first motion-picture film to be shipped from New York to the Coast by the new airplane mail service, arrives in San Francisco this afternoon and will be relayed to Los Angeles tonight, arriving in the morning.

Grauman's Metropolitan Theater, which will run the picture, beginning Saturday, is the first to benefit by the utilization of the air-mail service for the shipment of motion-picture films. Had it not been for this service it would have been necessary for the theater to secure another picture, as it would have been impossible to reach Los Angeles from New York in time to make the schedule had it been shipped by regular railway mail service.

BETTY COMPSON TO REMAIN IN MISSION

"White Shadows," written directly for the screen by Michael Morton and simmering with action backgrounded by the scenic beauty of rural England, London, Paris and Switzerland, presents Betty Compson in a dual role at the Mission Theater, where this popular star will begin the second week of a successful run Saturday.

Johnnie Fox, Jr., in a Jack White comedy, "About Face," furnishes plenty of laughs, a scenic of unusual interest, "Facing Death in the Alps" adds its quota of colorful entertainment, while Leon Strashun's orchestra furnishes music lovers with a satisfying picture score and concert numbers.

TEMPERATURE LOW AT CRITERION MATINEES

The initial "67-degree matinee" will be held tomorrow at the Criterion Theater and will be a daily feature thereafter.

The cooling system of the theater will be in full swing, keeping it at an even temperature far below the heat of midday, greatly enhancing the time spent in the comfortable chairs traveling with the "Sea Hawk" through his many glorious adventures at sea.

JUDGE VOICES DISAPPROVAL

Says Politics Played Part in Prisoner's Release

Favors Two-thirds Verdicts by Juries

Talks on Other Topics of Public Interest

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ONTARIO, July 16.—Superior Judge Jesse Olney branded the act of admitting John E. Huling to bail as a "political move," in an address this afternoon before members of the Lions Club at Hotel Casa Blanca.

Huling, a Los Angeles business man, convicted three months ago as an accomplice of Fred E. Alford in defrauding the city of Ontario of more than $30,000, and sentenced to serve a term of from one to ten years in San Quentin, has appealed to the higher courts.

Two attempts of the convicted man to secure release on bail, while awaiting the decision of the State courts, were denied by Judge Olney, but he was admitted to bail in the amount of $10,000 by Judge Warmer and freed last night, when relatives posted the required amount.

Judge Olney declared himself as strongly in favor of the "two-thirds" jury, which was opposed in a speech before the Lions Club by Judge Warmer a week ago. In this regard, he again cited the Huling case. He declared that save for the action of the presiding judge (himself) in refusing to dismiss the jury until they had reached a verdict, the Huling case would have resulted in a disagreement, since two members of the trial jury had apparently made up their minds to acquit the defendant at the start, and refused to change until it became clear that only through voting for conviction could they obtain release.

The speaker declared a move to add a third judge to handle the business of San Bernardino county Superior Courts, to be a "political scheme," and asserted that the proposed appointment of a public defender for the county would be a needless expense. In closing Judge Olney stated that while the new county tax rate, to be made public August 1, would indicate a decrease, taxes in reality would be higher on account of a boost in assessed valuations, particularly in the Ontario section.

BUILD NEW BRIDGE

Material for Improvement Now on the Ground

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SAN FERNANDO, July 16.—The first of the material for use in the construction of the new bridge across Pacoima wash on San Fernando Road was being delivered on the ground today preparatory for an immediate start on the building of the bridge.

Travel during the progress of work will not be interrupted, as two detours have already been provided for the accommodation of the traffic. The razing of the old structure will blot out the last of memories running back to the days before the horseless carriage was known, this bridge having originally been erected for the accommodation of teams and wagons and being so narrow in width that it was difficult for two machines to pass on it. The new bridge will have a width of fifty feet and will be 130 feet in length, consisting of two concrete spans. In type and composition the new structure will be a replica of the one just constructed across Pacoima wash on the San Fernando-Pasadena State highway at Mulholland street.

STORK AIDS GROWTH OF CITY OF REDLANDS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

REDLANDS, July 16.—Redlands is growing rapidly, according to the reports just made by City Clerk C. P. Hook on vital statistics for the fiscal year just closed.

There were twenty-one births in the city of Redlands in the month of June and eight deaths, showing a gain in population for that month of at least thirteen.

There were 123 births the first six months of this year here and sixty-seven deaths, better than two to one.

There were 226 births during the fiscal year and 151 deaths. There has been but one death certificate filed since July 1. Of the deaths only thirteen were of children under 1 year of age.

NAVY DEPARTMENT IS GOOD SPENDER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, July 16.—During the last year the Bureau of Yards and Docks of the Navy Department expended $1,197,447 in permanent improvements in the local naval establishment, according to a report issued by Commodore Dewitt C. Webb, public works officer of the Eleventh Naval District. The work completed included building, dredging, road work and service lines and mooring mast, as well as hydrographic and topographic surveys.

NO MYSTERY IN DEATH OF WOMAN

Officials Satisfied Mental Depression Led to Self Destruction

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

WHITTIER, July 16.—No inquest is to be held over the body of Mrs. Mary E. Lawrence, who came to her tragic death by a gunshot wound at her home in North La Habra Heights Tuesday morning.

After hearing the testimony of Chief Bright and other members of the homicide squad, the statement of Constable Robert B. Way of Whittier, and the findings of Deputy Autopsy Surgeon F. R. Webb, Coroner Nance released the body from further investigation, and the husband will accompany the remains to Napa, Idaho, tomorrow afternoon.

The Lawrences came to California only a few weeks ago from Iowa, Mr. Lawrence being employed on the R. L. Reynolds ranch at North La Habra Heights. At the time of the suicide, Mrs. Lawrence was alone in the house, having sent their 3-year-old son Earl into the garden to gather some tomatoes. The husband was plowing only a short distance away, when he heard two shots fired.

On reaching the house, according to his story, he found the wife on the bedroom floor, the upper part of her head blown off with the discharge from a shotgun, held at close range. Constable Way of Whittier was notified and had the maimed body brought to the White & Emerson mortuary at Whittier, where later the autopsy was held. Mental depression is thought to be the cause of the tragedy.

The outfit, all ready to be set up and put in operation, was found today hidden among the trees in an out-of-the-way spot in the canyon between Elmwood and Verdugo. DRUG USERS DIE

Drive Against Addicts Results in Suffering and Death

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, July 16.—Two persons are dead, a dozen or more are undergoing treatment at the County General Hospital and more than a score of narcotic addicts and peddlers are serving terms in the County Jail ranging from sixty days upward, as the result of a drive against addicts and peddlers conducted here in the last few days by State officers, assisted by the local police.

The dead were narcotic users who succumbed in jail after being denied the stimulants they craved. Those in the hospital are serving terms but have been transferred to the hospital because of suffering entailed as the result of their confinement.

Dr. Herbert O. Collins, superintendent of the General Hospital, today appealed to the Police Court to sentence addicts to the hospital, but was told that under the law it could not be done. Arrangements have been made, however, to remove prisoners from the jail to the hospital for treatment if necessary.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

VAN NUYS, July 16.—According to W. P. Whitsett, newly confirmed member of the Los Angeles public service commission, potato growers in San Fernando valley are this season receiving more than interest on $1000 per acre for their land. He cites the experience of his own fifty-acre potato patch in verification. The crop is now being harvested, the field yielding approximately 125 sacks per acre. These are graded before shipment and are today being shipped at the rate of a carload daily to supply the markets of the northern part of the State. For these as high as $2.25 per sack is being received. In the grading process the small ones are cast out and sold for local consumption and any that are unfit for table use are thrown away. The result of this grading is to give an output that commands the top price.

RECKLESS DRIVER GOES TO PRISON

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ORANGE, July 16.—Startled by the sentence, which he apparently expected to be lighter, George Wright, Villa Park youth, was today sentenced to serve a term of from one to three years at San Quentin for driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Wright was sentenced by Superior Judge R. Y. Williams, before whom he pleaded guilty to the charge at his hearing last week.

Completely taken aback by the prison sentence when he apparently had anticipated a County Jail sentence, the youth made a fruitless plea for probation after judgment had been pronounced. The court refused to consider his pleading, maintaining that the offense was grave enough to warrant the prison sentence.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OXNARD, July 16.—Suit has been filed against the Sloan Seed Company by Mrs. Mary McLoughlin Borchard of Oxnard, for the recovery of $1760 which she says is due her in part payment for a lease.

The company, which last year leased sixty acres of land from Mrs. Borchard and opened offices in this city, planned extensive development in this section. Other lands were acquired by the company. The suit was instituted in Superior Court at Ventura.

He filed a writ of attachment in the local Justice Court, as a result the three laboratories and the office in the First National Bank Building here are locked, and are in the possession of Constable Henry Helmold, pending the outcome of the case.
